10 Nuns in Danger.
The Moon and Radio.
Americans Really Fly.
He Killed a White Boy.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CHINESE BRIGANDS who recently murdered two female Protestant missionaries, when ransom was refused, now hold for ransom ten nuns and demand $10,000,000 Mexican, for their release.

To pay the gigantic ransom would put in danger every missionary and other foreigners.

To refuse means, probably, the death of the devoted and unfortunate Catholic sisters.

Unless the nations have lost capacity to get excited about anything, they will do somethnig about that.

ON THE SOUTH Pacific island of Niaufou, where scientists were successful in photographing the eclipse, this strange thing happened. As the moon passed between earth and sun, shutting out light, it also shut out whatever it is that enables us to send radio messages. While the eclipse lasted the radio would not work over the Pacific. Scientists could send no radio messages.

That would interest Zoroaster, who taught men to worship the sun.

KINGSFORD-SMITH flew the Atlantic, the Pacific and now having flown from London to Australia, announces in the city of Brisbane that he makes long distance flights no more.

He obeys the orders of a young woman soon to be his wife.

FLYING INCREASES in the United States. And big companies led by United Aircraft constantly develop bigger, better planes.

President Hoover, in co-operation with the Postmaster General, is in all proper ways compelling planes that carry United States mails to carry passengers, and to have adequate passenger equipment.

THE LUDDINGTON line runs planes every hour, on the hour, between New York and Washington in one hour and 50 minutes, carrying about 1,500 passengers daily.

Using ordinary gasoline at 10½ cents a gallon, the line carries 10 passengers to Washington at 105 miles an hour for $3.28 worth of fuel.

That's something for railroad presidents to think about.

MR. LARRY HOGAN, colored light heavyweight, is a hard hitter and locks it. He fought with Carl Baldus, white, to make money for himself, and for politicians and other leeches that bleed prize fighting as other rackets are bled.

Mr. Hogan, colored, left the ring, expressing sincere sorrow.

Carl Baldus, the white man, was carried out, dead.

EVIDENTLY NOT in good physical condition to earn money for promoters, he collapsed and died in the third round.

Mr. Hogan, held on a "technical" charge of manslaughter, was released next day.

If it hadn't been a prize fight and Hogan had hit Baldus in the street and killed him, Hogan would go to jail.

But it's "something else" when a thing happens in prize fighting, organized to enrich gangsters and corrupt politicians, and making a jest of the law against assault and battery.

DR. BURGIN, British member of Parliament, has inspected here and doesn't care for us. Says he:

"No country in the world is as hard on their unfortunate and poor as the so-called prosperous continent of America."

And, says he, we don't save, have no thrift or foresight, and our "poor law savors of Prussianism."

Anyhow, we have twenty-five million automobiles running, and more bathtubs in one American city than there are in the whole British Empire.

Let us not be downhearted.

A LEAGUE of Nations report shows that practically all the world's illicit drug trade is centered on the United States, financed here to the tune of millions and has gigantically increased since prohibition came in. It is easier to hide a few ounces of cocaine or morphine than to hide a keg of beer. And a small package of drugs can do more harm than 1,000,000 kegs of beer.

THE GANGSTER politicians and politician gangsters of New York "take things as they come."

Mr. Kresel, investigating conditions on behalf of the high court, finds a $1,000,000 vice ring working the courts of New York City.

The important part of their work is frightening and blackmailing women.

3 ARRESTED OVER BOGUS TICKETS

Seven Fake Pasteboards Bring $50, Others Sought; Speculators Furnish Bail

Three men were arrested in the Oakland district this afternoon by Inspector James N. Hoey in connection with the sale of counterfeit tickets for the Pitt-Notre Dame football game at the Pitt Stadium Saturday as the much-talked-about-spurious pasteboards made their appearance today.

Owing to the fact the police inspector expects other arrests in the case the names of the prisoners were not disclosed.

Hoey said five tickets were turned over to him by a friend, and that after displaying them to Pitt athletic authorities they were pronounced bogus. The investigation that followed resulted in the arrests.

SECOND SEIZURE

The case is the second instance of counterfeit tickets today. Several tickets, confiscated by Hoey ealier in the day, were pronounced spurious.

At the same time Pitt men had picked up seven tickets for which they paid $50. Every one was declared a fake. The counterfeits also made their appearance in other parts of the city.

Describing the "phony" tickets,

Blames Misunderstanding by Martin for Withdrawal Report; Here Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Republican nominee for the United States Senate from Pennsylvania, has about-faced on his announcement that he would not again participate in the state campaign.,

He indicated that Auditor General Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, had misconstrued a statement the secretary made to the chairman concerning his future activity in the campaign.

He said furthermore that there were no differences between himself and Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, and that they would speak from the same platform in Pittsburgh Saturday.

CORRECTS MARTIN

Davis told newspaper correspondents at Washington that what he told Gen. Martin was:

"I told Chairman Martin that because of the unemployment situation my time would be limited and I asked him not to make any definite engagements for me. That did not mean I would not speak in Pennsylva-

BULLETIN.

Forced back by bad weather, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, on tour of inspection of the eastern division of the new Transcontinental and Western Airways route, returned to Bettis airport at 2:58 p. m. The famous flyer encountered fog, rain and sleet on the trip to Columbus, it was reported. He turned back at Cambridge, O.

By AL GOUGH
Sun-Telegraph Aviation Editor

(Mr. Gough was the only Pittsburgh newspaperman to accompany Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his trail-blazing flight today over the new trans-continental air mail route from Newark to Pittsburgh.)

Battling a blinding blizzard on his flight from Newark air terminal, New York, to Pittsburgh, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh set his tri-motored plane down at Bettis airport this afternoon on the last leg of an inspection tour of the eastern division of the new Transcontinental and Western Airways, laughed at the elements, and took off again with three fellow pilots, a New York newspaperman and two sound news reel operators.

ALL SORTS OF WEATHER

It was a thrilling flight over from New York—a preview of the new airways—and a real experience in flying with a pilot who "knows how."

There was all sorts of weather. Begining at 8:40 o'clock this morning it was fog; then smoky haze; then snow, and finally snow and sleet.

For 15 minutes the "lone eagle" circled over Pittsburgh and its environs, the blinding blizzard blotting out the ground and making landing impossible.

LINDY A BIT PEEVISH

At Bettis Airport a crowd of 300 or more men, women and children stood in the rain and sleet to catch a glimpse of "Lindy"—the man who made aviation history in his epochal flight from New York to Paris.

The weather, conflicting arrangements for the flight, and a too-enthusiastic welcome at Harrisburg made the flying colonel a bit peevish as he set foot on mud-smeared Bettis airport.

He did not respond to the

CRASH TRAPS 3, ONE KILLED

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—One of three trainmen trapped in a cave-in of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad tunnels at Adena, 25 miles southwest of here today, was dead when removed from the shattered caboose at noon. He was identified as Jerry L. Sells, 40, a conductor, of Dillonvale.

Communication with Al Romando, 35, Dillonvale, another trainman, was established a short time before rescue crews reached Sells' body, which had been crushed under stone and dirt.

Romando said he was trapped between boulders and could not move.

The rescue crew said E. E. Duga, 35, Dillonvale, a brakeman, probably was dead, as the caboose had been broken into hundreds of small pieces by the weight of the tunnel roof as it fell. They said Romando would be reached after the removal of about 10 feet of dirt.

Romando said he did not believe he was injured seriously.

FOG, SNOW, RAIN DAY'S WEATHER

Fog, smoke, snow and rain mingled today to give a varied weather menu with the prospect of continued light rain at intervals tonight and tomorrow.

Snow flurries were noted for a half hour shortly before noon. The flakes gave way to rain which partly cleared the pall that overhung the city. The wind movement was only three miles an hour, insufficient to dissipate the haze.

The mercury dropped from 45 to 37 between noon and 1 p. m. A minimum temperature of 40 was predicted for tonight. Similar weather conditions exist throughout the Ohio Valley, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

Second Elopement Of Girl, 15, Success

Balked in their first attempted elopement, Anna May Cruise, 15, high school student, of 2944 Zephyr avenue, and Bruce Campbell, 19, clerk in her father's electrical store, who resides at her home, made a second attempt and were successful. They were married last night in Wellsburg, W. Va., and wired the new home today. They will be forgiven, Mrs. J. Parker Cruise, mother of the girl, said.

YOUTH TRAPPED IN MINE SAVED

When a rope broke by which he was being lowered into an abandoned mine shaft in old Hays borough to rescue a dog, Anthony Cloonan, 18, of 611 Eighteenth avenue, Munhall, plunged 60 feet to the bottom this morning.

Hauled out by city firemen, Cloonan was taken to the Homestead Hospital where it was said he had suffered a fractured ankle and shock.

An unidentified hunter was walking through the woods in the rear of old Calhoun Park, police learned, when his dog fell into the shaft which had been incompletely covered with wild growth.

The hunter secured the aid of Cloonan and four men.

Cloonan volunteered to descend into the shaft and rescue the dog. When down about 10 feet the rope snapped, dropping Cloonan.

He landed beside the dog. Placing the animal in a sack he shouted for his companions to let down the rope. The dog was hoisted to the surface.

Meanwhile, Capt. Michael J. Brown, of No. 20 Engine Company, responded. He let down a 90-foot rope and shouted instructions to Cloonan as to how to tie the rope around his waist. The youth was drawn up and removed to the hospital.

Detectives Organize Fund For Destitute Family

The plight of the Steve Spoorer family, of near Warrendale, consisting of the parents and nine children, the eldest 14, has won the whole-hearted sympathy of county detectives, who discovered their destitution Tuesday.

Today the sleuths started a fund, rented the family a home on the North Side and got permission to use a county truck to remove the household effects from the bleak farm to the new domicile.

The fund started with $50 and more is promised. In addition, George Murren, chief of county detectives, said he would secure work for Spoorer at once.

Meanwhile, the Spoorers today attended funeral services for twin babies, born last June, one of which died Tuesday in the Allegheny General Hospital from undernourishment. The other twin died at birth and was buried in the yard of the farm home at Warrendale because there was no money for a funeral. It was this event that led to the discovery of the family's extreme poverty.

William Sirlin, funeral director, of the North Side, volunteered to exhume the body of the infant at the farm and provide Christian burial for the twins in Holy Name Cemetery, Troy Hill, at 11 o'clock today. Sirlin, when he read of the family's distress, offered to perform the humanitarian service without charge.

Coste 'Romance' Denied in Radio To Wife

PARIS, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Mary Coste, Paris wife of the trans-Atlantic flier, showed the Associated Press a wireless this afternoon she said she had received from the steamship France, about published reports in New York that Coste was bringing an American bride to Paris and that he was not married to the Parisian woman known as his wife.

The message said:

"Reports ridiculous. I am furious about this canard. Tender greetings and kisses. (Signed) "DIEUDONNE."

Police May Donate Day's Pay to Jobless

The 1,300 members of Fort Pitt Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, are contemplating the surrender of one day's salary or any other donation the members care to give to relieve the suffering among the unemployed, it was learned today from Harry Hyer, secretary of the police lodge.

Stork Brings Girl to Bryant Washburn

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Bryant Washburn, stage and screen actor, declared a holiday to celebrate the arrival at the Hollywood Hospital of a six and a half-pound daughter, born yesterday to Mrs. Washburn.

Mrs. Washburn is the former Virginia Vance, screen actress.

Boyd Cuts Off Girl Wife, Wills Caretaker $30,000

The $30,000 comprising the estate of the late Dr. Isaac N. Boyd, 71, of 71 Knox avenue, was bequeathed to Mrs. Frances Monks, who cared for the physician during his illness, it was learned today as the will was probated.

The physician's 17-year-old wife, Mary Louise Boyd, whom he divorced a week before his death, was not mentioned in the will. The young woman has appealed from the divorce decree which was awaraded her late husband.

It was learned from the executor of the estate, George K. Willock, that Mrs. Monks, who lived in the second floor of Boyd's home, nursed the physician during his last illness. The will was dated May 22—two months after Boyd said his wife deserted him.

The will stipulated the estate was to go to Mrs. Monks on condition the woman maintained a home for his half sister, Margaret Burns.

Boyd's divorce suit and a cross suit by his wife bared the short-lived romance of the couple which, according to testimony, began with a streetcar flirtation. After six months of married life the couple agreed their love had cooled.

5 LAWRENCE COUNTY DEMOCRAT CHIEFS BOLT TO PINCHOT

NEW CASTLE MAYOR FOR FORESTER

Judge Hildebrand Switches Also; G. O. P. Nominee Again Scores Atterbury

By E. P. O'BRIEN,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Oct. 23.—Five leading Democrats of Lawrence County enlisted under the banner of Gifford Pinchot, Republican nomiee for governor, today in his swing through Western Pennsylvania.

They are Clarence A. Patterson, of New Castle, state Democratic committeeman and former Lawrence County chairman; Mayor W. H. Gillespie, of New Castle; Judge R. L. Hildebrand; F. M. Davis and Tad Shields, former Democratic county commissioners.

SEE OTHERS BALK

The five, acting as spokesmen, informed Pinchot there were many other Democrats in Lawrence county who would cast their ballots for him at the November election.

Pinchot spoke in the city hall here to several hundred voters while 200 more assembled outside. He continued to assail W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad. He said:

"There may be a lower thing for a man to do than to coerce his employes into voting, but I don't know what it is."

Of election prospects, Pinchot asserted:

"If the upstate vote comes out, there is nothing to this fight, but if it doesn't something serious may happen."

BONNIWELL SPEAKS

Other speakers were Eugene C. Bonniwell, municipal court judge, of Philadelphia, and State Senator George W. Weingartner. Bonniwell predicted that more than half the Democratic votes in the state would go for Pinchot and that Philadelphia's majority for Hemphill, Democratic nominee, would not go over 100,000.

DENIES DRY ISSUE

At the Sterling Club dinner Pinchot made this comment on the dry issue:

"I know you are dry in Butler County. I am dry. Hemphill is anti-dry. But the dry question is not the issue. I pointed out in 1925 that the giant power combine must be throttled or it will throttle us. The situation is plain now to everybody."

At the Court House meeting he said:

"Hemphill is not honest on the prohibition question. The dry question is not going to be settled in the state of Pennsylvania, but in the city of Washington. If he were sincere he would not be the only candidate on the Liberal ticket. He is simply the stalking horse for the public utilities."

NAMES UTILITY

Pleading for the biggest majority that any governor ever received, Pinchot specifically mentioned one public utility company that is included among those he charges to be unfair to the people of Pennsylvania. He said:

"I don't want to go to Harrisburg with my hands tied. I won't have the West Penn back of me or any others of the public utilities that are gouging the people. I want to go to Harrisburg with the power of the people expressed in the biggest majority a governor ever received. But I will make the battle if I only win by one vote."

AGENTS ELECT PITTSBURGHERS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 23.—Kenneth H. Bair, of Greensburg, was named president of the Pennsylvania Association of Insurance Agents at the election yesterday which ended a two-day convention. James W. Barr, of Oil City, was named vice president; Warren R. Roberts, of Bethlehem, vice president; John S. Burwell, Scranton, secretary, and Fred V. Rockey, Harrisburg, treasurer.

Three Pittsburgh men were named directors. They are H. E. McKelvey, W. L. Clark, and John C. McCarthy. Gilbert S. Parnell, of Indiana, James G. Jenkins, of McKeesport, and R. A. S. Pollock, of Washington, also were named directors.

At a banquet Tuesday night, Gov. John S. Fisher, Insurance Commissioner Matthew H. Taggert, Percy H. Goodwin, of San Diego, president of the National Association of Insurance Agents, and Walter H. Bennett, secretary of the national organization, spoke.

Talesmen Called In Murder Trial

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 23.—A special venire of 60 names was drawn for the trial of Joe Rossi, 33, Ashtabula poolroom proprietor, set for November 18, on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of an unidentified foreigner, who was beaten to death with a gas pipe and both ears sheared.

Risks His Child's Life to Get Rum, Fined

John Rafalski, 38, of 3419 Bismark street, who swallowed a potion of disolved match tips in Center avenue station following his arrest by humane agents, was fined $25 in Morals court today.

An agent testified the defendant had sent one of his young children across hazardous Bigelow boulevard to purchase moonshine for him.

PINCHOT SEEKS G. O. P. FUNDS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Bolting Philadelphia G. O. P. chieftains will lose control of the city committee and campaign funds collected for the party if court action planned today by the leaders of the opposing faction is successful.

A bill in equity will be filed in the Common Pleas Court within the next 24 hours seeking to strip the 47 ward leaders, who are working for John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal gubernatorial nominee, instead of for Gifford Pinchot, the nominee of their party, of all control over the Republican city committee and the campaign contributions, according to S. Davis Wilson, manager of Pinchot's Philadelphia campaign.

Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, has reiterated a statement that W. L. Mellon, his predecessor, is supporting Pinchot.

He was asked at a meeting of the Republican Women of Pennsylvania in Hannah Penn House, Philadelphia, to reply to a question from Charles Dorrance, state chairman of the Liberal party, as to when and in what words Mellon indorsed Pinchot. Martin said:

"I'm not noticing Dorrance or what he says. Mr. Mellon has said repeatedly for publication he is for the whole state ticket."

Joan Lowell Freed By Mexican Divorce

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Joan Lowell, authoress, who attracted attention by her book, "Cradle in the Deep," announced here today she had obtained a divorce in Mexico from her husband, Thompson Buchanan, New York playwright. The writer was here to address the Rotary Club.

DAVIS DENIES PINCHOT SPLIT

nia whenever possible. I did not say I would not speak again."

Then, denying that he had bolted Pinchot, Davis said:

"I am going to speak from the same platform with Pinchot in Pittsburgh Saturday night, and I shall stay in the campaign as much as I can until the election day, speaking with Pinchot whenever there is opportunity.

"It will be necessary for me to remain in Washington in connection with the national effort to relieve unemployment for the forepart of this week and for the first day or two of next week.

"Aside from this I can continue the campaign, and I do not understand the reports that there is any disagreement between my associates on the ticket and myself."

Martin, addressing the Republican women of Pennsylvania, had said that Secretary Davis had informed him he was forced to withdraw from the campaign, explaining that President Hoover had asked the secretary to undertake important duties in connection with the unemployment problem.

FEARED FOR TICKET

In Washington political circles it was reported that strong pressure had been brought to bear upon Davis by Republican leaders of Pennsylvania favorable to the Pinchot candidacy. They feared, it was said, that the construction laid by opponents of Pinchot upon the withdrawal of the secretary might endanger the rest of the ticket, including nominees for Congress. It was said this was responsible for Davis' announcement last night in which he qualified Chairman Martin's earlier statement.

BREAK RUMORED

Secretary Davis has been campaigning in Pennsylvania whenever his duties in Washington permitted, and his last campaign speech in the state was Monday night at Uniontown.

Because of the variance of the Uniontown statement by Davis that President Hoover was taking no part in the state campaign, with the remark of Pinchot at Washington, Pa., Tuesday, that President Hoover had sent word by Secretary Davis that the President desired the election of the whole Republican ticket in Pennsylvania, there have been reports of a possible break between the candidates.

HEMPHILL HERE, PINCHOT DUE TONIGHT

Liberal Dines With Chiefs; G. O. P. Nominee Will Attend Saturday Rally

Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, was expected to return to Pittsburgh tonight after speaking at meetings during the day in New Castle, Beaver Falls, New Brighton and Ambridge.

John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal nominee, slipped quietly into town today and had luncheon at the William Penn hotel with David Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic leaders. He was en route from Meadville to Donora and Charleroi, where he is scheduled to make addresses later in the day. With Hemphill were Sedgwick Kistler, Guy K. Bard and George F. Douglas, Democratic nominees for United States senator, lieutenant governor and superior court respectively.

WILL JOIN MATES

Pinchot will join his running mates for the regional rally for Western Pennsylvania at a meeting at noon Saturday at the Grant street front of the City-County Building. The nominees will deliver their addresses from a speakers' stand in the entrance of the building and arrangements have been completed to detour street cars from Grant street in anticipation of a large gathering.

PINCHOT TO BROADCAST

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican county chairman, is scheduled to present Mayor Charles H. Kline, who will welcome to Pittsburgh the nominees and Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, who arranged the meeting.

Nominees expected to be present are Pinchot, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, for United States senator; Judge James B. Drew, for judge of Superior Court, and Philip H. Dewey, for secretary of internal affairs.

Other speakers expected are Mrs. Worthington Scranton, Pennsylvania national committeewoman, and Mrs. Charles F. Etter, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee.

State Senator William D. Mansfield and the Republicans of the Ninth Legislative District will honor Pinchot at 7 p. m. Friday with a banquet in the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport, to be followed with a mass meeting.

RALLY TONIGHT

Workers of the Eleventh and Twelfth legislative districts will meet tonight in Hotel Henry headquarters to indorse Pinchot and the entire Republican ticket. Those of the Tenth and Thirteenth legislative districts will meet in headquarters Monday to take similar action, according to William H. Ziefel, secretary of the campaign committee.

All Republican nominees were indorsed at meetings last night in the Fifth, Ninth, Twenty-sixth and Thirty-second wards.

E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, advocated the election of Hemphill in a broadcast last night over WCAE.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is considered one of the chief beneficiaries of the Republican party in the state, and one of the first great corporations to advance the prohibition laws by threatening to discharge all employes using liquor.

Whiter urged his unseen audience to:

"Disregard the savage, wreckless and wholly unnecessary assaults that have been made on public enterprises entrusted to the leaders of business."

QUESTIONS SINCERITY

Attorney B. B. McGinnis told a Democratic audience last night in St. Antonius' Hall, Millvale, that Pinchot never has been able to work with anybody but a crowd of cranks. The speaker declared Pinchot was elected in 1922 on the prohibition issue.

A Democratic meeting will be held tonight in the home of Mrs. Bonnie Quaill, of 1313 Beverly place, Thirty-second Ward, nominee for the Legislature in the Twelfth district.

MAURER DUE SATURDAY

James H. Maurer, Socialist nominee for governor, is scheduled to arrive in Pittsburgh Saturday to wind up his campaign in Western Pennsylvania. He is due to speak in Greensburg Saturday night and in the Pitt Theater, Pittsburgh, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs Cora Keller, of 104 Carrick avenue, Twenty-ninth Ward, has confirmed the statement of John M. Phillips, of that ward, that he voted at the gubernatorial primary May 20.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, western field marshal of Gifford Pinchot's primary campaign, included Phillips in a list of prominent supporters of John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal opponent of Pinchot, that did vote at the last primary.

LINDY FLIES TO PITTSBURGH IN BLIZZARD

"PAPA" THAWS

Then someone shouted:

"How's the little boy? How's Lindy Jr.?"

A broad smile erased a frown, and Lindbergh turned to the crowd with:

"He's fine! Just fine!"

The spectators were satisfied. They cheered and continued cheering until Lindbergh clambered back into the cockpit of his plane.

He made two attempts to take off, succeeding on the second after warming up a recalcitrant motor which he had not been absolutely certain of on the first try. The flying colonel and his party left Bettis flying into the teeth of a blizzard sweeping down from the Northwest. His weather report from Columbus read:

"Slightly overcast and hazy. Ceiling 2,000 feet. Visibility 4 miles. Temperature 40 degrees."

Should the storm area veer suddenly to the south, the Lone Eagle will be in for it, as the saying goes. His radio is out of commission, but he anticipated no trouble when he left here, declaring his confidence in being able to make it to Columbus within an hour and a half.

HAPPY UNTIL HARRISBURG

On the way across, the colonel was in a happy mood—that is until the arrival at Harrisburg where a mob of several thousand overran the police cordon around the field and shook from the famous flyer some of his composure. One after another they grabbed at his hand, wringing it vigorously and slapping him on the back. He gritted his teeth and fought his way clear into the protecting circle of a squad of state highway patrolmen, brought out to the field by Superintendent William Price.

Throughout the trip, the flying colonel was in more or less talkative mood and most amazingly obliging. He chatted with the two newspapermen aboard and expressed his opinions on flying and on the new coast-to-coast passenger, mail and express venture without constraint. Of the danger in flying across the mountains, he said:

"The common belief that flying across mountains is dangerous is a fallacy. Flying over mountains is only dangerous when weather conditions make it so."

He was asked:

"How about these mountains we are flying over now—are they more dangerous than the Rocky mountains?"

He answered:

"Well, to explain this would necessitate becoming very technical. Neither are dangerous in good weather. Out in the Rockies it is necessary to fly at high altitudes, which always presents a problem in rough weather or in case of motor troubles. Here in the Alleghenies we fly lower; the safety factor is greater, but we get more severe storms off the Atlantic seaboard."

"RADIO HELPS FLYING"

"Shall these troubles ever be overcome? What has been done over this end of the new route to combat such problems?"

Lindbergh replied:

"Two-way radio communication has proved itself very nicely over the western end of our airways and we have the benefit of several years of experimentation. We have installed five radio ground stations between Columbus and New York and at any point along the route we are able to talk with our weather observers.

"Now, for instance, we have just left Philadelphia. In five minutes we will be in communication with the Camden Airport again and our next station ahead, which is at Harrisburg. Should it become necessary to land — should a sudden storm come up or should we run into trouble in the air—we could talk with our ground crews and we should be in position to get help or advice on very short notice."

SEEK PUBLIC CONFIDENCE

"How about blind flying—fogs like we had this morning?"

"The radio directional beam is progressing nicely. There are two, you know—one is visible and the other guides by sound. I think the visible beam is doing better work and, undoubtedly, it will be developed further."

"What can we look forward to in aviation, particularly over this new line through Pittsburgh?"

"We are trying to build up the public's confidence and make flying dependable. Of course, there will be days when only the mail will come through over this line. We do not intend to take chances. We will fly passengers only when the weather permits, but we hope to keep our operations average as high as possible for, in this way, can we hope to build up public confidence in the dependability of flying.

"When we are able to guarantee 100 per cent operation, then we will have the full confidence of the public. At present we are operating better than 90 per cent in the West, although at times during severe winter weather our operations drop as low as 65 per cent."

P.R.R. PLANS FOUGHT BY UTILITIES

Street Railways and Incline Oppose Street Changes At Commission Hearing

The Pennsylvania Railroad's contract with the city and county, involving many street changes in connection with the new passenger terminal and office building near the site of the present station, met with opposition at a hearing before the Public Service Commission here today.

Commissioners Charles A. Young and Samuel Walker received a protest on the contract from Attorney P. A. Fleger, representing seven subsidiaries of the Byllesby interests. Fleger said the changes proposed in the contract would cost the seven petitioning companies $750,000 and work a hardship on many patrons of the concerns.

TROLLEYS PROTEST

The protesting companies are the Pittsburgh Railways Company, Duquesne Light Company, Equitable Gas Company, Citizens Traction Company, Allegheny Traction Company, Allegheny County Steam Heating Company and Seventeenth Street Incline Company.

In the case of the incline concern, it was pointed out that the proposed terminal would force removal of the plane railway and deny thousands of citizens of the Herron Hill section a means of egress they have used for years.

VAST CHANGES

The contract between the city, county and railroad contemplates vast changes in the Liberty and Penn avenue sector from Eleventh street for many blocks eastward. It includes relocation of streets and building of additional tracks to permit construction of the new terminal and a baggage and express building.

The railroad company filed an application with the commission today for the relocation of a crossing above grade where the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago crosses Penn and Liberty at Eleventh street.

ENGINEER TESTIFIES

W. D. Wiggins, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Central division, testified regarding the company's plans. On cross-examination by Fleger, Wiggins admitted that no provision had been made for any changes the plan would work in the business of other utilities, because these utilities had not submitted any plans when the city, county and railroad company signed the contract last August 15, after the contract signed in 1925 was voided.

SISTERHOODS' BOARD MEETS

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Oct. 23.—The sixth annual biennial executive board meeting of the Pennsylvania Federation of Temple Sisterhoods closed late yesterday, following a banquet Tuesday night, attended by 115 delegates. Addresses were given by Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, rabbi of Temple Rodef Shalom, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Saul Lavine, Pittsburgh, state president; Mrs. Ferdinand Dilsheimer, Philadelphia, honorary president; Mrs. Norman Ehrlich and Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger, of this city.

Other state officers present were Mrs. Max Brumbarker, York, first vice president; Mrs. Joseph Schmidt, Allentown, recording secretary, and Mrs. Chester Bondman, Pittsburgh, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Lavine presided at yesterday's sessions. A report on student activities at State College was made by Mrs. Charles Mantinband, of Williamsport, chairman of those activities, and the board voted to continue the work.

CONVICTS DRUG GUARD, FLEE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Three New Orleans bandits serving long terms at the Angola State Penal Farm near here, administered a sleeping potion to a guard and a patient in the prison hospital and escaped, authorities said.

The fugitives are William Woolforth and William Dupont, bank robbers, and Andrew Sanchez.

Doctors worked over the two sleeping men all night and managed to arouse them.

Father Held in Son's Death After Dispute

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—J. Dan Cullers, a farmer residing near the Virginia state line, was indicted on a charge of manslaughter here by a Hardy County grand jury in connection with the death of his son, George, 25, on September 23.

Cullers is said to have hurled a stick of wood which struck his son and caused a skull fracture which proved fatal. He admits throwing the stick, but contends it was an accident that he hit his son.

Mother of Five Killed by Auto

WAYNE, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Philomena di Benevantura, 34, the mother of five small children, was struck and killed by the automobile of James Henry Hunt III, 22, of Colonial Village, near here. Mrs. di Benevantura died of a fractured skull before reaching a hospital. Hunt was held in $1,000 bail, which was furnished by his father, James Henry Hunt, Jr., assistant trust officer of the Girard Trust Company.

Coolidge Urges Action To Meet Winter Distress

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 23.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The organizing ability of the people and the capacity for co-operation between public and private institutions is being most encouragingly displayed in the plans beinng made to relieve any possible distress and want during the coming winter. Cincinnati, Detroit, Indianapolis and New York are leading the way in private charity for giving relief and work.

Calvin Coolidge

This is properly recognized as a local responsibility for town, city and county administration. They are the government units to which is legally assigned the responsibility for relief under our system. But in the present case it is fitting that the state and national governments should contribute their counsel and assistance through voluntary and extra legal committees. The needs of humanity reach all our government organizations and all our people. No one is immune from responding to that call.

It cannot be repeated too often that the resources of the country are ample to meet all requirements. There is no occasion for any public panic. Such relief as is necessary will be forthcoming. But local governments and private charity should both be alert to organize at once to meet this fundamental obligation of society to all its members.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

China's Young President Accepts Christianity

SHANGHAI, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, youthful Nationalist president of China, was baptized a Methodist today.

The conversion of Chiang Kai-Shek will once more permit the term "Christian general" to be used in Chinese dispatches. Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, another noted general, once was an adherent of Christianity, but in recent years was reported to have renounced it.

All this summer Chiang's administration has been beset by trouble. On one hand he has been fighting a Northern coalition under Yen-Hsi-Shan and Feng, while armies of Chinese Reds have sacked the interior. At present the civil war has let up and Nationalist troops now are moving against the Reds.

An instance is told how Chiang once spared a Christian mission which had done him a favor. This was in 1925 after a dentist at the Yale-in-China mission at Changsha had extracted a painful wisdom tooth for the young general. He was so grateful that when his armies surged through the country he ordered that the Yale building be spared.

Bridge Worker Plunges 175 Feet, Swims Ashore

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—While working on the great new Sydney Harbor Bridge, said to be the world's largest arch bridge, a workman named Kelly today fell 175 feet into the harbor.

He hurtled down feet first and as he struck the water a column of spray 20 feet high shot into the air. Kelly swam ashore, not much worse for his experience, and is now wondering whether he established a high plunge record.

So far as known here the record heretofore has rested with Steve Brodie, who immortalized his name by jumping off the Brooklyn Bridge, 133 feet above the waters of the East River.

How to Identify Counterfeit Stadium Tickets :-: Police Among First "Customers"

GENUINE TICKET — COUNTERFEIT — GENUINE TICKET — COUNTERFEIT

Here's how to avoid getting duped by scalpers offering counterfeit tickets for the Stadium (completely sold out) for Saturday's game. In the bogus tickets, the watermarking in the paper stock is very poor, the printing murky and dirty, not clean and sharp as in the genuine tickets (notice backs of tickets). On the bogus ticket, the directional numbers for sections, rows and seats are printed from a "thinner" or more condensed type than Pitt's genuine tickets.

HOW THREE MEN "SET UP FOR BUSINESS" AT OLIVER AND WILLIAM PENN WAY

Detective William Sullivan called this just plain scalping and arrested the three Philadelphians operating the business. Police said they had 14 tickets on their persons when searched.

FAKE FOOTBALL TICKETS SOLD

W. Don Harrison, of Pitt, described them as poor imitations and easily detected. They are photostat copies of an original and are not printed on the same watermarked cardboard as the genuine tickets, although they have been struck off a plate. Few of them are centered and they are a trifle smaller than the real tickets.

WILL PASS ON SLIPS

Harrison issued a statement this morning in which he invited all persons who had purchased tickets on the outside and were in doubt whether they were genuine to call at the Stadium today or tomorrow and submit the tickets for an examination.

Drastic steps are planned to foil the scalpers of counterfeit tickets. Authorities announced persons attempting to enter the stadium with such tickets will be turned over to the police at the entrances, and in instances where they do get through and duplicate seat stubs lead to complications in the stands, the ushers will compare the tickets and have the holder of the counterfeit escorted out by police.

SUSPECTS GIVE BAIL

When arraigned in Central Police Court today before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, three alleged scalpers arrested yesterday contended that when they set up for business indoors they were not scalping.

Rothenberg, who had changed the charge against the men from suspicious person to violating a city ordinance, was in doubt concerning law covering the men's contention, so he released them in $100 bail, each, for a further hearing until the city low department gives a decision covering the case. They also got the 14 tickets confiscated when they were arrested and the trio left, presumably to continue business in their place in William Penn way.

Deputy collectors of internal revenue have been assigned to investigate ticket speculators who have neglected to register in the internal revenue office Only three have been registered. The government demands 5 per cent of the scalper's profit when the figure is under 75 cents, and 50 per cent when the gain is more than 75 cents.

Traffic problems were to be discussed before the Monarch Club of Pittsburgh at the weekly luncheon today in the William Penn Hotel. Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, was to outline local conditions.

U. S. Plans First Jobless Aid for Married Men With Families

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Aid for the army of unemployed with families dependent upon them must precede that given single men and women, it was agreed at a conference Col. Arthur Woods, of New York, had with Secretary of Labor Davis today. Woods has taken over the task of coordinating relief measures.

Woods, pressed into service by President Hoover, was operating at full speed within a few hours after he took over the job. Before 9 o'clock a conference was begun at the White House with the President, at which Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Secretary of War Hurley, Under Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Woods were present.

CONFERS WITH DAVIS

Almost immediately after a second conference Woods had with Lamont alone, he hurried to the Labor Department and was closeted with Secretary Davis.

Later Davis issued this statement:

"Unemployment aid must be handled from two standpoints. We have a group of single men and women who are without work and who have reached the end of their resources and must be helped.

FAMILIES IN WANT

"But more important than this group are the family groups in which there are little children. The help must come for these families promptly and adequately so that no child shall suffer from malnutrition and no child shall be taken away from its parents because of the present industrial emergency, nor should we wait until the family has gone over the precipice of destruction before the aid is given.

"This must be a matter of local aid, but the federal government can lend its support to efforts that the local communities are making through both public and private agencies to provide these agencies."

NEW YORK ACTS ON RELIEF

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Steps furthering plans for unemployment relief in New York were underway today with the beginning of a city-wide canvass by policemen of the jobless on their beats, and preparations by the emergency employment committee to raise a fund of $150,000 weekly for aiding men and women out of work.

Mayor Walker was considering a proposal to use the Bronx terminal market as a shelter for homeless.

One of Mayor Walker's plans is to ask every city employe to give $1 a month from his salary for relief purposes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Calling of a special session of the Legislature to consider the unemployment problem loomed as a possibility today with the passage of seven resolutions by the City Council.

All resolutions asked for action to relieve unemployment. One resolution asked Gov. Louis Emerson to convene the Legislature in special session after the November 4 election, to authorize a program of public building projects throughout the state.

Appropriation of a $1,000,000 relief fund for the destitute is asked in another resolution.

Brazilian Woman, 150 Years Old, Dies

NOVAI GUASSU, Brazil, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The length of Senhora Rosa Decosta's life is given by relatives as a century and a half. She is dead, leaving 18 children, 124 grandchildren, 14 great-great-grandchildren.

CHICAGO MAYOR OPPOSES RUTH

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—William Hale Thompson, Republican mayor of Chicago, today admitetd he had sent circulars to Negro voters urging them to vote for James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator.

By this action, the mayor disclosed his opposition to the candidacy of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for the senate.

Gilda, Van Loan Deny Engagement

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Recent rumors that Gilda Gray, dancer, and H. H. Van Loan, author, were engaged, were emphatically denied by both today.

"I hardly know the man," said Miss Gray.

"I am still trying to get a divorce from my present wife," explained Van Loan.

Dog's Bark Saves Family in Fire

ALTOONA, Oct. 23.—Awakened by the barking of dogs the family of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Runk, of Canan Station, a suburb, escaped when flames partially destroyed their home. A daughter Anna, 18, was aroused and she found the first floor in flames. The parents and daughter jumped from a porch roof to safety.

$125,000 Gems Taken In New York Holdup

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Daring thieves who invaded the downtown "diamond market" today snatched platinum and unset diamonds valued at $125,000 from the safe of the jewelry firm of Segman & Abrahams at 102 Fulton street, after binding William Segman to a radiator.

Admiral Dewey's Cousin Dies in East

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—James B. Dewey, Jr., a cousin of Rear Admiral George Dewey, died at his Maple Farm home in Akron, Lancaster County, last night.

U.S. EMBARGOES ARMS TO BRAZIL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—For the first time in history a preferential American embargo against a South American country was in effect today, prohibiting movement to Brazil of American-made arms and munitions except when consigned to the Brazil federal government.

President Hoover proclaimed the embargo immediately effective at the request of the Brazilian government. The latter asked it as a necessary step in its campaign to suppress the revolution which is threatening to overthrow the existing government.

The United States already has three embargoes similar to that imposed with regard to Brazil in force. They prohibit movement of arms and munitions to consignees other than government connected in China, Nicaragua and Honduras.

BAKER VERDICT RESTS ON GUN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Scientific crime solution was balanced today against an alibi in the trial of Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate dealer, charged with murdering Mary Baker, government clerk.

Should the jury attach little weight to the testimony of ballistics experts, who say Campbell's gun was the weapon which fired three bullets into the girl's body on the night of April 11, and to a chain of circumstantial evidence forged in six months' investigation, the acquittal of Campbell seems assured.

'Seer' Arrested After Number Fails to Hit

William Dalton, Negro, 1840 Dias street, whose slogan is "I see all, hear all and know all," failed to help Charles Blake, Negro, 722 Junilla street, pick a winning clearing house lottery number, the latter testified in Center Avenue Police Court today.

Blake testified he had given $5 to Dalton and that the latter gave him the "Book of Moses" and the number 474. It was not the winning number, Blake said, and he had Dalton arrested. He was held over by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

ADMITS KILLING STEPCHILD

DENVER, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Capt. of Detectives Bert Clark announced this morning that Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, after prolonged questioning, had admitted she alone was to blame for the death of her 10-year-old step-daughter, Leona, whose body was found in the Berkeley Park lake October 14.

Clark said that he had obtained the admission from Mrs. O'Loughlin after a grilling of six and a half hours. The woman's nerve broke and she was carried to her cell in the matron's quarters of the city jail on the verge of a breakdown.

WOMAN WORN OUT

Beyond the bare announcement that Mrs. O'Loughlin had "talked," Capt. Clark declined to comment. He said:

"Neither Mrs. O'Loughlin nor myself was in condition to go into details when her admission came. I expect to get a more detailed statement from her later on, when she has had time to collect herself."

Capt. Clark, worn out himself by the strain of the protracted questioning, went to his home.

QUIZZED BY MATE

The admission of Mrs. O'Loughlin concluded her sixth extended questioning by officers, one session having been at the bier of the dead child. She was grilled yesterday by her husband Leo O'Loughlin, a city detective.

Capt. Clark said:

"She admitted responsibility. Her first statement of admission was: 'I'll take the blame; I'm the one that has to suffer.'"

Frank O'Loughlin, brother of Detective O'Loughlin was taken into custody for questioning today. Ray Humpheries, investigator for the district attorney said O'Loughlin had been shadowed by officers for four days.

"Baering" Down On the News With Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Vice President Curtis snaked in a speech on the administration.

It wasn't exactly a speech. No microphone goes along with that job.

It was a telegram. To the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Curtis advised everybody to make cash purchases. We hope he didn't spoil it all by sending that telegram collect.

By spending cash you can increase your credit. That will bring back nation-wide confidence. Once we have that we can start throwing the harpoon into each other again.

Mr. Coolidge didn't say anything about the telegram. He's too busy helping us columnists run the country.

We all agree with Mr. Curtis that you should pay cash. We are opposed to instalments.

Instalments are no good. We have been dropping nickels into telephones and speakeasy pianos for 30 years and we don't own one of the blamed things yet.

Let's all dig in and get off that slow boat to Egypt. The answer to the situation is cash. And the way to get that is on credit.

MINE TRAPS 23 RESCUERS

ALSDORF, Germany, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—An unexpected increase in the Anna coal mine disaster death toll, already officially listed at 257 since the explosion Monday was feared today with the sudden entombment of 23 exhausted rescuers.

The trapped squad, it was believed, was shut off from escape in the lower levels as it was making a final heroic effort to reach the last group of miners.

The men were spurred to almost superhuman efforts by the rescue of three miners found huddled in a blind gallery on the 1,200-foot level.

Redoubled relief operations in the tunnels between the 1,200 and 1,550-foot levels were launched immediately after faint sounds believed to be signals from entombed men were heard.

From 15 to 25 men, it was estimated, remained in the mine.

Soon 'Like Lindy,' Says Australian Ace

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, in Australia today, chatting over the radio with Eddie Rickenbacker, American air ace, sent his regards to Col. Charles A. Lindberg.

Referring to his approaching marriage, the Australian said:

"Tell him I'll soon be in the same state he is."

CALLS MERGER VOTES ILLEGAL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Attorney Park Chamberlain, counsel for Cyrus S. Eaton in the latter's public utilities career, today argued before Judge David G. Jenkins that the forces who obtained a stockholders' sanction of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube merger with Bethlehem Steel did so by illegal voting of 200,000 shares.

Summing up the third argument on behalf of Eaton and his associates in their suit to enjoin the merger, Chamberlain launched into a minute presentation of the Ohio statutes governing the voting of stocks by corporations and by such fiduciaries as executors, administrators, guardians and trustees.

The contested 200,000 shares of Sheet and Tube stock was divided into several blocks, any one of which the plaintiffs claim, if found to have been voted illegally under the citations and statutes offered, constitute enough to defeat the deal, for the merger carried over the required two-thirds majority by only 59,000 votes.

Mattler Kidnapers Given Long Terms

DETROIT, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Recorder's Judge John A. Boyne today sentenced four members of the "Legs" Laman kidnaping gang to a total of from 115 to 160 years in the Michigan state prison at Jackson. Those sentenced were Louis Ross, Harry Hallisey, Jerry Mullane and Roy Cornelius, convicted of the kidnaping of Charles Mattler in 1928.

Ross was sentenced to from 35 to 50 years; Hallisey and Mullane 30 to 40 years and Cornelius 20 to 30 years.

QUEEN FOUND GRANDSON CONCEITED

Gladstone Held 'Wrecker,' Lord Balfour Praised, Royal Archives Reveal

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Letters of the late Queen Victoria describing her grandson, Kaiser Wilhelm II, as "a hothead, conceited and wrong-headed young man, devoid of all feeling," were among the revelations made today in a book compiled from confidential royal sources including the archives of Windsor Castle.

Victoria also said that Gladstone, then prime minister, "will ruin the country if he can," the documents disclose.

DECIDED VIEWS

The volume, edited by George Earle Buckle and published by the firm of John Murray shows that King Albert's widow had decided viewpoints of her own, whatever might have been the views or intentions of the government officers of ther time.

Permission to publish these royal secrets, hidden from the world for 40 years, was given by King George and, in the case of some of the letters, permission was said to have been secured also from the former kaiser at Doorn.

REBUKES "WILLY"

Regarding Wilhelm, she wrote:

"——How sickening it is to see Willy, not two months after his beloved and noble father's death, going to banquets and reviews! It is very indecent and very unfeeling."

Of the Emperor Frederick, the Kaiser's father, she wrote:

"None of my sons could be a greater loss to me. He was so good, so wise and so fond of me; and now?"

Victoria referred to A. J. Balfour, afterward the Earl of Balfour, thus:

"Lord Salisbury named his clever and agreeable nephew as the person fittest to succeed him (she refers to Balfour succeeding Sir M. Hicks-Beach as Irish secretary) and I was just going to make the same suggestion."

The queen would not admit to her court, nor have as ministers persons whose reputation she did not approve. For example she declared that she would not accept Sir Charles Dilke as minister on account of his dreadful private character. Dilke had been named as corespondent in a divorce case.

Frigid Winter Indicated By Law of Averages

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Having sweltered in the warmest summer in a half century, the nation now is due for a cold winter and perhaps several cold winters.

This may not happen—the coming winter may even be milder than usual—but if the law of averages means anything colder seasons are coming.

The country now is in the thirteenth year of a period of weather generally warmer than normal, and it is the longest stretch of this kind in the last 30 years. The pendulum probably will swing back to cold seasons, say the weather experts.

The hot summer and the long drought has rolled up a deficiency in temperatures from normal that would require one of the coldest winters on record to bring the chart to normal.

Temperatures would have to average 13.7 degrees lower every day in Washington until December 31 and 8.7 lower in Chicago every day until that time to make a normal year. The same is true in most other sections.

Each First Down Brings Grid Star Nearer Altar

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—It was more than a case of just playing for dear old Wisconsin when Charles (Buckets) Goldenberg, Badger quarterback, carried the oval for the University of Wisconsin to the detriment of the University of Pennsylvania at Madison last Saturday.

According to intimates of Goldenberg, he plans to marry Miss Marian Werba, of Milwaukee. Miss Werba is a football fan. So, it appears, is her father.

"You beat Pennsylvania," the father was reported by friends to have told Buckets "or you'll be no son-in-law of mine."

Score: Wisconsin, 27; Pennsylvania, 0.

SCHOOL CHARGE ANSWERED BY BUILDERS

Electrical Association's Chief Denies Collusion; Places Blame on Specifications

The Board of Public Education's charges that members of the Electrical Contractors Association used "collusion" in bidding on Lincoln School construction was answered today.

W. F. Weberg, president of the association, and the Fort Pitt Electric Company as well, laid the blame for one specific charge on the employes of the school board who drew up the specifications. Weberg alleged the specifications were so worded that contractors were forced to bid high because of the indefinite demands for "temporary light."

DENIES CONSPIRACY

Branding the attack of the board a "repetition of an unfounded charge that members of the Electrical Contractors Association are guilty of a conspiracy to defraud the school board and the public," Weberg said the school board admitted they made a mistake by accepting a member of the association as low bidder after rejecting the first and re-advertising for bids.

Denying that no members of his association made bids, Weberg said:

"After the extraordinary charges of fraud which were made against the members of the association it would be small wonder that any member of that association would refuse to bid upon a contract for the school board. This of itself would be justification for such refusal. But there was a very good reason in this case.

TEMPORARY LIGHTING

"Some members of the Electrical Contractors Association took the plans and specifications for the Lincoln School with a view to making a bid.

"Although the specifications called for payment by the school board for 'temporary lighting' during the ordinary or regular working hours, when artificial light is least necessary, the electrical contractor was required to furnish temporary lighting for any contractor who might occupy the building for his work after such hours were over."

The school board contends that in the case of work on the Taylor Allderdice School, over which a controversy developed, the Board of Education has had to pay $277 for 93 per cent of the temporary lighting, for which the electric contractors had sought to charge more than $13,000 in their bids.

Daughters Present Memorial Window

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, assembled in this city for its thirty-fourth annual conference today, presented a gift of $25,000 to Dr. Herbert Burk, rector of Valley Forge Chapel, for the establishment of a window in the Washington Memorial Chapel.

Mrs. Joseph M. Caley, of Philadelphia, state regent; Mrs. John Brown Heron, and Mrs. N. Howland Brown made the presentation.

The conference was to elect a nominating committee today to serve for the election in Pittsburgh next year. The nominees made for membership on that committee included Mrs. W. J. Askine, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. George N. Reed, Oil City.

What "Pinchotism" Means

When Gifford Pinchot became Governor he found the State burdened with an appropriation liability of nearly $32,000,000 with only $31,000 in the General Fund to meet it. At the end of his Administration he left a balance in the State Treasury of over $20,000,000——millions above all liabilities.

During Pinchot's Administration:—

85% of the State's income went back to the people in good roads and appropriations for their schools, hospitals, etc.

Enactment of the Administrative Code completely reorganized the State Government and assembled more than 100 independent spending agencies under 18 departments and 3 independent Commissions.

The Budget was established, paving the way for adequate financial control.

2372 miles of good road were constructed, and nearly $200,000,000 was expended upon road work without a breath of scandal.

The Department of Public Instruction handled more than a hundred and twenty-five million dollars on the pay-as-you-go plan, at 5% less cost of administration than during the preceding 4 years, while the State's contributions to teachers' salaries in the poorer districts were increased 50% to 75%.

Nearly $800,000,000 of questionable or fraudulent securities were shut out of Pennsylvania.

More progress was made toward the purification of streams than in the entire previous history of the State, and agreements were entered into with New York, New Jersey, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky to prevent stream pollution.

Many of our best laws were enacted in protection of our dairymen, our farmers, and the food supply of our people, and in safeguarding the workers in our industries. Likewise, broadening amendments were made to our Workmen's Compensation and other labor legislation.

Those are but examples. A Governor who thus devotes himself to the interests of the entire State and its people, is cordially hated by those few large corporations which gouge the public with extortionate rates, or have looked to professionalized politics for special privileges. These are the interests now picturing Mr. Pinchot as an enemy of all business, and a menace to investments, because he promises to correct such dishonesties.

Mr. Pinchot's four years in office, his accomplishments in spite of the financial handicap, and his plain statements in this campaign, refute that libel. In the Primary the Republican voters of Pennsylvania nominated him as their candidate for Governor. The staunch Republicanism of this State, as well as the best interests of the Commonwealth and its citizens, demand that you elect him and all the other Republican nominees. To do so—

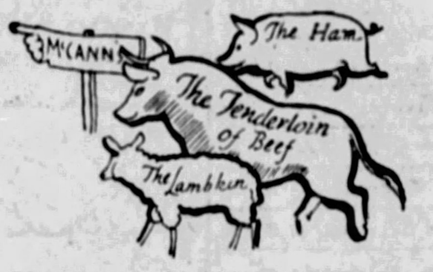
THE SOURCE OF McCANN'S BUTTER SUPPLY

"I want to be a McCann Chicken"

INHIBITED DESIRES



WITH ASPIRATIONS TO BECOME McCANN ROASTS

A BIT OF HISTORY IN THE MAKING lies in the growth and development of McCANN'S UNIQUE FOOD STORE. Way back in 1873 a little butter and egg stall was opened in the old Market by two brothers—the original McCann's. Some Pittsburghers will recall that little place where these two courteous founders of the now famous McCann's personally cut pounds of butter and counted out eggs for the market baskets of some of Pittsburgh's oldest and most highly esteemed families.

A greater number will remember that memorable day in 1912 when the present McCann's was opened—without splurge or herald—so natural did it seem that a business founded upon superior quality merchandise and dependable dealing should progress.

However, perhaps few readers realize that by the year 1919 the McCann Store had become actually four stores grouped together into one complete market—so great had the volume of the McCann business grown.

And NOW in the year 1930 we actually see before our eyes this "business that butter built"—the organization so closely interwoven into the lives of Pittsburgh's particular people—making tremendous strides ahead.

First—the complete McCann's at East Liberty—housed in its historic setting—catering to a welcoming public. Second—the opening of the ultra-modern McCann Garage, with its capacity of 600 cars for your convenience in parking while you shop. And third—the opening of the handsome new home of America's Unique Food Store—McCANN'S—where Diamond and Ferry Streets meet Liberty.

The volume of McCann's business last year was equal to that of nearly five-hundred small retail stores. The reason? The personal, friendly, dependable service of its founders—continued throughout the years—has created and established something we like to call McCann's Good-will.

SEIZE RUM SHIP, 1,500 CASES

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The weather-beaten Nova Scotia schooner Thorndyke, believed to be a "mother ship" for rum runners, yielded 1,500 cases of liquor with an estimated value of $150,000 when she was searched here. She was captured by Coast Guardsmen when she drifted inside the 12-mile limit to get her bearings off Atlantic City, N. J.

John H. McGill, deputy surveyor of the port, said federal officials had known about the Thorndyke for 10 years. He said:

"This boat has carried more rum than any other boat in existence. She's made millionaires of some. A long time ago she used to lie off the old three-mile limit."

Capt. Titus Wentzell and his crew of nine men were taken to Hoboken, N. J., for arraignment before a United States commissioner. With them went Antonine Caran, who said he was picked up at sea. He had $5,000 in his possession, and federal officials believed he was a "pay-off man."

JURY TO HEAR DIAMOND CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—A grand jury will be asked to solve the mystery of who shot Jack (Legs) Diamond, District Attorney Crain will place the case before the county grand jury November 17, he said today.

Crain said it would be a John Doe inquiry. The prosecutor said he would start the inquiry earlier, but that Diamond may undergo an operation in the next 10 days.

Diamond, questioned today by Crain at Welfare Island, said nothing about his shooting, declaring:

"It's just as much a mystery to me as it is to you, Judge."

Two Escape Death On Runaway Truck

WEIRTON, W. Va., Oct. 23.—John J. Blest, 38, and Carl V. Sadee, 40, of Boston, Mass., had miraculous escapes from death or serious injury today when a loaded furniture van on which they were riding ran away on a steep grade and climbed an embankment.

Blest was driving when the truck got beyond his control. After running up a hillside, the truck caught fire. Weirton firemen extinguished the blaze with slight loss.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

PROLONGS LIFE OF SILK HOSE

All women will be interested in the recent discovery of a leading New York fashion expert. She learned that besides perspiration, all next-to-skin garments absorb an oily excretion from the sebaceous glands that causes silks to rot.

Soap and water cannot dissolve this destructive oil film—it requires a solvent like Energine. So when next washing silk hose or lingerie, add a tablespoonful of Energine to a quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash thoroughly—rinse well—and note the new fresh cleanliness—see how magically the original color is revived and with far less rubbing. You can't appreciate how much soap and water fall short till you make this Energine test. More wear, too, from every pair of hose. And don't forget that millions use Energine daily for quick removal of dirt and grease spots from suits, hats, dresses, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35c. Get Energine today.

Justice Delayed As Woman Whips 'Love R...te'

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Judge Herbert Immenhausen was late in arriving at a political meeting last night, but he explained he had two pretty fair reasons.

One was a blonde and the other a brunet. Estelle Dempsey, the brunet, was horsewhipping Edna Hall, the blonde, in the street as the judge and his bailiff were driving to the meeting.

Mrs. Dempsey accused Miss Hall of "trying to wreck her home," but Miss Hall denied this. Both were taken by the judge to a police station.

GULDEN'S Mustard

Severe Trouble With Eczema on Face. Healed by Cuticura.

"I had severe trouble with eczema on the side of my face. It broke out in small pimples and later formed large pimples that itched and burned so much that I could not sleep at night, or go out anywhere. The irritation was so severe that I scratched and caused eruptions, also disfigurement.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after the first application I felt much better. I continued the treatment and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Louis Babyak, Box 401, Marianna, Pa., Feb 14, 1930

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

NEW ELECTION HEADS NAMED

Frank Aiello has been appointed judge and Richard Burgundy minority inspector of elections for the Third Precinct of the Third Ward by Judge George V. Moore to replace Mike Cozza and Francis Haeck who had been ordered to resign by Judge Moore when they pleaded guilty recently to an indictment charging them with negligence in returning a false count at the 1927 election. The judge paroled them for 18 months with a proviso they should not serve as election officers during the term of their parole.

Harry P. Andrews was appointed judge of the First District of the Second Ward Braddock, to succeed William Watts, moved from the district.

Autoist Who Lost Arm Asks $100,000

James F. Gayton, of 639 Hastings street, claimed $100,000 for the loss of his right arm and other injuries in an automobile collision, in his suit against Charles Ambrose, of Kenneth avenue, New Kensington, filed in Common Pleas Court.

Gayton averred he was making a left turn with his automobile at Fifth avenue and Beechwood boulevard, June 17 last, when it was struck by a car owned and driven by Ambrose.

$500,000 KNOX WILL FILED

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The will of Mrs. Lillie S. Knox, widow of United States Senator Philander C. Knox, disposing of an estate valued at approximately $500,000, was filed for probate in the Register of Wills office of Chester County yesterday.

The estate is divided equally among one daughter, Mrs. J. R. Tyndal, of Berwyn, and three sons, Reed, Hugh and Philander. The will provides the estate be placed in trust and is to be divided among the grandchildren after the deaths of their parents. The Union Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, is named executor of the estate.

Most of the estate is composed of personal property, the realty consisting only of a home at Annapolis, Md.

Mrs. Knox died September 11 in Atlantic City.

GRADING ASKED IN EAST END

Requests for the improvement of Lemington avenue to the Leech Farm section and for the grading and improving of a number of other thoroughfares in the Lincoln district were made yesterday to Council.

Joseph M. Stack, president of the Lincoln District Civic Club, and John A. Schiffhauer made the requests.

Among improvements asked besides Lemington avenue were Somerset street from Westmoreland street to Joshua; Hartman's Lane, Wilson street, Missouri street, Apple avenue and Elroe way.

Requests were also made for the stationing of an extra night patrolman in the district, a new guard rail on a portion of Westmoreland street and a number of street lights.

Council suggested that, although not much could be done on the requests at present, the men draw up petitions signed by property owners and present them.

NASTY COD LIVER OIL TASTE ENDED NOW

Health-giving vitamins now in TABLET form

If you want your child to have strong teeth and bones—if you want him to have normal weight—if you want him to have a real he-man's appetite, then give him cod liver oil regularly, faithfully, in the form that doesn't upset children's delicate stomachs—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets.

Few children can take cod liver oil in liquid form without throwing up . . . and how they hate its nasty, fishy taste.

So here's good news for modern mothers: McCoy Laboratories have put all the magic properties of cod liver oil into these amazing tablets.

And remember, McCoy's Tablets keep their strength. Unlike the liquid form, cod liver oil tablets do not deteriorate, once the package has been opened.

To see for yourself that these easy pleasant tablets actually contain the magic cod liver oil, buy a box and bite the first tablet. Taste the oil. You know it's there!

Give McCoy's to your children freely—2 after each meal and before they go to bed. Three for adults. To get the benefits you must be faithful and regular.

BUILDS WEIGHT QUICKLY FOR LITTLE GRAHAM BOY

"My boy would not take the liquid cod liver oil," says Mrs. Chester Graham, Tuscarora, R. L., New York, "so we gave him McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets and he gained 3 lbs. in 3 weeks."

MOTHER, BUILD UP that thin, puny child

Bring new roses to little cheeks

Now—cod liver oil in quick tablet form! No mess. No fuss. No nasty taste. Watch child put on weight.

THERE is a wonderful new way to give cod liver oil, Mother. All the benefits of this precious substance without that nasty taste that children hate.

A new scientific discovery makes this possible—cod liver oil in tasteless tablet form! Approved by physicians and the experts of Good Housekeeping Institute.

These sugar-coated tablets contain all the magic vitamin properties of finest, tested cod liver oil. They build resistance to winter colds. Make strong bones and teeth.

Give McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets regularly, faithfully, to get real, permanent results. Keep it up if you wish to see your child look better, feel better, be better than ever before. They are for sale at drug stores everywhere.

Good food and good teeth go together

EVERY ONE should eat plenty of proper food, rich in the vitamins and minerals that are so important to sound teeth. That's one reason why fresh vegetables, fruits, milk and Squibb Cod-Liver Oil are so valuable. And of course you need the regular attention of your dentist.

But . . . you also need the regular use of the best dentifrice you can find. Squibb Dental Cream is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia. Now please read a summary of the replies received from 50,000 dentists concerning teeth and Milk of Magnesia:

95% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation. . . .

95% of the answers agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet—The Danger Line. . . .

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia. . . .

Isn't this "expert opinion" that Squibb Dental Cream—made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia—will protect your teeth and gums?

It's easy to write "Talkiegrams." Just open today's Sun-Telegraph to the motion picture theater advertising page, study the titles of the talking pictures now current, take a series of these titles and put them together so that they will make a sentence that is, at least, fairly readable with complete continuity. Supply the words required to complete your sentence, but do not employ the names of the stars or players featured in the plays you name in your "Talkiegram." DO NOT USE LESS THAN 5 TITLES OR MORE THAN 8 IN YOUR "TALKIEGRAM."

Here is a specimen "Talkiegram." It will give you the "Talkiegram" idea.

LUCKY GIRL

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LII.

It was noon of the following day. Cathie had had so many visitors that her head ached. Not that it hadn't ached all night. It had, but this was a new kind of ache. It thudded, it pulsed and throbbed, keeping such perfect time that she found herself talking in time to its rhythm. Her voice probably sounded very funny, but what of that? She was a lost soul . . . one found guilty of murder in the first degree . . . so a little thing like a funny voice is just nothing.

Ruth can[illegible] not to worry about[illegible] had a trained nurse and Dr. Doogan said was only the shock though, of course, at her age—

"It will probably kill her," Cathie said.

"Cathie!"

"I'm sorry," Cathie said humbly. She hadn't meant to frighten Ruth. She had passed so far beyond being frightened, so far beyond pretending, that she had forgotten for the moment that everyone else hadn't.

Ruth, red-eyed and indignant, left as soon as she could. Cathie watched her go without feeling of any kind. She thought, "Unless I change, I won't mind walking to what they call it the death chamber. I won't mind anything, because I'm all numb inside."

Mr. Allan and Mr. Gunther came. They had filed a petition for an appeal. That meant it had to be done all over.

"Don't you think it's rather a waste?" Cathie asked, nodding her head a little, in time with the ache.

"My God, we can't give up now!" Mr. Allan roared. "They found you guilty. Don't you know what that means?"

"Yes, they'll hang me," she said indifferently.

"No, no . . . Don't please, for God's sake, breathe that thought! The worst will be life—"

"Life?"

"Prison for life."

Cathie looked around her at the whitewashed room. "Could Gordon come to see me whenever I want him?"

Mr. Allan looked frightened. "No, no, you don't understand. It would be prison for life, San Quentin. Not here. You'd get paroled eventually, but my God, girl—aren't you innocent?"

"Yes. Oh, yes."

"Then you have no fight in you?"

"No," said Cathie.

Mr. Allan paced the floor. He wiped his perspiring head with the fancy handkerchief in his coat pocket. "Don't you want to prove to the world that you're innocent? If you don't care for yourself, think of your mother. Do you want her disgraced?"

"She's disgraced now. She's sick. Maybe she'll die before they hang me—or shut me up for life, or whatever they decide to do." Then, more gently, "I wish you'd thought of this before . . . I mean, of ma, and clearing me. It's too late now. I'd have given anything—even my life, to spare her. But you don't understand. It's done now . . . I've killed her, broken her heart, she won't want to live . . . Oh, no, don't try to comfort me, because you can't. . . . Nobody can . . . that's why it doesn't matter . . . what they do to me . . . because I'm dead already . . . inside . . ."

Waits for Gordon

"Nonsense. You're depressed, your nerves are all shot. But you're young. Years of life ahead. Try to think. Surely you don't want to go to prison for life?"

Cathie tried to think. Prison for life. She, an old woman, in San Quentin, that place with the gray walls that you pass when you're driving to San Rafael on a picnic. And time going on . . . and other girls driving by in cars on their way to picnics, and you inside the gray walls.

"Mrs. Farnsworth, I beg you, help me as I'm trying to help you!"

"You're very kind," Cathie said gently, and smiled.

Mr. Jesse Allan could not bear to see her smile. To see that thin, pain-wracked face with its dark shadowed eyes and cloud of fair, softly shining hair, suddenly light as if from some inner radiance. So he found an excuse and went away.

It was evening when Gordon came. She had been waiting for him all day. She couldn't see why they kept him from her now, when she was lost anyway, and this was the only comfort that was left.

But she didn't wait with her heart in her ears . . . listening . . . looking . . . impatient as she had been once. She waited dully now, because nothing really mattered. She couldn't even feel impatient for Gordon. She could only sit and wish he'd come and wonder if her head would ever stop aching.

Cathie . . . Cathie, sweet!"

Cathie lifted up her head, and something inside her seemed to melt. Oh, she did care . . . she did . . . she did . . .

Cathie Comforted

"You look so tired. Does your head ache?" she asked him. Her hand stole up and touched his tanned cheek. How thin he was . . . how lined . . . he looked so old. She thought of that first day she met him . . . how handsome and boyish he was then . . . how well they looked together she had thought when she saw their reflection in the windows . . . and now . . . and now . . . in a little year . . .

He held her in his arms, comforted her, whispered silly, madeup love names in her ear, so that she smiled a little through the gentle tears that were coming now, and burrowed her head closer into his shoulder . . . rest . . . He was giving her rest . . .

Afterwards . . . was it soon? She knew she had been sleeping, and that the pain in her head was gone, and there was peace in her heart again . . . He was holding her in his arms, rocking a little, backwards and forwards, and Mrs. Evans, the matron, standing there with a glass of milk in her arms, watching.

"Now, dearie, drink the milk and you'll be all right," Mrs. Evans was saying.

Cathie drank it gratefully. Put her head back on Gordon's shoulder. Fanny Evans walked away . . . poor thing, let her be with him for a while . . . little enough left you can do for her.

Twice Gordon tried to talk.

"No, don't talk. I can't bear to talk. Just let me put my head on your shoulder. That's all—that counts—"

So he held her silently.

"I'm sorry, sir. You'll have to go!" Fanny Evans was kind, but rules are rules.

Search for Marguerite

"Goodby, Cathie. And C'hie be brave, because a new angle Gunther and I have been working on is looking up. New evidence, I think."

"What?" she asked.

"Marguerite. We've been combing the country for her. There's a new lead at last. I think we'll have her before morning."

Cathie looked her disappointment. She had thought it was something about Chester. Something to make him admit he lied. "That's awfully nice," she said, without any spirit.

"She can make it deuced unpleasant for Chester, do you see? Even if we can't get any help on the shooting she'll be a most valuable character witness for you. Between her and Cheong we'll be able to prove there was no motive, do you see?"

Cathie didn't see. But she knew, since she had lain in Gordon's arms again, that she wanted to be free . . . Oh, she didn't want to get life imprisonment or be hanged.

"You'll help me, Gordon? You won't let them put me in jail for all my life?"

"My dear if they take you they'll have to take me, too!"

"Really, Gordon?"

"Really," he smiled.

"And if they hang me?"

"I'll go with you!"

"Truly?"

"Truly!"

"Then I'll find a way to go free—to be with you. You wait! You'll see!"

"Come, Mrs. Farnsworth!"

"I'm coming, Mrs. Evans. Goodbye, Gordon!" She blew him a kiss, and the smile that went with it didn't hurt you to see this time. It was her old smile, gallant, lovely.

And that night, after the lights were out, she sang a little tune, under her breath.

Grown-Ups Should Be Seen but Not Heard, Fay King Decides

By FAY KING

I have come to the unhappy conclusion that when children are present it is I who should be seen but not heard.

This is very hard on me for I am very fond of children.

But unfortunately, when I see a cunning child I lapse into a sort of coo and cuddle conversation with it. Alas! this is no longer approved of by the modern child or modern parents.

One is expected to treat them more as if they were midgets. "Well, why is oo cryin' so for, Honeybun?" I said to a tiny weeping baby the other day.

The mother glared at me.

Then she said to her three-months-old infant:

"Son, mother wants you to stop crying right now!"

Conference Is Interrupted by Phone Call from Veritzen

At Harry Underwood's statement that I had "something up my sleeve," Lillian turned and looked at me sharply.

"Yes," she nodded, "she has. I know that look of hers, like a mischievous little school girl's. Come clean, Madge. Don't you dare to hold out on us."

"Just a second." Her husband put up an authoritative hand. "I thought you said, Lady Fair, that nobody could get after Veritzen until Noel gave permission, because of your promise to the boy. This doesn't mean that I hold myself bound by that promise, although I'll try to restrain myself. But I certainly yearn to flatten out the old superiority complex, and I can't tell what second the yearning will overpower my self control."

"I don't care what you do to him as soon as I have seen Noel," I said truthfully. "But I believe I can stop this espionage, if I can talk to Mr. Veritzen for a few minutes."

"An interview will be arranged," Mr. Underwood said with absurd pomposity, "the moment I can find the gentleman. And I shall stand guard outside the suite, so that you may not be disturbed."

"But that's just what I don't want," I protested—, "a private interview. I want to meet him casually, with you both present. I don't know yet just what I shall say to him, but I have an idea—do you mind if I don't tell you—I think it will be more effective if you don't know. Only—will you back me up in whatever I say?"

"Even if it means signing promissory notes," Mr. Underwood declaimed, and our laughter was punctuated by the ring of the telephone.

"Oh! Do you suppose anything's happened at the farm?" I exclaimed, but Mr. Underwood, who had taken down the receiver, shook his head.

"It's not long distance," he whispered, then he spoke directly into the mouthpiece.

"Hello! Veritzen," he said easily, while Lillian and I looked at each other in astonishment. "Yes, they're both here. Where are you, in the city? The girls said they met in a garage on the way down."

He was silent for a while, then spoke again, dubiously. "I don't know, but I'll ask them."

He motioned us to the other end of the room, and leaving the receiver dangling, crossed to us.

"He wants us all to go out to dinner with him," he said. "You're not up to it, are you, Li?"

"Depends upon what he wants to do," his wife responded. "I certainly am not up to some of his programs but we must dine somewhere, and he sure can provide a perfect meal."

"What about you, Madge?" he turned to me.

"Tell him yes," I directed, "but be sure to say that Mary is with us."

He crossed to the telephone and dutifully repeated our messages.

"Yes, I see your point," he said, after Mr. Veritzen's reply. She isn't our age, and won't be interested. But I'm afraid Mrs. Graham wouldn't come without her. I'll ask her though. Hold the line."

He turned to me, and asked in a voice purposely loud:

"How about it, Madge? Phil thinks we'd better leave Mary to a quiet evening at home."

"Tell him I'm sorry, but I can't go without her," I said, and he repeated the message.

"Yes, six-thirty will be all right for us," he answered the next question. "But remember we're just in for the day. We can't dress. Oh, that's all right. Fine business. So long, old man!"

He hung up the receiver and chuckled gleefully.

"We sure put one over on our old friend this time," he said. "Even his well known poker voice wasn't equal to the occasion. I heard what you might call a distinct gasp when I said that Mary was with us. And his voice was flat when he rallied enough to suggest that we leave her at the hotel."

"That's the surest sign of all that he's awash in limburger," Lillian commented. "Phil's too cagey a chimpanzee to spring as crass a suggestion as that unless he was badly rattled."

"I don't know," I said slowly. "If we're right in the supposition that he's obsessed with the idea of proving Mary to be unworthy of Noel, he may have had some very definite plan in mind when he proposed leaving her alone here."

Harry Underwood's face hardened.

"I'd hate to think he was so absolute a Gadarene swine as that," he said. "But, maybe so, maybe so, and if so— well! the Lord or the devil help him! For he'll sure have need of outside aid."

Household Hints

Jersey cloth makes practical dresses for school and business.

When traveling, a tube of shaving cream makes a convenient and sanitary toilet soap.

Dry woolen scarfs and shawls between towels. Never hang them on the line or they will stretch out of shape.

Scarfs rolled on a short stick will look much nicer when put on the bureau than if they are folded several times after laundering.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

The Sweet and Low-Down.

In this cynical age, when a man is particularly tender and considerate to his wife, everybody suspects that he must be afraid of her.

No woman is so suspicious of her husband's "working overtime" excuses as the stenographer who has married her employer.

Why is it so much easier for a man to love a girl before she begins trying to serve him a hot breakfast and a good dinner, every day—and for a girl to love a man before he begins paying her bills?

A woman used to turn to knitting and religion for spiritual comfort, when she got past 50; now she has a tuck taken in her face and looks around for a young husband to keep up her morale and pep up her vanity.

Nothing makes a man so indignant as to tell him that he is strong enough to resist a temptation, for which he has been waiting and hoping, for weeks.

A man will never admit to himself that it's real love until he discovers that he can't forget a woman, even while he's trying to kiss another woman.

Most of a woman's vanity goes to her head; most of a man's appears to go to his feet. When he buys a new hat it's because necessity or his wife demands it; but when he buys a new pair of shoes, it's because it delights his heart to see his feet glorified.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Fainting May Become a Habit

Recently I met a man on the street with a black eye and jokingly asked him if he had run into a door knob. He told me that he had fainted and in falling had struck the corner of a table. Of course all his cronies laughed at this explanation. When it comes to a black eye no excuse is a good one.

DR COPELAND

I believed the story because unusual and sometimes disastrous injuries result from fainting. The wonder is there are not more accidents.

Of all health subjects that are broadly discussed in newspapers and magazines, fainting is the favorite topic. Yet when it comes to helping someone who is about to faint, or who has fainted, we usually do the wrong thing.

Fainting may be caused by one of many things. Seeing or hearing unpleasant things may bring it about. Weakness, as a result of hunger and excessive work are common causes. Exposure to heat or cold is another reason for fainting. Fright, particularly at the sight of blood, causes many persons to faint.

Some are more prone to faint than others. More women faint than men, yet there are some men who will faint at the slightest provocation. Fainting may become a habit. If one has experienced a fainting spell, the fright of it lingers and at the next scare there may be another faint.

When we faint the blood rushes from the head to other parts of the body. In order to maintain consciousness we must, at all times, have a good blood supply to the brain. When the blood rushes out of the brain, as it does in a faint, we become unconscious. Until the heart action becomes strong enough to pump the blood back into the head, we remain unconscious.

The fainting person becomes pale and says he feels weak and sees black spots before the eyes. Have him lie flat on the back, with the head lower than the feet. Do not prop the head up with a pillow as is apt to be done. Apply cold compresses to the face.

Make sure that there is no difficulty in breathing. Loosen all clothing, particularly at the waistline and about the throat.

If you have a bottle of smelling salts handy, use it, although I believe it does not help very much. A teaspoon of aromatic spirits of ammonia in half a glass of water is very helpful. If the victim is unconscious do not force any liquid down the throat, but wait until consciousness is regained.

An attack of fainting may often be warded off by gently slapping the face two or three times. Then instruct the patient to sit with the head lowered and bent down between the knees.

Above all never get excited. And assure the patient that everything is all right.

Friday, October 24

A particularly active and enterprising day, in business, employment and in the social affiliations is the presage based on the interesting chain of lunar transits. The energies and faculties will be under high stimulus, and with well-directed effort should ensure advancement, substantial progress and prosperity, despite minor anxieties and complications, which will be sagaciously managed.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a particularly active year, with the energies under splendid stimulus for initiative and enterprise. There may be an incentive toward bold strokes, supported by practical manipulation of affairs. Employers may be quick to recognize such acumen, conferring favors and prestige. But personal matters will be stressed and reach happy and cherished denouements.

A child born on this day should be resourceful, courageous, enterprising and should achieve much in practical affairs, and also be personally popular and happy.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Don't Think Marriage Is the Prop He Needs if He's a Weakling.

Folks, meet Poor Mamma. Poor Mamma has, to be sure, all her health and plenty of bank account. But Dad's dead (some fellows have all the luck!) and Ma simply has to have someone hanging around to make her feel important. So she has picked on Darling Boy.

But Harold doesn't think it so lovely to just sit around and wait on Poor Mamma for the rest of his days.

Harold wants to go places and do things. He wants particularly to marry Diane. But marrying Diane means getting a job.

So now Harold's urging Diane to marry him anyway, and rescue him from Poor Mamma's clutches. And Diane's wondering whether she dares tackle the job.

"Dear Sally—

"You have always given your help and advice so willingly and lovingly, that I am coming to you for help.

"First, I will ask you, what do you think of a man who hasn't a job, but who wants his girl to marry him anyway?

"I have gone with Harold for five years, and I love him more than anything in life. For the past eight years he has stayed at home to be with his father, who had heart disease. He took care of him, and did little odd jobs he couldn't do, sick as he was. So that was the reason he didn't work.

"But now his father is gone, and there should be no ties to keep Harold from taking his place in the world with other men, except this—his mother doesn't want him to work. She says that he should be content to stay at home and take care of her. Every time he mentions getting a job, she cries and says he doesn't love her any more.

"Now, we both want her to live with us if we get married, and we want her to be happy, but neither Harold nor I can see why he shouldn't go out like other men and do something for himself. But we can't seem to convince her.

"And everything is so different from what it used to be. She used to be so lovely to me . . . just like she was my own mother. But now we can't seem to agree on anything.

"Now, Harold says that if I would marry him, he'd have to go to work, and she'd have to like it.

"She knows that we want to marry. Why can't she stop fussing at him? He says that if I loved him, I'd be willing to go through a little trouble to help him. And I say that if he loved me he'd get that job first.

"What do you think? Am I wrong? Should I marry him as he asks . . . and would it work out the way he thinks, if I did?

"DIANE."

Should you marry him, and try to be his backbone?

No, Honey. You shouldn't. It is strictly up to gents to grow their own backbones. And if they can't they shouldn't aspire to matrimony.

I'll admit he is in a mean mess. Boa-constrictors have nothing whatever on Poor Weak Women when they want to hang onto their pet males.

But that's life. Life is just one toe-hold after another. If it isn't Poor Mamma, it's something else. And it's time Dear Harold woke up and faced that fact. At present he is having a delightful, comforting time, blaming mamma for his predicament. And I suspect you're helping. But—though I admit she's a pest—mamma isn't to blame for Harold. He's to blame for himself. If he hasn't the gumption to fight for his own freedom, he doesn't deserve any.

The man who won't fight for his own rights, certainly won't fight for his woman's.

Let him win his manhood before he assumes its responsibilities!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Gracious Employer

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In case of a man and wife doing business and employing men and girls, some older and some younger than themselves and meeting them when passing through the factory, whose place is it to speak first in the case of the husband? And in the case of the wife?

MRS. W.

In this case, a professional one, it would be gracious and appropriate for both the husband and wife to bow or speak first.

Bridge Prizes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please advise me whether it is necessary, when having four tables of bridge, to have one or two prizes?

YOU CAN'T BE DAINTY WITH A COLD IN THE HEAD

In a few deep breaths, Vapex banishes all the distress of colds

NO WOMAN can possibly be at her best with a cold. Her nose becomes red and stuffed, her head feels clogged, and the miserable distress ruins her good disposition.

Simply put a drop on the handkerchief or a drop at each end of the pillow. Breathe the delightful vapor and you breathe your cold away.

Swiftly Vapex clears the head, opens up the nose, dries secretions. A few deep breaths relieve distress and make you feel better. If a cold keeps you awake, use Vapex at night and rise in the morning refreshed and soothed.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2c apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

For safety's sake, always ask for V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant—and do not accept an inferior product that claims to be "just as good."

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWAIT BOYS

Instructors in manual training and allied lines of activity are hardly less enthusiastic than the boys themselves over the organization of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, news of whose contest in model coach building has been appearing in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph for several weeks. Hundreds of boys in the Pittsburgh area are enrolling in the Sun-Telegraph Chapter of the guild, and preparing to compete for the four $5,000 university scholarships and 980 other awards which are part of the guild program.

Complete details will be published in the automobile section of the Sun-Telegraph next Sunday.

Enrollment consists simply of visiting any General Motors dealer and filling out the registration blanks. There are no dues or fees. The dealer forwards the enrollments to the Guild headquarters in Detroit, and also to this paper, which automatically enrolls each new local member in the Sun-Telegraph Chapter of the guild. Meanwhile, upon receipt of each new member's name, the guild headquarters issues the new member a bronze membership button and a set of detailed plans and instructions for building a miniature model Napoleonic coach.

In addition to the set of plans and instructions sent out from Detroit, members of this chapter will have access to supplementary material which will be published from week to week in the Sun-Telegraph, affording a step-by-step guide to the actual coach construction.

The Sun-Telegraph is going to do all in its power to see that a boy in this section wins one of the four scholarships. It is anxious that every boy between the ages of 12 and 19 enroll in the Guild and take part in the coach-building competition.

Army Officer Loses New Autopsy Fight

HONOLULU, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Col. Granville Sevier of the U. S. Army, has lost a long court battle to prevent a second autopsy on the body of his wife as demanded by her brother, Ralph Shainwald, who asserts she may have died of poisoning.

Mrs. Sevier before her marriage was Miss Marion Shainwald, of Irvington, N. Y. She died in August, 1928, leaving an estate of $700,000 to her husband.

Coney Island Fishing Dandy—for Bottles

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—There's great fishing in summer on the beach at Coney Island—for milk bottles. The average daily recovery by milk distributing companies, it develops from a survey of an anti-litter committee looking forward to next season, is 7,050 bottles, mostly intact.

Dr. Day to Address Downtown 'Y' Club

The Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, will address the members of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Dormitory Club at their dinner in the auditorium of the "Y" tonight.

The modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day modes of arranging the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new lustre and color to hair, which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; gives it more gloss than brilliantine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It stops falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

Steel Worker Dies From Engine Hurts

Paul Balloash, 58, of 160 Third avenue, Homestead, died in the West Penn Hospital today of injuries received when he was struck by a small car at the Homestead Steel Works, where he was employed, according to the coroner's report.

Balloash, the report said, was sitting on the car when it was bumped by a shifting engine. The force of the collision threw him to the tracks and the car ran over his legs. Death was attributed to shock.

Drought Reduces Somerset Potatoes

SOMERSET, Pa., Oct. 23.—Somerset County, one of the largest potato producing counties in the state, will produce 350,000 bushels under the ordinary yield this year, farmers reported. The drought was held responsible for the yield, which will be in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 bushels.

Nose Hurt on Pool Chute, She Sues For $25,000

For an injury to her nose, caused, she alleged, when it caught on a piece of tin while she slid down the chute in the Olympia Park swimming pool, Isobel E. Hughes, of Chicago, asked $25,000 damages in a suit against the Olympia-Oakford Park Company, filed in Common Pleas Court. She averred the tin cut a deep gash on the bridge of her nose, leaving a disfiguring scar. The mishap occurred July 13 last.

MERCHANTS AID TERMINAL PLAN

Sub-committees of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce shippers council were being appointed today to co-operate with the city in planning for the proposed rail-river terminals. The appointments followed a luncheon meeting yesterday at which Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang outlined the plan with approximate costs as submitted by his department to the City Council. One of the important questions before chamber members is the freight rate cost where reciprocal agreements are not in effect among the railroads on short hauls.

For Coughs Too Deep To Risk A Lesser Help

Creomulsion was made to deal with coughs from colds which hang on. A three-day cough is a danger signal. There the utmost should be done.

But a trifling cough may develop into something deep and difficult. Don't you think it wise to use the utmost help, even if a lesser help might do?

Creomulsion combines seven major helps in one. The seven best helps known to medical science. One is best for one type of cough, one for others. Nobody can tell in advance. So the best way seems to be to combine all in one prescription.

Creomulsion stands first. Here it is blended, emulsified and tasty. For soothing membranes and combating cold germs, the world knows nothing better.

But some coughs best yield to white pine tar, some to wild cherry bark, some to menthol, some to ipecac, etc. So we combine all these factors at their best in a single formula.

For some coughs Creomulsion is better than you need. One of its factors might do. But don't you feel safer when a minor cough is treated in the utmost way?

If so, get Creomulsion. It costs a little more than lesser helps—$1.25. But your druggist guarantees it. He returns your money if you are disappointed. You will feel safer in any cough if this master help combats it. Use it promptly.

"You have laid the firmest of foundations for success in using the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of Lucky Strike"

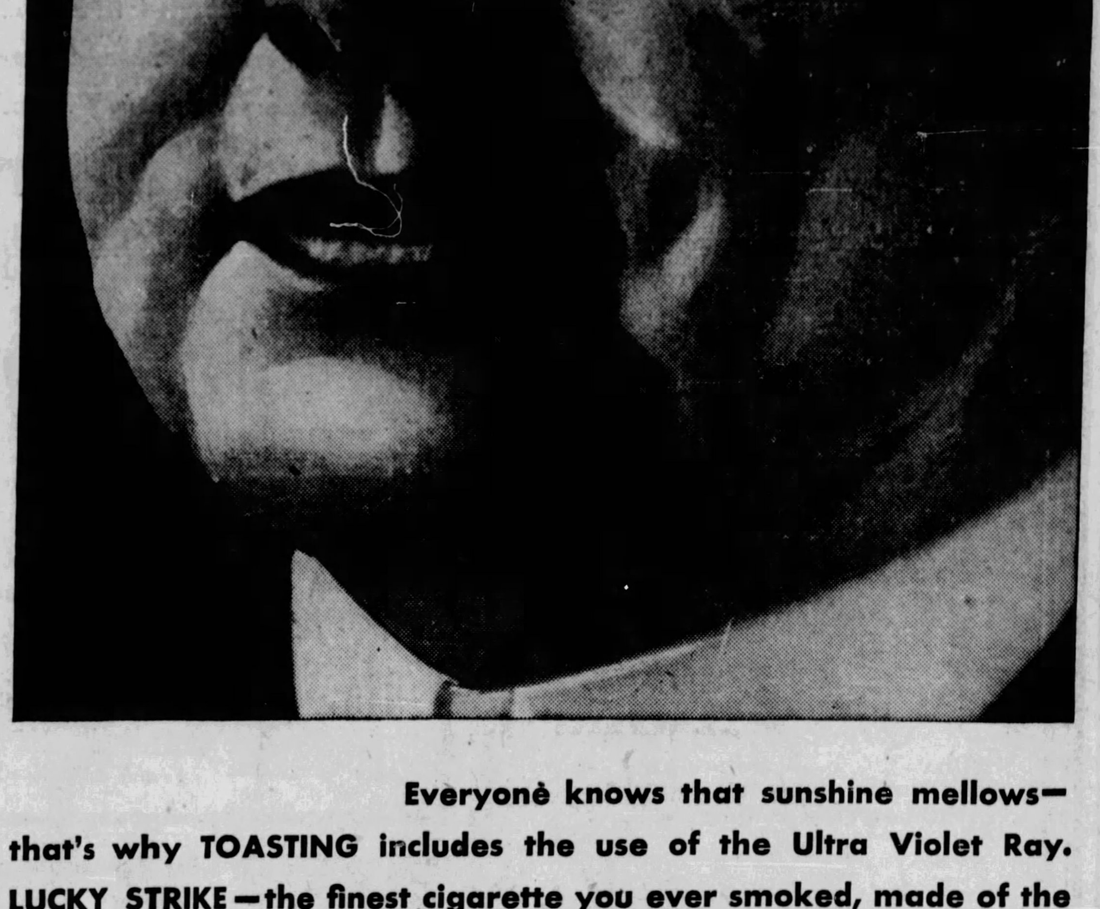
Says

CLEMENT O. MINIGER

Noted industrial leader and philanthropist.
President Electric Auto-lite Company.
Director Willys-Overland Company.

"The demand of Americans for the utmost in comfort, convenience and safety has made the Electric Auto-lite standard equipment in many of the finest of American automobiles. In using the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos you have laid the firmest of foundations for the success of your product. Because you are rendering Americans a service which they appreciate most—the benefit of modern science."



Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. Clement O. Miniger to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Miniger appears on this page.

Pittsburgh Woman Sued in Auto Crash

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—Three suits to recover a total of $15,750 damages for personal injuries and damages to their automobile as result of an accident, have been filed against Helen M. Creighton, of Pittsburgh, by Rebecca Ann Morris, Hilda Morris, Ruth Morris and Anna R. Morris, all of Brownsville. The accident occurred in the National highway early in August.

Forest Fires Rage, Water Supply Acute

HARRISBURG, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Forest fire conditions continued to be serious in the eastern part of the state while the danger is considerably less in the west, the State Department of Forests and Waters reported. Fifteen small fires were reported.

No change in the water situation was reported by the State Health Department.

New Trial Denied In Erie Rum Case

Judge Nelson McVicar in Federal Court today denied a motion for a new trial in behalf of Stanley Dobkowski, who was convicted in Erie September 22 of conspiring to violate the liquor laws.

S. G. Warren, a co-defendant with Dobkowski, recently was fined $100 and paroled for two years.

AUTO KIDNAPING SUSPECTS HELD

GREENFIELD, Mo., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Bill Prater, 41, Southwest Missouri motor car salesman, was to be returned here today from Carthage to be viewed by Mrs. Alma Wilson McKinley, heiress and expectant mother, who was kidnaped from her parents' home here recently.

A warrant charging Prater and Mrs. Emory Hill, of Carthage, recently divorced wife of a Stotts City, Mo., banker, with the kidnaping, remained unserved early today and authorities continued to hold the couple on an open charge of investigation.

The kidnaper entered the Wilson home the night of October 13, when Mrs. McKinley and her mother were alone and forced the girl to drive away with him in her motor car.

FAKE ANTIQUE RACKET BARED

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The alleged guiding geniuses of an antique "racket," Wilbur J. Cooke, and Mrs. E. E. Caroline Saunders, of New York, were the objects of a nation-wide police search today. Thirteen secret indictments were returned yesterday against members of the "racket."

Cooke and Mrs. Saunders are said to have escaped Monday from the home in Holyoke, of Mrs. Clementine Briggs Doran at the time Mrs. Doran was arrested and charged with having sold china, which she represented to be of antique origin, to a Boston art connoisseur for $51,000. Police charged that the ware was of modern manufacture and had been artificially aged.

Shaw to Make Radio Debut in America

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—George Bernard Shaw for the first time is to talk directly to the American people by radio, the Columbia Broadcasting System announced last night. Shaw is to talk from 4:40 to 5:20 p. m. next Tuesday. The broadcast will be through WABC, New York, and the Columbia broadcasting network.

Albert Einstein, author of the relativity theory, is on the same program.

Buckhannon School Paper Wins Prize

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Judges announced that The Pharos, West Virginia Wesleyan College student newspaper, had been chosen as the winner of the 1928-29 West Virginia Collegiate Press Association contest.

This is the first time that other than a Marshall College, Huntington, paper has been the winner. The Marshall paper took second place this year.

Policeman Acused Of Taking Bribes

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Chief of Police Roscoe Walker and Patrolman Charles Rose were indicted by a special grand jury called in Circuit Court to investigate charges they accepted bribes from bootleggers. The officers were arrested 10 days ago by Sheriff Ray McGown after a trap was laid for them. They probably will be tried at the January term of Circuit Co[urt].

Auto Wrecks, Burns; Father of Two Dies

READING, Pa., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Pinned beneath his wrecked roadster when it crashed into a truck at the foot of Baumstown Hill on the Benjamin Franklin highway between here and Pottstown, Roy Horan, 35-year-old father of two children, was burned to death during the night.

Lynn Rockwell, 33, also of Pottstown, Horan's companion on the fatal ride, despite a broken leg, managed to free himself of the burning wreckage.

COULD BE MADE WITH AN AVERAGE-SIZE CAR ON A SINGLE DAY'S OUTPUT OF ATLANTIC GASOLINE

Year after year you have seen the competition for your gasoline patronage growing keener and keener . . . motor fuel claims getting bolder and bolder. Yet each year finds more motorists and truck owners using Atlantic Gasoline than the year before. Each year finds Atlantic maintaining in its native territory the sales-volume leadership which it has held since the automobile came into being. It isn't buying habit—it isn't the momentum of a long-established prestige, that has gained for Atlantic such an unshaken public preference . . . for there is no commodity which is subjected to more merciless scrutiny of performance than gasoline. It is due to the fact that Atlantic QUALITY and Atlantic SERVICE are so outstanding that they are easily recognized by any man or woman who drives a car.

Radio in Terminal.
Allaying Anger. .
About Statues.
Music Comes Fourth.

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Announcement that radio is to be installed in the cavernous reaches of the Pennsylvania Terminal is not regarded with favor by New York's editorial writers.

Louis Reid.

They profess to see in the plan a diabolical scheme to add to the harassment and confusion of travelers, and, that, instead of soothing the savage breasts of commuters, such music as is broadcast will, on the contrary, have a tendency to make them more ferocious.

Their fears, it seems to me, are unfounded. They have not given sufficient consideration to the schedules of the broadcasters. Crooners, after all, do not dominate the radio programs, and the most strident note of jazz is not customarily aired until midnight, an hour when the majority of travelers don't give a hoot for Beethoven.

Radio May Charm Commuters

As for the commuters, it is impossible for them to bare more angry fangs than they do at present. It is even conceivable that they will tolerate the slamming of gates in their faces with far greater grace if the slamming is accompanied by the soft and dulcet notes of "dinner music," which usually goes on the air between the 5:15 express for Barren Heath and the 7:23 local for Goofus Valley.

The success of the plan will depend upon the extent of the co-operation of the railroad and radio rajahs. An uncommon denominator must be found, but it cannot be too uncommon. What is one man's Tschaikowsky is another man's torture. To blend Broadway and Bayreuth may be the answer to the problem, to follow "When That Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for Alabam'" with "Song to the Evening Star" may be the secret by which the Pennsylvania will best maintain the creed of the roadbeds. You know—"the public be pleased."

At any event, the experiment will be worth watching. Heaven and Atterbury know that it is at least worth trying. Certainly it has far-reaching potentialities. It will be observed with considerable care by the operators of the subway and the guardians of those box offices which regularly attract long and restless lines. It should interest the industry of ferryboat-plying as well as those city celebration planners who would keep street mobs in leash until the latest North Pole sitter or trans-Atlantic flier hoves in view.

Who is there to say that radio would not be a boon to travel in the subway? It would make more endurable the shoving and mauling, the vacant staring, the aggressive ogling. Well—maybe, it wouldn't. Next stop is Fourteenth street . . . you will now hear Joe Sappo's Band in "Happy Days Are Here Again."

No Statues to Song Writers

A wise man once said he did not care who wrote the nation's laws if he could write the nation's songs. He has never been given any particular reverence in the republic. The nation sings and whistles and dances, but it erects its statues to the lawmakers. There is ever room in parks and highways and public buildings for the statuary of statesmen, many of them as obscure in history as a munitions-maker, but the most painstaking search fails to reveal similar memorials to the great tunesmiths of the land, though here and there you will find a statue to Verdi or Beethoven, erected by foreign-born lovers of music.

But not one statue of Stephen Foster or John Bland or Dan Emmett or even Victor Herbert stands, so far as we have been able to discover, in the land. Not one concentrated effort has been recorded of a search for the identity of that inspired musical prophet who wrote "Turkey in the Straw." Yet their songs will live when laws and statecraft are dead and forgotten. Something ought to be done about it. There—there ought to be a law . . .

Last week Otto B. Heaton, president of the National Association of Music Merchants, said in a radio talk that music is the fourth great material want of human nature. First comes food, clothing and shelter; then music. Who would say he isn't right? Educators told him that 90 per cent of all honor students in the schools play some musical instrument. Vice versa, with the accent on the vice, he learned that less than 5 per cent of criminals in penal institutions play any musical instrument.

And he adds—and every police chief in the land would be glad to have it said—"teach a boy to blow a horn and he won't blow a safe."

Music is more than ever in the air in American since the advent of the radio. Hoover's statisticians have learned that there are now more professional musicians in the nation than preachers or lawyers, and five times as many as there are journalists.

"Galileo, Scientist."
The program will disclose how Galileo, famed scientist of the Middle Ages, worked out the theory of the pendulum. According to legend the occasion of the discovery was one evening in the Duomo at Pisa when, as a boy of 19, young Galileo stood waiting for his lady love. She being tardy, he occupied himself by observing that a lamp swinging in the breeze took the same time to complete its arc whether that arc were great or small. Testing the time with his pulse, Galileo crudely confirmed his theory. It was thus that the pendulum used in all clocks was discovered.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

A story of Maj. Andree's flight to the Arctic in a balloon is to be dramatized for WCAE listeners at 9 o'clock tonight during the Arco Birthday Party. Maj. Andree's exploit was backed by Dr. Alfred Nobel, famous scientist, whose birthday will be commemorated. WJZ presents Victor Herbert's "Mlle. Modiste" at 10 with an all-star cast including Mary McCoy, Gitla Erstinn, Muriel Wilson, Mary Hopple and Ivy Scott. KDKA is to have the last half of the feature at 10:30. The opera concerns the love affair of a shop girl and a young officer whose uncle, a count, opposes the match. By request, Annette Hanshaw sings "Ten Cents a Dance" for Van Heusen fans, WJAS at 9.

Mary Hopple

'Tis said that Ted Husing turns in at 9 o'clock on the eve of every important description. We'll see Friday.

No more tin hats for B. A. Rolfe trombones. A high silk topper gives a better muted effect.

You may be surprised to learn that the beautiful Helen Douglass, of New Brighton, Pa., who takes the part of "Ma" in Seth Parker sketches over WCAE, is a girl just out of college who has a working knowledge of five languages—French, Spanish, German, Italian, Hebrew.

It has yet to be confirmed but we understand Calvin Coolidge and Amos and Andy are to take part in KDKA's tenth anniversary celebration on Saturday, November 1.

Mal Stevens intimated last night that Notre Dame will be an easy winner Saturday.

That Barn Dance on KDKA was one of the finest productions we've heard from a local station.

WJAS has the Detroit Symphony Orchestra via CBS tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

"BY THE WAY . . ."

Will Hays speaks on "Forging an Industry Out of Shadows and Sound" for WJAS fans tomorrow night at 7 . . . The NBC is to have President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald from the White House and 10 Downing street, London, next Monday morning at 10:30 . . . Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, speaks on "The Hoover Administration" over WJAS next Thursday night at 10:30 in the Republican rally . . . "War" is the subject of Frederick Palmer's talk over WCAE Sunday at 7:30 . . . He'll reveal for the first time confidential papers of Newton D. Baker at the outbreak of the world conflict . . . Louis Caton, "Steel Mill Tenor," whose grandfather "blew the first heat" of Bessemer steel at the Edgar Thomson works in Braddock, sings for WJAS listeners on the Howard Dandies" feature Sunday at 6:30 . . . George McEwan, of Wilkinsburg, is credited with starting Caton to success . . . Richard Gordon takes the part of Sherlock Holmes in next week's sketch . . .

Sally Goldstein, WCAE, is brave like her brother Phil, the boxer. She had two bones removed from her nose under a local anesthetic.

Only her nose knows what happened.

QUESTION A DAY:

When does Carolyn Gray, former WCAE hostess, play on the network?—E. W., Bridgeville.

Answer—Carolyn is seldom heard on the air anymore. She plays for most of the newcomers at NBC during auditions. We notice she's on the WEAF-WTAM concert Sunday morning at 8 o'clock.

Commander Charles Kingford Smith made his record journey to Australia on the wings of love, we heard in a short wave broadcast this morning via KDKA. He's to be married in the next two weeks.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Freddie Rich, CBS dance maestro, has taken up boxing. Rich has assumed the managerial reins of Young Lyons, former light-heavyweight champion of the Navy. Lyons is 20 years old, six feet two inches tall, and weighs 178 pounds.

NEWS ABOUT HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM; COMMENT ON COMING SHOWS

Dramatist Anderson Is Inclined to Damn His Own Damns

By GEORGE SEIBEL

WHILE 1,000 PEOPLE were being turned away from the Nixon Theater yesterday afternoon, the modest author, Maxwell Anderson, was wondering whether "Elizabeth the Queen" was really a success. While the average dramatist will argue with any critic who says his play is poor, Anderson was mildly skeptical when critics declared his play was great.

George Seibel

"At any rate," I told him, "Ben Greet may agree with you. He has just landed in America, and told us the decay of the stage was due to the fact that no good plays are being written nowadays."

"There is something to that," replied Anderson, "We have forgotten that beauty is the essential element in great dramatic literature. We have gone too far with realism and photographic detail; we should remember that beauty alone has enduring life. The truth we have shown on our stage is raw and ugly—managers and public would have it so—but the permanent and eternal things range from the lovely to the sublime. A rotten apple is thrown away—a precious pearl is put into a shrine."

Coming from the co-author of "What Price Glory," this sounded as if he were damning his own damns.

And meanwhile people were still pouring into the Nixon Theater to see Lynn Fontanne play Queen Elizabeth. "Play" is hardly the word: It is work, for the costume she wears is so heavy that two women have to put it down over her head.

ALSO CHANNING POLLOCK

Ben Greet and Maxwell Anderson are saying about the same that was said by Channing Pollock when he went to Egypt a year ago, declaring he would have nothing more in t' . theater "for some time, if ever." Pollock said there were not six plays in the New York theaters at that time which appealed to the intelligence.

Pollock blamed it on the "crass ignorance" of the audiences.

"You go to the theater and check your brains with your hat," he said.

"The crowd you have to write for is a depressing crowd," he added. "If you use a word with more than two syllables, you are sunk."

So Pollock sailed for Egypt to tell his troubles to the Sphinx.

But Maxwell Anderson throws words like "tergiversation and ambiguity" at his audience, and they like it.

ELIZABETH WAS REALISTIC

Maxwell Anderson certainly has preserved the romantic glamor of the Elizabethan age when one remembers that Elizabeth herself was realistic. She was probably as disagreeable and ugly as a queen could be. She had very unladylike habits and a fishwife's vocabulary.

There is a bit of this in Anderson's play, but it is forgotten amid the poetry and romance.

Biographers have fallen in with the fad for truth at any price, and lives of Washington, Lincoln, and other heroes are written to show they were human, all-too-human. Maxwell Anderson sees in this another tendency to degeneration. His philosophy of art seems to be that gospel of Keats, "beauty is truth, truth beauty, that is all ye know on earth and all ye need to know."

Yet he has written some of the most roughly realistic drama of recent years.

(Every part of Walt's talkie)

Good eve'g ladies and gents and those who won't believe that at the Mayfair, Rudy Vallee and I laughed long and loud over the dopes who take me seriously and him to heart. This eve's guest stars are the Duncan Sisters, whose song-cooing in the harmonious manner has been aped and thefted by an army of desperate-for-recognition pirates, yet the Duncans remain on the heights. Which reminds me of Fred Allen's brilliant squeich. Fred once complained about an idea-burglar who incessantly lifted his stuff. Then Fred decided not to be bothered any more.

"I feel sorry for him," said Fred. "He cannot help it. I just learned that when he was born the doctor carelessly laid him on a piece of carbon paper."

Among other ways of making scoopee is announcing the fact that on January 11 Evelyn Laye will get her final divorce decree from Sonny Hale. Her intimates say that she will then begin her second honeymoon . . . Phil Plant may defer his African trip because his "heart" has been weeping so . . . Julius Tannen says he has come to the conclusion that success is merely "yessing" the right guy.

Larry Hart, who wrote numerous song hits, including "And Then My Heart Stood Still," and the recently divorced Nanette Guilford, of the Metropera, are that way, and probably will altar it . . . Sidney Howard, the playwright, and Polly Damrosch did not return from Yurrup together . . . Polly solo'd it back, confusing many of us who thought they'd middle-aisle it over there . . . Harry Richman leaves any moment for Texas to join "Sons o' Guns" and bat for his late pal, Jack Donahue . . . Richman is stranding his own night club, recently re-opened, to keep the large cast from being dumped into the unemployment market.

It may be news to dramatic editors that George S. Kaufman, co-author of "Once in a Lifetime," who also appears in the show, will strand that cast in Dec. . . . The role has been offered to his play partner, Moss Hart . . . Perhaps Kaufman decided to return to the Times dramatic bureau after reading George Jean Nathan's review about his histrionics in Judge . . . It might comfort Kaufman to read Pare Lorentz, the movie critic in the same mag, who, as an honest movie critic, scolded the Warner outfit for swindling the public with movies of columnists.

The Mayfair in the Ritz re-opened for the season Satdee night and as usual it was choked to capacity with a crowd in which any autograph maniac might have gone gaga over Mary Brian, who danced with Rudy; Alice Joyce and her husband, who made an attractive portrait; Blanche Ring and Herbert Rawlinson; Evelyn Herbert, Jean Aubert, who appeared bored with her admirers (What! Already?), and two Princesses, oodles of ingenues, some fading ladies, theatrical managers, and good and adequate actors. Alex Aarons, the producer, was there, too . . . He's a grand person, but he carries an umbrella, I hear.

Most interesting to me, however, was the wife who was accompanied by a private detective (an immaculate shoofly, at that), which spoiled her husband's evening . . . The various snobs who only come to snub each other got in your hair, and John Rumsey, who originated these exclusive (in a way) gatherings, kept stifling his titters all night, proving that he does pack a sense of humor and good manners.

You probably read about Al Siegel, whose torrid rhythms and accompaniments to Ethel ("Girl Crazy") Merman's songs are a delight. Al was stricken on the eve of the show's premiere and he was taken to a hosp, where he became unruly until the attaches agreed to permit him to play for Miss Merman at the premiere. Then he collapsed and is again in the sick room . . . It is good news to now that Miss Merman will keep giving Al 25 per cent of her wages while he is ill . . . Not all of us, you see, on Broadway are as black as we are tainted.

James J. Montague, the verse-fashioner for the Tribune, is a paw-in-law . . . It happened when his son on the N. Y. World became a groom . . . Dick Simmons, one of the Canyon's

Samuel Kliatchko, Pittsburgh's new violin-cellist, made his bow in the auditorium of the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night before a very cordial audience. He deserved the applause first of all for giving us so original a program, and then because he is so sincere a musician.

It must have been the first playing here of the Rachmaninoff Sonata, a work of not too serious music content nor genius, but with a very pleasant slow movement. Of the smaller numbers the Ravel was extraordinary music in the contemporary vague manner.

Mr. Kliatchko comes to us with excellent credentials, earned both here and abroad. His playing sings itself straight to your heart, and when he is less nervous than he appeared last night, has considerable more brilliance. His intonation is true and his appreciation of strong rhythms should make him a valued member of the Yost Quartet with which he is soon to appear.

Earl Mitchell played accompaniments.

Ex-Husband and Ex-Wife In Romantic Leads In Same Picture

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.

Hollywood gets a palpitation out of the news that Pauline Garon and Lowell Sherman are to play opposite each other in a foreign version of "The Queen's Husband."

They are two of the film company's many friendly ex-mates, but R-K-O doubtless gets it's private kick out of casting them as husband and wife. Sherman, of course, is now married to Helen Costello.

Lowell Sherman

The feminine lead in the English version of Robert Sherwood's comedy is played by Mary Astor.

A short time ago, Betty Compson started the fad of divorced couples working together when she did a picture under James Cruze's direction.

PLENTY TO CONFESS

A right saucy title in our opinion is "Confessions of a Co-Ed," which Paramount intends to regale us with in the near future.

Young Phillip Holmes, who'll do "An American Tragedy" when it's ready, is to play one of the college youths in the story. Martin Burton, once of Broadway's "Death Takes a Holiday," also will assist in putting virtue over the hurdles.

The right girl for the lead is being sought and sought among Hollywood's glittering parade.

They do say that "Confessions of a Co-Ed" is being taken from an actual document by an anonymous young lady. Nevertheless, a man, Sam Spewack, is entrusted with the task of adaptation. Mr. Spewack is the author of the play, "Poppa," and of several novels, to wit, "The Murder in the Gilded Cage" and "The Skyscraper Murder."

A candy shop on Hollywood boulevard has been almost put out of business by a continuag swarm of bees . . . The height of something or other is the billboard which advertises a certain picture as "bigger than humanity" . . . Most of the Hollywood miniature golf courses have decreed winter prices at 15 cents . . . And mighty few putters even at these bargain rates.

IN ANOTHER'S FOOTSTEPS

One of the leads in Fox's "Land Rush" will be played by Victor McLaglen.

Victor McLaglen

About four years ago, this story was made as a silent picture under the name of "Three Bad Men." Tom Santchi, George O'Brien and Frank Campeau were featured.

Benjamin Stoloff will direct this time, instead of John Ford.

Fox apparently doesn't agree with First National that there is a jinx on re-makes.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

handsomest playboys, lost a decision to John Perona at the latter's place . . . An ugly crack, a quickly-rising temper, and bang—one broken nose . . . The Stork Club perhaps is New York's New Yorkiest place on W. 58th . . . But what I started out to report was this unusual line on its menus:

"No ladies permitted after 6 p. m., unless accompanied by male escorts" . . . For which the management rates at least one lusty cheer . . . It keeps wives from suddenly startling husbands.

Film Playboy

Maurice Chevalier, French comedian, is starred in "Playboy of Paris," film coming to the Sheridan Square tomorrow and to the Fulton Saturday.

NOTES ABOUT COMING BILLS ON STAGE AND SCREEN

Katharine Cornell, who will appear in the Alvin next week in "Dishonored Lady," is very decided in her views, and also in her likes and dislikes. For instance, she never chooses for a sincere friend one who dislikes flowers, music or children, as Miss Cornell claims that at least one of these three things must appeal strongly to those whom she numbers among her favorites.

Norma Terris portrays the role of a princess who drinks a magic water in "The Well of Romance," the Preston Sturges-H. Maurice Jacquet comic operetta, which will have its world premiere in the Nixon Monday evening. Howard Marsh, creator of the "Student Prince," sings the role of a poet opposite Miss Terris.

"That Ferguson Family," next week's offering of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, was written by Howard Chenery and presented by William H. Wright in stock in seven cities before it was taken to New York.

ANN HARDING FILM

Ann Harding comes to the Stanley today in the screen version of David Belasco's stage production, "The Girl of the Golden West." Her husband, Harry Bannister, and James Rennie are in the cast.

Victor Potel, famous a number of years ago as "Slippery Slim" in Broncho Billy's Essanay westerns, provides the comedy relief in "The Virtuous Sin," the screen feature opening tomorrow in the Penn. He has divided his time in recent years between acting, writing and directing two-reel comedies.

"Playboy of Paris," which comes to the Fulton Saturday, is Maurice Chevalier's fifth starring all-talking, singing screen production. He made his film debut in "Innocents of Paris," played in "The Love Parade," followed with several numbers in "Paramount on Parade," and won popular favor in "The Big Pond."

"Playboy of Paris" also will have an East End showing, opening tomorrow in the Sheridan Square.

AMOS, ANDY ON SCREEN

Amos 'n' Andy, popular radio entertainers, come to the Warner tomorrow in their first screen production, "Check and Double Check."

The Realife invention will have its first public demonstration in Pittsburgh tomorrow in the Loew's Aldine with the presentation of King Vidor's "Billy the Kid."

Helen Twelvetrees, Nick Stuart, Stepin Fetchit, George Fawcett, Chester Conklin and Ben Turpin have the leading roles in "Swing High," circus film, which comes to the Harris Saturday.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

"For the Love O' Lil" comes to the Enright screen tomorrow. Jack Mulhall, Sally Starr and Elliot Nugent are in the leading roles.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the current drama on Captain Menke's Golden Rod Showboat at Montrose, just above Aspinwall. There is heat on the boat, it is announced.

"Silk Stocking Revue," a new show on the Mutual circuit, opens in the Academy Sunday night with a midnight show.

Echo of First Shot In War to Open A. E. F. Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Commemorating the firing of the first shot in the World War by an American military contingent, a shot will be fired at Fort Myer, Va., at 6:05 a. m. today, marking the opening of the twelfth annual reunion of the Society of the First Division of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Official records of the division showed that the first shot of the American army in France was fired by Battery C, Sixth Field Artillery. The same battery will fire the explosive in opening the reunion.

For little stomachs with too much acid

Children are especially subject to the ills of excess acid. Sour stomach, biliousness, lack of spirits, etc., are usually the result. Quickly corrected by pleasant-tasting

BRIOSCHI

(Pronounced Bree-oshy)

All children like its fizzy just sweet enough taste. Quickly neutralizes the acid condition and is gently laxative, cleansing the delicate system of impurities. Give your children Brioschi. They'll like it and the results of too much acid will never trouble them.

It costs the large size of 24 drinks. At any Italian store or your favorite druggist.

"I Wish I Could Shout the Praises of Flaxolyn from the tops of the tallest buildings in Pittsburgh"

Read this amazing statement by Thomas C. Martindale, famous pure food expert, dietician and radio lecturer

"I wish I could personally tell every soul in this city about my wonderful experiences with Flaxolyn.

"I wish I could have them sit with me at my desk as person after person tells me what Flaxolyn has done for them.

"Women come in, some of them almost with tears of joy in their eyes, and recite the most remarkable stories of how new happiness has come into their homes since they have been taking Flaxolyn and feel so much better. I often say to myself, 'How much younger they seem'. Their improvement is reflected in their lighter spirits, as well.

"Men—men of all ages—men who never took much stock in medicines—have tried Flaxolyn on my advice, and come back to me profuse in their thanks for recommending Flaxolyn to them.

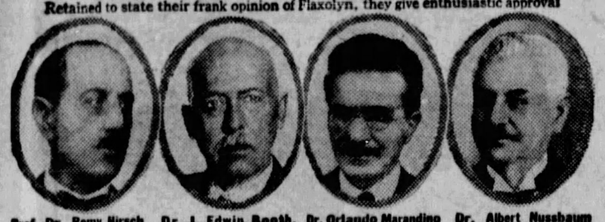
"I could go on telling you about Flaxolyn for hours. Some of the cases would be unbelievable. But I have seen and heard the results with my own eyes and ears. I know them to be true."

Thomas C. Martindale

Anyone who has met Mr. Martindale knows him to be above everything SINCERE. Nothing in the world would induce him to make the foregoing statement unless he was sure Flaxolyn was all and more than claimed for it. He feels that Flaxolyn is a benefit to humanity and should be in every home in America.

These Physicians Recommend Flaxolyn to You as a Preparation of Unusual Merit

Retained to state their frank opinion of Flaxolyn, they give enthusiastic approval

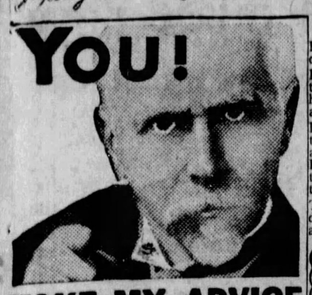


Prof. Dr. Remy Hirsch of Berlin, Germany: "Sluggishness, dull complexions marred by unsightly blotches, and other complaints, are often the result of a cause not more deeply-seated than faulty elimination. I consider Flaxolyn a safe, pleasant, powerful remedy for temporary Constipation."

Dr. I. Edwin Booth, New York City: "Flaxolyn has the highly-desirable ability of stimulating the intestinal tract without irritating or griping. It should also be preferred because of its old-fashioned herb content, and because it is mild in its action. A fine formula."

Dr. Orlando Marandino of Florence, Italy: (Stomach specialist of many years' standing) "Flaxolyn is an excellent extract containing valuable herbs and roots. It has a splendid invigorating effect on laggard stomach and bowels."

Dr. Albert Nussbaum of Vienna: "In all my years of specialization on nervous disorders, I notice that in many nervous conditions, constipation is generally to be found. Flaxolyn is an outstanding formula for occasional constipation."



TAKE MY ADVICE

Be warned by those occasional spells of sick headaches, biliousness, heartburn, belching and bloating, gas and other symptoms of constipation! Take care or the attacks may come more frequently.

Don't eat foods that disagree with you. Drink more water. Get out in the sunshine.

The Whole World Supplies Flaxolyn with Herbs

Flaxolyn contains no drastic or habit-forming drugs. No irritating iodides.

Flaxolyn owes its great popularity to one thing—pure herbs in effective combination with highly approved vegetable extracts, bile salts and organic medicinals.

It takes weeks to extract all the good out of the raw herbs for Flaxolyn. Many processes are gone through before you get your bottle. But at every stage, expert chemists guide the manufacture, and a physician of reputation stands in control.

This very day hand coupon below to your druggist, who knows the success of Flaxolyn, and gladly stands behind the guarantee.

THE FAMOUS FLAXOLYN GUARANTEE

1. Flaxolyn is guaranteed safe and pure.
2. Flaxolyn is guaranteed to show results by the sixth pleasant spoonful. If you are not perfectly satisfied with the improvement, return the partly-used bottle to your druggist, and get your money back. Flaxolyn is free unless it does you good!

Bill Turner, gray-haired burgess of Wilkinsburg, combines his sense of humor with his sense of loyalty to his home town. A few nights ago an offender was arraigned before the burgess for drinking too much.

"Where did you get the stuff?" the burgess quizzed.

"East Liberty."

"East Liberty! What's the matter with Wilkinsburg's products? Why don't you patronize the home town? I'm going to discharge you on one condition —that after this you buy your stuff right here in Wilkinsburg."

Then there was the hearing of the youngsters arraigned for tearing palings from a resident's fence. There is no particular point to the story other than that it shows why Burgess Turner has more friends than the rest of us have enemies.

The Burgess looked down from his high desk to see the heads of the boys.

"What have you boys been doing?" the burgess tried to ask sternly.

"Wait a minute, burgess, here's a fifth," a policeman offered, and he lifted a 6-year-old who had been hidden beneath the burgess' desk.

The burgess lifted the scared, tongue-tied offender, dressed in unclean overalls, to his lap.

"All right," the burgess addressed him. "Now what should I do to these friends of yours for tearing down those fence palings?"

"M-m-make 'em," stuttered the boy, "make 'em put—put them back."

"We did put 'em back," the four shouted to their recent colleague.

"Here, then," spoke up the burgess as he handed the youngest some coins, "you go down to the store and buy all your friends an ice cream cone. Out with you!"

Mr. O. P. Merriman, of the East End, is an amateur collector, but what we enjoy about his hobby is his answer when he's asked why he collects. He says he doesn't know why—an excellent answer. The heaviest items in Mr. Merriman's collection are old newspapers and older theater programs. He has, too, all the stanzas of "America," written especially for him in pencil by the author, Samuel Smith, and in Indianapolis many years ago James Whitcomb Riley paused while passing through the city to write for Mr. Merriman, who was then in his teens, eight lines of verse about a locomotive. Then there is the large oil painting showing a bay-windowed, mustached giant holding up in good cheer a mug of beer. This painting was given Mr. Merriman by George Houston. Its history is that it was once used in one of the earlier prohibition campaigns. One more item: An old, old liquor license for Westmoreland County which entitled the holder to sell, as it was spelled then, "cyder."

We continue to learn more and more about Charlie Faulkner, the widest police inspector in town. Our latest revelation is probably the most startling: he eats a dish of vanilla ice cream every morning for breakfast. There is this, too: Not long ago he went out to Schenley Park and bought from Al McBride, the pro, a set of left-hand golf clubs for his daughter. Somebody suggested Charlie buy a set for himself, but no, Charlie said golf had ruined too many men, men who neglected their business for the links. Well, a few days later Charlie himself was up to his neck in a water hazard on one of those downtown miniature golf courses.

Police Chief Promises to Kill All Gang Rule

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Following the killing of "The Edgewater Kid," a member of Goldie Gorio's North Side gang, Kinky King, leader of the rival West Side gang, is murdered. Evidence points to Goldie, but crooked politics prevent his arrest. To satisfy the public, Polack Annie, the Kid's woman, and formerly Kinky's, is arrested. When the police chief refuses to release Annie, Goldie creates havoc by destroying public property. Later, he raids the jail and kidnaps Annie. The police give chase. As they close in, Goldie throws a twenty-dollar gold-piece at the chief, striking him in the eye, and escapes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIII.

When the reporters had gone, the chief sat for a long time at his desk, nervously puffing at his cigar. As his secretary ran in and out he gave to him always the same message: "I'm in conference and can't be disturbed."

He was revolving in his mind a plan and he had just reached the conclusion when the telephone rang. It was the Mayor.

"Come into my office at once —that committee will be here in half an hour."

The Chief smiled to himself. He walked with resolute stride to the Mayor's office, and when he entered he smiled the broader when he saw the harassed countenance of His Honor.

"Don't worry any more, Highguy," he said confidently. "Our troubles are over. I've got the thing all worked out."

"Yes, you've had it all worked out for a long time now," declared the Mayor, looking out the window.

"Well, now, I have."

"You may have it all worked out, but what am I going to tell these people when they come up here? Insult upon insult has been flung at us by this mob. We'll never explain this off."

Solution
Chief Explains Plan To Mayor

The Chief patted the Mayor on the back and sat down and talked with him 15 minutes. He spoke without cessation, as a man inspired. When he had finished the beclouded face of the Mayor cleared and he was smiling, too.

"I believe it will work, Leo," he said.

"Hell, it can't muff. I can steam them guys up so that they will stick up the City Hall and the First National Bank at the same time. Believe! Man, I know!"

"It listens good, but how are we going to convince this committee—you can't tell them your idea. They would never approve it. They have lost confidence in us now. What are you going to say?"

"I'll tell them I'm going through with this. I'm going the limit. Look at this eye—don't you think I'm going the limit?"

The Mayor noticed the swollen optic of the Chief for the first time.

"Goldie?" he asked.

"Hmph! Goldie and his gold. That was the payoff."

The Chief rubbed his eyes meditatively.

"How long are you going to ask for?" asked the Mayor.

"A week, give or take a little," replied the Chief.

"I don't believe they will ever stand for it—they'll go right after our heads pretty."

"Stall 'em—you can——"

Impatient
Mood of Committee Is Belligerent

The Mayor and the Chief were still talking when the members of the committee were announced. The Mayor adjusted his tie and smoothed out his coat lapels. The Chief walked out the private door.

The committee, now augmented to 14, debouched from the door and formed a skirmish line before the Mayor's desk. The Mayor was standing, his countenance serious, and he bowed to each in turn. If the visit of the committee the first time had been grim and determined, this time it smacked of belligerence and impatience.

For a moment nothing was said, then Merchant Sam Mandelbaum, who acted as spokesman, began:

"Mr. Mayor, we were here to see you 24 hours ago and you promised that you would have this disgraceful situation in hand. But things have become worse—unspeakably so. We have now come to inform you that we are making a direct appeal to the governor of the state to place this town under martial law and to rid us once and forever of the oppression of gang rule."

The Mayor cleared his throat and held up his hand.

Optimistic View
Thinks Things Happened For the Best

"Mr. Spokesman and members of your committee," began the Mayor in an even voice, "I will not dwell on the fact that the events of the last two nights have been somewhat exaggerated.

"There are times when things appear for the worse and make for the better. We are likely to get far less criticism for the kidnaping of this girl, Polack Annie, than we would have had we brought her to trial, neglecting the real killers and clouding the case. For, within the last few hours, I have received information which shows me clearly that had we tried to convict her we would have made a laughing stock of justice. She had nothing to do with killing the gangster, Kinky King.

"At last I have found the key to the whole thing and I can now assure you the solution of our troubles is imminent. The gangsters have only walked into a trap which will mean their almost immediate extinction."

"Words mean nothing to us, Mr. Mayor," interjected Mrs. Guersney Taylor. But the Mayor was not listening. He had picked up his telephone and was saying, "Come into my office at once, Leo."

"I would ask you to listen to our chief of police," he announced as the chief walked in.

"Leo," said the Mayor, glancing about at the tense, determined countenances before him, "I want you to explain, as far as possible, the idea we formulated for the eradication of the Goldie Gorie gang."

Asks Patience
Says Militia Would Do Little Good

The chief walked beside the Mayor. He stood before the committee with confidence on his face. Several of the committee whispered together, while others remained silent and frowned.

"I don't know just what His Honor, the Mayor, has told you," began the chief, "but I will waste no words. In the first place, we have learned that it was the Gorio gang which ordered and executed the killing of Kinky King. And this after a peace agreement had been reached. The plan the Mayor and I have agreed upon is a drastic one. I only beg that you allow us to carry it through and offer no criticism for the manner in which we do it. Should you call in the state militia, as has been suggested, you might have peace for a short time. The gangs merely will lay low. The militia do not understand how to deal with gangsters, while the police do. Furthermore the police of this city are citizens here and have the interests of the municipality at heart. Outsiders would not.

"All that the Mayor and I ask is patience of you, who rep-

NEAL WIDOW WON'T URGE PAROLE

Store Superintendent Says No Official Was Told To Urge Commutation

Officials of Boggs & Buhl department store today denied being favorable to the commutation of the sentence of Gilbert W. Kelley, serving a 20-year penitentiary term for his part in the holdup and killing in 1921 of a store messenger.

Kelley, who is assigned as a clerk in the penitentiary, prepared his own commutation petition, which was presented to the Pardon Board yesterday at Harrisburg, and in it stated officials of the store believed he had been sufficiently punished.

W. H. Newmyer, superintendent of Boggs & Buhl, said no official of the company had given authorization for such a statement. Mrs. Margaret Neal, of 3720 Wapello street, widow of James H. Neal, the man who was slain, and members of her family, although they have not formally opposed commutation, have refused to agree to commutation. District Attorney Andrew T. Park formally opposed commutation.

Mayor Charles H. Kline, judge at Kelley's trial, and Judge Samuel H. Gardner, at that time assistant district attorney, were quoted as favoring commutation.

Attorney Benjamin Lencher, Kelly's counsel, said he did not seek a full pardon for Kelly, but asked only that his case be put into the hands of the penitentiary parole board and that they be empowered to make such recommendation of commutation as they saw fit before the completion of sentence.

JOB AID PROJECT BIDS BANNED

Picks, shovels, wheelbarrows and other implements to complete emergency public improvement work by the city as relief to the unemployment situation, will be bought from local concerns instead of asking bids from outside sources.

This was decided yesterday by City Council after Councilman Robert Alderdice made a motion to that effect. More than $25,000 has been appropriated for this purpose.

In making his motion, Alderdice said:

"We must patronize home industries. We should do all in our power to boost home trade."

The equipment will be purchased by the department of supplies.

Pinchot, Wife Speak At Carrick Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot will be the principal speakers at a meeting of the Allegheny County Association of Township Commissioners in the Carrick High School, Parkfield avenue, Carrick, Monday night. Mrs. Pinchot will lecture on the motion pictures of the Pinchot expedition to the South Sea Islands.

Judge James Drew will also speak.

13 Fined in Raid, Proprietor Held

Charles Booker, Negro, alleged proprietor of a speakeasy at 1230 Hazel street, raided last night, was held for court charged with violating the Snyder act by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Court today. Thirteen men and two women, all Negroes, also arrested, were fined $5 each.

Ex-Pugilist Annoys Family, Father Says

Jack Katish, former pugilist, sleeps all day, prowls all night, and annoys his family in general, the pugilist's father, John Katish, of 4839 Butler street, testified today. Magistrate Thomas Jones discharged the younger Katish after ordering him to behave in the future.

WRITING A TALKIEGRAM

BATHROBED ED LOWRY, MASTER OF CEREMONIES, AT WORK

'Talkiegram' Players Vie For Cash, Tickets In New Pastime

Crossword puzzles, anagrams, ping pong and even pee-wee golf have been sidetracked for the new "Talkiegram" game just started in the Sun-Telegraph.

Here's where the readers of this newspaper have an opportunity to match their wits against each other in a pastime that not only offers liberal cash prizes, but also lots of tickets for the leading motion picture theaters.

The "Talkiegram" game is absolutely new. It was originated and inaugurated by the Sun-Telegraph and has already become a favorite indoor sport. In hundreds of homes throughout the Pittsburgh reading area "Talkiegrams" have become the popular indoor game. Scores of children and grownups sat around the home tables last night studying the titles of the current motion picture plays with the amusement advertising page of the Sun-Telegraph as their guide and from the many letters the "Talkiegram" Editor has already received it is evident that young and old are getting a lot of fun out of it. Even the show folks have gone "Talkiegram." Ed Lowry, the new master of ceremonies at the Stanley, was caught working on them yesterday.

On the other hand, "Talkiegrams" are more or less disrupting the routine of many offices throughout the city. It's worthwhile to try and write them because the Sun-Telegraph offers $10 for the best one submitted every day; $5 for the next best; $3 for the third best; $2 for the fourth; $1 each for the next five, and 50 pairs of theater tickets for the leading motion picture theaters every day.

Don't miss this opportunity to earn easily a cash prize or two tickets for your favorite theater. Turn to page 10 for complete instructions. Don't wait Start today!

Communist Leader Talks on North Side

A Communist rally will hear I. Amter, leader of the Communist Party, in North Side Carnegie Music Hall at 7:30 p. m. Saturday. Amter has recently been released from jail, where he was held for his part in an unemployment demonstration in New York March 6.

HOUSE OVER OLD MINE BURNS

Captain, Aide Thrown Into Basement as Walls Fall, Hoseman Thrown Off Roof

A fire captain and two hosemen were injured this morning in the partial collapse of a building while fighting a fire in a vacant house at 2249 Wylie avenue terrace.

The injured are Capt. Henry J. Wagner, E. J. Grattan and Lawrence Schramm. The men are attached to No. 26 Engine Company.

HOUSE UNDERMINED

The house is undermined by a burning coal mine, and frequent fires, firemen said, have reduced it to a shell. Capt. Wagner and Grattan were working on the roof when the rotten timbers splintered, hurtling the firefighters 35 feet into the basement below.

Covered by shattered timber and plaster, the men were dragged from the cellar by Lieut. Thomas Gross and his policemen. Other than shock, minor bruises and lacerations the men were uninjured.

THROWN FROM ROOF

Hoseman Schramm was hurt when he fell from the roof of the house. He was carrying a heavy nozzle when he lost his balance. The nozzle struck him on the back of the head as he fell. He was removed to the Mercy Hospital where his condition is reported serious.

The fire was extinguished with a loss of $500, firemen reported. A Negro family living next door was forced to flee. The mine causes frequent fires in the vicinity, firemen said.

WIDOW KILLED, DRIVER HELD

Mrs. Catherine Roberts, 59, a widow, of Jacks Run road, Ross Township, was killed last night when she was struck by an automobile on the Bellevue road, near her home.

The machine was driven, deputy coroners said, by Andrew Spencer, of 231 Summit street, Bellevue. Spencer was released on bond pending an inquest.

Two boys were injured, one seriously, when a truck in which they were riding overturned after sideswiping another on the Coal Valley road, between Coal Valley and Dravosburg, last night. The one seriously injured was Nick Sherman, 16, of 700 Indiana avenue, Glassport. Ernie Orenyak, 16, of 621 Indiana avenue, Glassport, was the other victim.

When an automobile driven by Julius Ruben, 32, of Avondale place, figured in a collision with one driven by R. M. Netherland, 56, of Banksville road, at Stanton avenue and North St. Clair streets, Ruben suffered a probable fracture of the skull.

WRIT HOLDS UP EXTRADITION

A writ of habeas corpus was procured in Common Pleas Court in a fight by Stewart R. Snyder against extradition to New York state on a charge of abandonment of his children. The writ was directed to Oscar Nelson, an officer of Jamestown, N. Y., who came to take Snyder there after extradition papers were approved by the governors of New York and Pennsylvania.

At the hearing before Judge Elder W. Marshall, Attorney Joseph Rossi contended Snyder's wife left him in Pittsburgh and took their children to Jamestown.

Judge Marshall and Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt agreed no crime had been committed in New York if the separation occurred in Pittsburgh. Rossi said Snyder had contributed $17 weekly to his family until May, when lack of steady employment prevented further payments.

The hearing was continued to next Monday and Mrs. Snyder will be asked to appear.

Graham to Speak At Turtle Creek

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham will be the principal speaker at a community rally for citizens of Turtle Creek in the Turtle Creek High School Sunday night. The rally will be under auspices of the Ministerial Association.

McKeesport Girl Accused Of Beer Transport Held

Miss Helena Dillon, 22, of 3403 Walnut street, McKeesport, was held for court under $1,000 bond by the United States commissioner on a charge of possessing and transporting three cases of home brewed beer in McKeesport on September 11.

Harry McKnight, a co-defendant, owner of the automobile used in the alleged transportation, was discharged. Prohibition agents who arrested Miss Dillon were unable to identify him as the man who they said got out of the machine just before the arrest of Miss Dillon.

Removal of Train Deprives Windber Of Timepiece

With the removal of passenger train service on the South Fork branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad, hundreds of families between South Fork and Windber will lose their timepiece. The early morning passenger train was as good as an alarm clock to a large majority of the people

The railroad company has applied to the Public Service Commission to discontinue the trains, as they are being operated at a loss.

Divorce Suit Fails, Wife's Age Held Man's Motive

Martin C. Metzler, 43, of Bryn Mawr, Versailles Township, apparently wanted a divorce from Mrs. Emma L. Metzler, 63, because of her age, Judge James H. Gray declared in an opinion given in Common Pleas Court, refusing Metzler a divorce.

They were married in December, 1910, and lived at 2504 Milburn street, McKeesport, when Metzler left his wife in June, 1926, according to the testimony. Metzler testified he had left her for five days on a previous occasion when she accused him of attentions to other women, and he gave as his reason for finally leaving her that she had swung a stick at him and created a scene.

Mrs. Metzler contested the suit, which gave cruelty and indignities as the grounds, and denied the accusations of her husband, saying she had been a good housekeeper.

Judge Gray said in his opinion: "From the appearance of the parties and the testimony given by each of them, we are satisfied there is no merit in the charges of the husband and that he is trying to do what respondent charges him with doing, that is, he is endeavoring to divorce her because of her age."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 23.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Got back home without a puncture. We may have depression, but we got good tires, and they are selling worth the money now. Mr. Hoover just appointed an employment agent to see who was working, and who was just standing talking about depression. One of our submarines went down 332 feet purposely. We have had 'em go lower, but this is the first one to get back up again. Germany has a new airplane with its tail where its head ought to be. They ought to call it the congressional plane.

SCHOOLEY REPORTS CITY TAX COLLECTIONS NORMAL

YEAR'S INCOME HIGH DESPITE SLACK TRADE

Treasurer Gives Figures Indicating Prosperity; Water Rents Swell Total

Continued business depression here will not affect the collection of city taxes and water rents in the least, in the opinion of City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, who yesterday made public figures to substantiate his claims.

Tax collections for the first nine months of the present year, Schooley said, have been in excess of the amounts estimated in the annual budget. Should the collections diminish for the remaining three months of 1930, according to Schooley, they will be augmented by collections of delinquent water rents, on which the city treasurer's office has contracted for the past several weeks.

The estimated collections for the 12 months is $1,150,000. Of this amount, the figures show, $1,245,221 has already been taken in.

Schooley said he was asked by several Pittsburgh businessmen whether depression would affect the collection of taxes, and his statement was the result.

His report said in part:

"From the figures which I have at hand there is no indication of any depression whatsoever. I think most of us would not have been surprised had our collections been sub-normal this year. I think it is safe to say 1930 will be a normal year for this office. This justifies a spirit of optimism. Our collections of delinquent taxes have been exceedingly good.

"Estimated collections for 1930 on which the budget was made total $24,880,400. Actual collections from January to September were $21,732,711. Probable total collections for the year will amount to $24,873,000."

RAIDS NET RUM, TWO ARRESTS

Liquor was reported seized by prohibition agents in raids on a dwelling in Garfield and a barroom in Duquesne yesterday.

A 10-gallon still and small quantities of moonshine, gin and homebrew were reported found in a raid on a dwelling at 203 Gross street, where Henry Michel was arrested.

Peter Doerr, 47, was arrested, agents said, following the seizure of homebrew and moonshine in a barroom at 517 West Grant street, Duquesne. Doerr was held in bond.

Disorderly in Own Home, Man Fined

Charles Stern, 37, of 215 North Aiken avenue, was fined for disorderly conduct in his own home on complaint of his mother, Mrs. Mary Stern, in Morals Court today. Mrs. Stern told Magistrate Thomas B. Jones that she had her son arrested yesterday when he engaged in a fight with his younger brother, during which quantities of her chinaware and furniture were destroyed. He continually drank, she said, and quarrelled with his brother. He was fined $10 or 10 days.

Negro Found Guilty In Slaying of Wife

William Robinson, 22, Negro, of 4812 Broad street, was found guilty of first degree murder with a recommendation of life imprisonment by a jury in Criminal Court today in the death June 7 of his estranged life, Loraine, 19, of 512 Schenley street.

The commonwealth contended Robinson shot her in a jealous rage. He said the shooting was accidental.

OBITUARY

Keating Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emily A. Keating, 88, who died Monday at her home, 6941 Edgerton avenue, East End, were to be held today in St. Bede's Catholic Church, Dallas avenue, of which she was a member. She was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh. She leaves two sons, E. H., of Chicago, and F. A. Keating, of Pittsburgh, and two daughters, Mrs. M. F. Carroll, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Katherine Reilly, of New York.

Mrs. Katherine W. Klanke.

Mrs. Katherine Wagner Klanke, 97, died today at the home of her niece, Mrs. Katherine M. Landefeld, 29 Claus avenue, Carrick. Mrs. Klanke was born in the Grand Duchy of Hesse in 1833 and came to Pittsburgh in 1871. She was the oldest member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, South Side. She leaves a brother, George Wagner. Funeral services will be held in St. Paul's Church Sunday afternoon, with interment in Zimmerman's Cemetery.

Cox Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen McNally Cox will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Thomas' Church, North Braddock. She died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Agnes Leach, of 583 Stokes avenue, North Braddock. Besides her daughter she leaves three sons, Lambert, Edward and Thomas Cox; two brothers, and four sisters.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers, and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: Generally speaking, there is something mighty wrong with an organization or an individual who can't stand being kidded along. What do you think about it?

Capt. Menke.

CAPT. J. W. MENKE, Aspinwall: Yes, I would say there is something wrong with an individual or an organization that can't stand kidding. If a man kids some one else, he should be willing to take some of his own medicine.

Miss McLain.

MISS MARIE M'LAIN, entertainer: My answer is in the negative. If you have visited or will pay a visit to the Golden Rod Showboat, you will be convinced otherwise.

Mr. Replogle.

CARL REPLOGLE, actor: Yes, I believe there is something wrong with such a person or organization. A man of this caliber would have very little sense of humor.

Mr. Austin.

JOHN LEE AUSTIN, actor: I believe that there is a limit to everything; nothing should be carried to the extreme. This applies to kidding as well as to anything else.

Miss Stevens.

MISS JUPIE STEVENS, actress: I think the above statement is correct. A person or organization that would come under this heading would be either very narrow-minded or exceedingly selfish.

Miss Devoe.

MISS MILDRED DEVOE, actress: There is, indeed, something mighty wrong with a person or an organization that can't be kidded along. This is a world of "give and take;" we should be able to play our part on whichever side we may be.

BUS PROBLEMS STUDIED HERE

Technical practices in bus operations were discussed by the Society of Automotive Engineers in its second meeting today of a three-day conference at the William Penn Hotel.

Leaders in transportation systems and engineering practices headed the discussions. During the morning session, with Dr. W. A. Gruse, of the Mellon Institute, as chairman, A. M. Wolf, of Newark, described practical methods for determining and comparing tractive ability, and Adrian Hughes, Jr., of the United Railways and Electric Company of Baltimore, showed advantages gained by using latent heat of cooling water.

In the afternoon Prof. J. W. Trimmer, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, talked on economies in motor transportation, while J. S. Lowe, of Akron Transportation Company, described lowered operation costs by training drivers.

A banquet will be held tonight, with F. P. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, as principal speaker.

BOASTS RESULT IN RUM RAID

A letter received by Police Commissioner Charles Faulkner, of the North Side district, the writer claiming to be a schoolmate of the officer's daughter, Miss Blanche Faulkner, resulted this morning in the raid on a residence where police found a 100-gallon still and 40 gallons of moonshine.

The letter said that Sam Ferrugga, 48, of 1616 Branchford street, was bragging to everyone in the neighborhood that he was making moonshine, and had the protection of the North Side police head.

Woods Run police investigated the complaint and arrested Ferrugga on a charge of violating the Snyder Act. Police reported destroying 10 fifty-gallon vats and four barrels of mash.

Trace Gun to Army, Possessor in Jail

When it was learned that a gun with which he had threatened to settle an argument with Mrs. Bernie Nixdorfer, of 536 Tripoli street, was the property of Battery C, of the 176th Field Artillery, Andrew Little, same address, was held in Morals Court today for investigation.

Fined for Attack On Restaurant Man

Frank Smith, 36, of 224 Isabella street, was fined $10 in North Side Police Court today after Charles Lenig, 48, of 802 Sherman avenue, was beaten last night in his Ohio street restaurant. Lenig said Smith was a member of a gang attacking him. Smith denied the charges.

BENEFIT DANCE HELPS POOR

More than 400 Sharpsburgers last night attended a dance in the Sharpsburg Knights of Columbus Hall, Seventeenth and Middle streets, for the relief of the borough's poor and unemployed in need of immediate help.

Mrs. Sautina Casperino, chairman of Relief of Sharpsburg Poor, a newly organized body, said the money will be used to distribute clothing and food to the needy poor, to those who have been unemployed for a considerable length of time, and to women and children left fatherless. Other benefit dances will be held in the near future, the chairman said.

U. S. TAX CLAIM IN BELL CASE ALLOWED

Referee in Bankruptcy Tells Creditors Estate Shows Only $188,888 in Assets

At a meeting of creditors of the bankrupt estate of John A. Bell, former banker and coal operator, before Watson B. Adair, referee in bankruptcy, the latter allowed a claim of $44,489.16 against the estate by the government for income taxes for the years 1917, 1921 and 1923.

The meeting was called for action on the report of James N. Jarvis, receiver for the estate, which showed assets of $188,888.63 for distribution among creditors. There are priority claims of approximately $90,000, including the government taxes, and approximately $6,000,000 in general claims.

Among the latter was a claim of $5,140,070 by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad Company, which concern made an offer to compromise for $336,894.41. Only the government's claim and some minor claims were approved by the referee.

Another hearing will be held next week.

LOMASK LEADS SYMPHONY

Milton Lomask, well known member of the KDKA Symphony Orchestra, has been selected concertmaster of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, for which membership in five classes is still available.

Mr. Kliachko

Lomask's selection followed an audition before Gustave Tinlot, former concertmaster of the New York Symphony Orchestra. Tinlot also endorsed Carl Rosenberg for first viola and Samuel Kliachko first cellist. Lomask, who plays with the Max Shapiro Quartet, has degrees from the University of Pittsburgh law school and college, and is a member of the Allegheny County Bar.

Announcement was made at the headquarters of Kliachko, the Symphony Society, 1421 Park Building, that memberships are available in all of the following classes for the coming season:

Associate, Class A, $20.00; Associate, Class B, $12.50; associate, Class C, $7.50; active, $35.00; contributing, $100.00.

Mr. Lomask

Two seats are allotted to each member for each of the five concerts to be given this year.

HURT FIGHTING FIRE IN HOME

Police today were investigating a fire which destroyed the home of Harry Simons, 29, a Negro, in Francis street, Coraopolis, last night. Simons, neighbors said, attempted to beat out the flames, but was overcome and had to be carried out of the burning home. He suffered serious burns and was removed to the Sewickley Valley Hospital.

The house, a two-story, four-room structure, was a mass of flames when firemen arrived, and they were unable to save it. The loss was undetermined, according to Assistant Fire Chief H. B. Harziger.

FINEVIEW SEEKS STREET REPAIR

Condition of many streets in the Fineview district will be brought to the attention of city officials, according to an announcement by the Fineview Board of Trade.

At the last meeting of the board the lack of repair work to streets in the community was discussed, and a special committee was appointed to present the matter to the Department of Public Works. It is felt that because of the unemployment situation now is an opportune time for consideration of such work.

The board reports 45 new members added during the recent campaign. Residents over 18 years of age have been invited to attend the meeting the night of November 14, in Fineview Industrial School, Meadville street.

Chief Impresses Some Of the Visitors

"And this method of yours," asked Mr. Mandelbaum, "how long will it take for you to accomplish it?"

"Less than a week," replied the chief, "to kill off gang rule in this city. Kill it off—that is my promise—my plan will be executed. I mean my plan will be ready for execution—"

"I trust there will be no murders," said a minister.

"No—no, not murder," replied the chief. "Of course there will be—h'm—casualties. But not murders!"

The committeemen for a moment seemed to be undecided. The forceful, direct and deadly manner in which the chief had gone at it no doubt had made an impression on some of them.

"If you will allow us to retire a moment," suggested Mr. Mandelbaum, "we will give your our decision."

"You are welcome to my office—make yourselves at home here," courteously said the Mayor, taking the chief by the arm and walking out the private door.

"Well, Leo, have we got them?" anxiously queried the Mayor when they entered the anteroom. "You sure told 'em."

"If that minister and those two dames don't get sentimental, we're in the driver's seat. And I'll make good. This won't be a murder. It'll be a slaughter. Leave it to Leo!"

PAIR PAY $2.75 TO BE 'SLEUTHS'

Two men who quit their restaurant jobs to be detectives were discharged in the North Side Police Court today while a search was being made for a man who made them sleuths, according to police.

The two, Earl Duff, 24, of Forbes street, and Ralph Moore, 28, of Sandusky street, left their jobs after listening to a story of a stranger who told them how easily they could be made detectives, police say the men told them after their arrest. Each paid the man $2.75, all they could spare, and were taken on their beat—East Park—by the man. But a policeman who came along couldn't see them as sleuths and took them to the police station.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Stone Bridal Attendants Chosen

September and October have brought many fashionable weddings to the social world, and November will be as brilliant bridally as the preceding fall months.

Dominating all bridal events of early November will be the marriage of Marian Stone, daughter of the Stephen Stones, of Forbes street, and Edward Purcell Mellon, II, son of the Thomas Alexander Mellons, of North Negley avenue, Monday, November 3.

The wedding ceremony will take place in the Sixth Presbyterian Church at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with the Rev. Dr. H. H. Forsyth officiating, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr. A small reception in the Stone home will follow.

Marian today is announcing her bridal party. Mrs. C. Chester Bailey will be her matron of honor, and Mrs. Sydney A. Stewart and Mrs. J. Shirley Austin, sisters of the bride-elect, will be bridesmaids, and so will be Mrs. John B. F. Sellers and Helen S. Mellon, both sisters of the bridegroom-elect, Jane Allderdice and Kathleen Curtis, of New York.

John A. B. Simpson, of New York, will be best man, and John B. F. Sellers, Sydney A. Stewart, J. Shirley Austin, C. Chester Bailey, Stephen Stone, Jr., William Larimer Mellon, Jr., Alan Evans, Samuel Jones and McCook Reed will be ushers.

There's debutante news today, too. First of all, Mrs. Clinton L. Childs will give a dinner dance in the Pittsburgh Club December 29 in honor of her debutante daughter, Elizabeth Pontefract Childs, who made her debut in June at a tea her grandmother, Mrs. James G. Pontefract, gave for her.

The date for Hester Harton Browne's debut has been changed from December 25 to December 22 when her parents, the Richard Hollyday Semples, will give a dance for her in the Pittsburgh Club.

And I've heard that Frederick Curtis Perkins, of Pittsburgh and New York, will give a dinner-dance in the Pittsburgh Golf Club on December 30 for his debutante niece, Laura Collord, daughter of the George L. Collords.

Now that nearly everyone's back in town, entertainments are being given for brides of June, back from wedding trips.

To Fete Bride

Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, of "Highmont," Fifth avenue, will entertain with a luncheon in her home on Wednesday, November 5, at which her friends will meet Mrs. Richardt Erns Clemson.

The guest of honor was Elisabeth Harding Christie, daughter of the Lindsay Robert Christies, of Denniston avenue, before her marriage on June 19, and the wedding took place, I recall, in "Highmont." Mr. Clemson is the son of Mrs. John Barton Luckie, of Kinsman road.

The H. C. Kriders and their daughter, Margaret, of South Aiken avenue, sailed for Europe Tuesday evening on the Aquitania. Margaret will marry Gordon Ivy, of Bromley, Kent, England, next month. She will make her home abroad after her marriage, and her father and mother will return to the States late in November on the Mauretania after attending the wedding.

Weddings at home and abroad keep many folks occupied with the interesting duty of serving in bridal parties.

Usher in East

Since Pittsburgh society is more closely affiliated with society in the East than in other parts of the states, members of Pittsburgh society are often ushers and bridesmaids at New York weddings.

Harkness Edwards will be an usher at the wedding of Rosaline Evans, daughter of Hartman Kuhn Evans, of New York, and Van Vechten Burger, son of Mrs. Clarence Chew Burger, also of New York, which will take place November 17 in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, with a cousin of the bride-elect, the Rev. Allen Evans, officiating. A reception in the Hotel Ambassador will follow.

Evelyn Evans, of New York, will be her sister's only attendant. Clarence Chew Burger, Jr., will be his brother's best man, and the ushers, in addition to Mr. Edwards, will be Paul Bancroft, Jr., Theodore L. Bates, Arthur P. Grew, H. Clarkson Scott, Otto Harry Gruner, Jr., Lawrence Snell and Robert Simkins, all of New York.

Edna Virginia Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. T. H. Hamilton, was a bridesmaid at the wedding yesterday of Caroline Garvin, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Edwin J. Garvin, of Grace court, Brooklyn, and W. Coverly Fisher, son of the Frederick G. Fishers, of New York, which took place in Grace Church of Brooklyn. The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. George P. Atwater. A reception in the ballroom suite of the Ritz-Carlton followed.

Attends Bride

Elizabeth Garvin was her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. William M. Calder, Jr., was matron of honor.

The bride is a graduate of Packer College Institute and of Pine Manor School in Wellesley; the bridegroom of Polytechnic Prep School and Williams College, class of 1925.

Debutantes of the season and their escorts will be guests of Miss May Beegle Monday night at the opening of her concert season on Monday night in Syria Mosque, when Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, will appear for the first time in two years.

Opening Concert

Boxholders will include Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Dr. and Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, Mrs. John F. Casey, Mrs. H. P. Davis, Mrs. William M. McKelvy, Mrs. J. R. Dunsford, Mrs. W. J. Holland, Mrs. William Watson Smith, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Mrs. George H. Clapp, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., Mrs. George E. Tener, Mrs. James Edward Lewis, Mrs. A. P. Hays, Mrs. H. O. Whipple, Mrs. F. W. Winter and Mrs. F. J. Chesterman.

Others who've taken boxes include Mrs. George A. Harwood, Mrs. H. E. Sheldon, Mrs. J. A. West, Mrs. William D. Hamilton, Miss Harriet Alexander, Mrs. Edwin Ruud, Mrs. William Reed Thompson, Mrs. Robert Lee Wilson, Mrs. James G. Lewis and Mrs. R. J. Celand.

Elizabeth Nicholson, daughter of the John H. Nicholsons, entertained yesterday afternoon in her home, Shady avenue, in honor of Mrs. Charles Newell Fisher, of Westminster place, and Mrs. Benjamin M. Dangerfield, of Beacon street, both of whom were brides of the spring.

Miss Josephine Battaglia, daughter of Joseph Battaglia, and Emile Rossi were married Tuesday morning in St. Paul's Cathedral by the Rev. Vincent Burke.

Church Wedding

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore bridal satin made in the princess mode with a court train and a veil of tulle arranged in cap effect and decorated with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Miss Theresa Battaglia, her sister's maid of honor, wore American beauty velvet with a hat to match, and Mrs. Joseph Rossi, as matron of honor, wore purple velvet with a hat to match, and both carried American beauty roses. Miss Linda and Anna Rose Battaglia, Ann Connors, Rosella Dapper, as bridesmaids, appeared in eggshell velvet gowns with hats to match, and carried American beauty roses.

Nicholas Carlo was best man, Fred Battaglia, Max de Milio, William Ortale, Albert Monahan, Max Schoonmaker and Clyde Smith were ushers.

A breakfast for the families followed. The mother of the bride wore purple crepe with a hat to match, and a corsage of orchids.

Honor Head Of Catholic Council

About 200 members and guests of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women attended the president's day reception and tree-planting yesterday afternoon at Council House, East Liberty. The ceremonies opened with assembly singing of the national anthem and proceeded with the address of welcome by Mrs. R. A. Kennedy, who introduced the president, Mrs. Thomas P. Horan.

There was music—solos and trios, by Mrs. John H. Lauer, Mrs. Thomas A. Noonan and Miss Marie Sybert and, appropriate to the tree-planting, Mrs. Frank T. Buell read Joyce Kilmer's "Trees."

Judge Sara Soffel gave the principal address of the afternoon and in that three trees were being planted in celebration of the George Washington bi-centennial, she talked of Washington's part in Pennsylvania's early history. The Rev. James M. Delaney, a second speaker, spoke concerning the Holy Name Society's recent Eucharistic congress and gave the reasons for its being held.

The dedication of the trees followed. In addition to the bi-centennial trees, one had been planted in memory of Mrs. Teresa M. Molamphy, a former president of the Council.

The tea table was effectively decorated with a centerpiece of tea roses, chrysanthemums and satin ribbon and four lighted orange tapers. Mrs. John H. Roney headed the reception committee and Mrs. Walter D. Brown, the program committee.

WOOLEN FROCK REGARDED AS SMART WOMAN'S FRIEND

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—We wear our woolies these autumn days with great pride and eclat. Our woolies being of course those pretty practical wool frocks that are making themselves indispensable to women everywhere. Never before have the designers devoted so much attention to the woolen frock and consequently it has never been more to the fore in the world of fashion than it is today. The smartest women don their smart woolen frocks for the day, for so nice are they that they are at home everywhere. We do not mean of course that the wool frock has been all dressed up with a lot of superfluous and inappropriate detail but we do mean that the frock of woolen material when perfectly cut and tailored with harmonious touches becomes as dear to one as one's best friend and generally much more useful.

TO DEMONSTRATE eloquently the charms of a fine woolen dress we herewith submit a sketch of such a frock from Paquin's new collection. It is of a fine, smooth-surfaced woolen material in black and it is tastefully trimmed with black grosgrain ribbon used as braid. A scalloped effect is found in the flaring oversleeves and the skirt. Fluted loopings of ribbon follow the scalloped lines of the skirt edge at a short distance above.

FROCKS for youth and frocks that youthify come in two distinct categories, something that the mature woman does not always successfully remember. The dowager has no business to be wearing a frock that has been designed to glorify the debutante. And so an evening frock composed of pink satin and frothy tulle has no place in the older woman's wardrobe. It belongs to youth. The frock shown here was created by Lucile specifically for a debutante for it is youthful and even girlish but withal has quite an air of proud distinction.

IT IS OF DELICATE pink tulle and applique flowers of pink satin and a starry scattering of strass trims the bodice and closely fitting skirt top. As for the rest of the delightful frock it is one of glamorous froth of cleverly draped pink tulle placed layer on layer in a glorious youthful and most becoming manner.

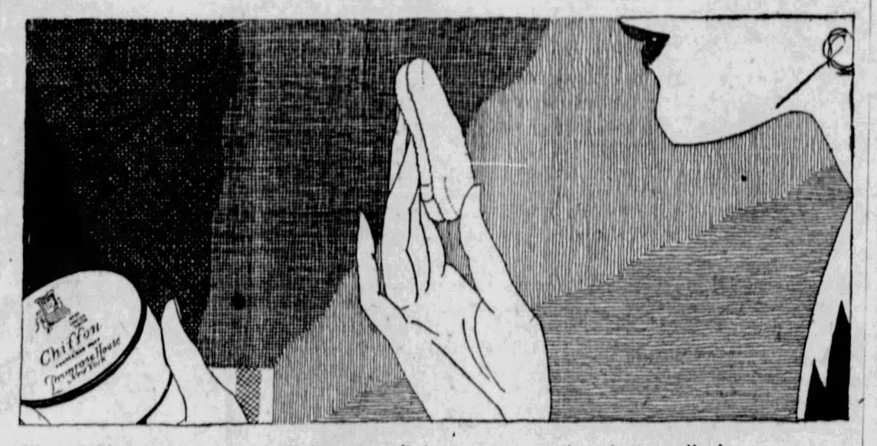
In the fall, smart women change their powder

AND THE SOPHISTICATE CHOOSES PRIMROSE BEIGE



Your skin is darkest in the fall and if you would have that natural finish, never use a very light powder unless you want to imitate the leopard. Light shades make the skin spotty. Extra dark powder ages and hardens the face. The ideal powder blends with the skin itself, bringing out all the natural light and color. It is so dreamily light in texture that it actually becomes a part of the skin. It never cakes or clogs but it clings beautifully. A luxury? Perhaps. But you can easily prove its worth by trying a dollar's worth of this $3 powder.

At all better class drug and department stores, in boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

ASSAIL POLICY IN PALESTINE

LONDON, Oct. 23. — (AP.) — Stanley Baldwin, Sir Austin Chamberlain and Col. L. C. S. Amery in a letter to the London Times today severely criticized the MacDonald ministry's new policy toward Palestine as advanced in a statement by Lord Passfield, secretary of state for the colonies, Monday.

The letter of the three men, two of whom are the leading figures in the British Conservative party opposition, concludes:

"It is only too evident that the effect of the white paper upon public opinion of the American Jewry and elsewhere is to create a feeling of distrust in British good faith, which is the most precious asset of our foreign imperial policy."

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Judge Harry M. Fisher, president of the Zionist organization in America, said in a statement that the new Palestine policy of Great Britain was a "betrayal" of its mandate from the League of Nations.

BOB MURDERED, FRIENDS THINK

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—That Charles V. Bob, New York and Chicago financier, may have been kidnaped and perhaps murdered, was the opinion advanced here today by two of his associates.

Questioned concerning rumors that Bob had been seen here 48 hours after he had been reported missing at Chicago on October 5, Lee Ford, president of the Phoenix Investment Company, and George Lindholm, head of the $2,000,000 Westward Ho Hotel, of Phoenix, a property controlled by Bob, denied that the missing financier was hiding in Phoenix or anywhere near the city.

Two Tugboats Save Trapped Firemen

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—(AP.) — Thirty-five firemen, trapped on the end of a pier by a wall of flames, which broke through the flooring behind them, were rescued by two tugboats today.

Driven back by dence clouds of black smoke, more than a score of the city's fire fighting units battled for hours to gain control of the blaze, threatening destruction to piers 18 and 20, south wharves, owned by the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company.

Women 'Jurors' Walk Out On 'Murderer'

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The idea a group of Chicago women had that they should get in some practice as jury-women on a murder case worked all right up to a certain point.

Confident, they said, that Illinois will grant them the right to serve as jurors in the November election, they marched into a courtroom, climbed into the jury box and were all ready to practice when Charles J. Mueller, assistant state's attorney, noticed they had no defendant.

When he suggested that one of the women might want to take on the murderer's role, the women filed out of the jury box and the experiment terminated.

RULES

Proper nouns, slang and words that offend good taste cannot be used. SCORING: The first and last letters of each word do not count as strokes. A longer or shorter word can be substituted, but at a penalty. If a longer word is used, each letter above par counts as a stroke; if a shorter word is used, each letter below par counts as a stroke. If a player cannot insert a suitable word, add 3 strokes to par for hole and proceed to next hole.

The solution to this puzzle can be found on page 26.

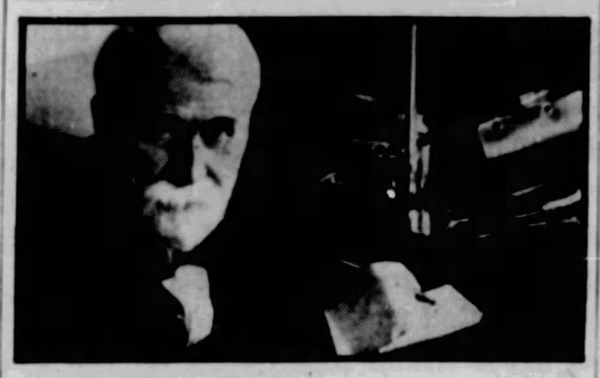
Gasoline Purchase Expands in State

An increase of 24,365,513 gallons in August over the sale in July was shown on the report received by the Pittsburgh Motor Club from the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue. During August 79,825,452 gallons of gasoline were sold, 3,491,914 gallons in Allegheny County. The tax collection for the entire state during August was $2,394,763.56, and for Allegheny County it reached $336,907.23.

Glass Concern Seeks Rail Rate Refund

This rate was collected from August 26, 1926, to August 1, 1929. The rate was later lowered to $1.95. The glass company is seeking to recover 15 cents a ton.



A Harmless Prescription, but it ends Constipation!

DON'T you want this way of making the bowels behave? A doctor's way to make the bowels move so well that you feel better all over! Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin doesn't turn everything to water, but cleans out all that hard waste clogging your system. It cleans you out without any shock, for it's only fresh, laxative herbs a famous doctor found so good for the bowels, combined with pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Let Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin show you how soon you can train the bowels to move freely, every day, the way they should. It's wonderful the way this prescription works, but it's perfectly harmless; so you can use it whenever a coated tongue or sick headache gives warning that you are bilious. Fine for children, too, (it tastes so nice) and they ought to have a spoonful the minute they seem fretful, feverish, or sluggish, or become stuffed-up with a cold.

You can get the original prescription Dr. Caldwell wrote so many years ago; your druggist keeps it all ready in big bottles. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and use it any time anyone in the family is constipated.

A new heart-stirring romance
by RUBY M. AYRES
"My Old Love Came"

THERE'S no denying the magic of Ruby M. Ayres' enthralling love tales. From her gifted pen have come scores of throbbing dramas of romance and adventure.

Now you can thrill anew to the spell of a heart-searching love story. For Ruby M. Ayres offers you her latest and best story, "My Old Love Came", in this week's issue of Love Story Magazine.

It is the tale of "Buddy" Manners, a young, beautiful, high-spirited modern girl—and Philip Aston, older, wiser, a man of the world.

Buddy did not need to be warned about Philip. She knew, even before their engagement, of his affairs with other women. But he had promised now to be through with all that. Only one doubt troubled her heart: Dare any girl risk marriage with a man like Philip? Would his past hang like a sword between them and happiness?

Then, with her marriage only a few weeks off, another great problem confronted Buddy. Glen Bradshaw, an absolute stranger, admitted with boyish naivety that he had fallen in love with her at first sight.

Ruby M. Ayres has taken the tangled threads of these three lives and woven them into an unforgettable novel of love and human emotions. Read what happened to a girl who tried to reform the man she loved. And remember—there's a host of companion stories, breathing the same glowing spirit of romance. Get your copy of Love Story Magazine today.

What are your love problems?

Suppose you fell in love with a man and later found out he was married—what would you do? Suppose your sweetheart left you—how could you win him back? These are the kind of problems that Laura Alston Brown answers every week in her helpful department "The Friend in Need". Do you want to be popular—more attractive? Whatever problems are worrying you—Mrs. Brown is ready to aid you at all times.

Many Enchanting Stories in Oct. 25th Issue

"Out of the Night" is a complete novelette by Cynthia de Vinne. "I can't marry you now, Molly," Geoffrey said. "There is one thing that I must clear up first. A matter of family honor." What was his secret? What did he mean? Molly was to learn the amazing answer that very night—from the lips of her own daring, madcap sister.

"A Star at Last" is the enticing story of Stella—a girl who refused to be "modern" or "sophisticated". She was quiet, a bit old-fashioned. "Men like girls who are the life of the party," friends told her. But one day real love came along, and then—read what happened in this clever story.

You'll enjoy The Little Duenna, Twinkletoes, Jack Horner's Plum, Something in Rings, The Stolen Bride, and Philippa Preston's serial novel Her Midnight Visitor. Don't miss the big October 25th issue.

HURT MOTORIST SUES P. R. R.

Francis I. Roberts, of Toledo, O., filed an action for $50,000 damages in Federal Court against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, declaring he was seriously injured January 15, 1929, when an automobile he was driving was struck by an engine of the railroad company at the Church street grade crossing in Indiana, Pa.

He said that at the time of the accident there was a heavy snowstorm and the snow on the tracks prevented him from seeing them. Roberts charges the company with negligence and carelessness in not having a sign post at the crossing, and failing to sound warning of the approaching train.

The other four drew punishment. Doyle G. Hooper, nine months and a $200 fine; Guy Simpson, three concurrent terms of six months; E. B. Haney, a suspended six months' sentence and a $200 fine, and Turner West, a $200 fine.

BOY HIKERS DIE, BURNED ALIVE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Two wood choppers in lonely swamp lands by the Mississippi River found two youths, bruised and beaten, burning alive in a mystery bush heap fire. One of them died late yesterday of a crushed skull, and the other died last night. Neither recovered consciousness.

Letters, a diary and an automobile key served in identifying the boys as Burton Hensley, 17, and his companion as Woodrow Wilson, both of Bald Creek, N. C. About a mile from the Arkansas approach to Harahan Bridge the woodchoppers found Hensley with one side enveloped in flames and Wilson's feet nearly burned away. Hospital physicians here said the boys apparently had been beaten six or eight hours before. Preliminary investigation caused sheriff's deputies to advance the theory the youths were victims of tramps, slain for the purpose of robbery.

FOOD SCIENTISTS RECOMMEND EATING IN MID-AFTERNOON

Experiments Show That Sugar in Food or Beverages Overcomes Fatigue

Modern business invariably makes its greatest demands on workers during the latter part of the afternoon. Yet that is just the time of the working day when vitality is the lowest.

Recent scientific investigations have proved that this mid-afternoon fatigue can be quickly overcome by eating sweet cakes, a few pieces of candy, a dish of ice cream or the drinking of a sweet beverage. A glass of water sweetened with sugar will revive one in an amazing way.

The reason for this lies in the quick digestibility of refined sugar. There are few food products that nourish the body so speedily. And when the system is nourished, fatigue is noticeably decreased.

With practically no loss of time, and very little expense, a mid-afternoon snack can be enjoyed. Dispensers of sweet drinks and confectionery are within the reach of all. As a matter of fact, a few pieces of candy or sugar can be conveniently kept in one's desk and eaten when tired. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

unlock the tin to set it free!

OUT of the roasting oven and into the new Thermo-fresh container goes White House Coffee—its wondrous, oven-fresh flavor sealed against any loss until you unlock the tin. And loss there would be—rapid loss—unless this Thermo-fresh precaution were taken.

For science, investigating the coffee of the nation, recently discovered that coffee loses 60% of its flavor within nine days after roasting—unless it is safeguarded this Thermo-fresh way.*

So, out of the new Thermo-fresh tin comes all the luxurious freshness of the roasting oven, the full-bodied goodness of a glorious blend of coffee, to give its happy flavor to your morning cup.

Your grocer knows good coffee. Ask him about White House in the Thermo-fresh tin. He will tell you that while it costs a few cents more than ordinary coffees, 60% more such mellow flavor is well worth the difference.

Caressing White Hands

Every Woman's Right

Simple, New Way, Now—Use Any Kind of Soap

SPARKLING glass and gleaming china are as much a mark of social knowledge as good manners.

To have them—impeccable and flawless—and, at the same time, for the housewife to have caressing, white hands is a problem that's now been solved an interesting, new way.

Use any kind of soap, soap powder or soap flakes, in washing dishes. But add a teaspoon of CLIMALENE to the water.

This enables you to use ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity of soap. For it softens the water instantly, so that far less soap is needed.

Being a GREASE SOLVENT in itself, it DISSOLVES grease instantly; and eliminates ALL FILM or scum from glassware. Makes it sparkle like rare jewels.

Containing superlative SKIN WHITENING and SKIN SOFTENING ingredients—used by scores of beauty specialists—it leaves the hands soft and lovely beyond words.

Women are flocking to it. It costs only a dime at grocers. Try it. Just ask for Climalene.

BLAZE STARTS PRISON PANIC

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Panic seized several thousand inmates of Jackson Prison here early today when fire, caused by a short circuit, broke out in the basement of the south wing of the old building.

The prisoners, awakened by the choking smoke as it swirled up through the tiers, screamed and beat on their cell bars until guards assured them there was no danger.

N. Y. Broker's Wife Wins Reno Divorce

RENO, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Aline H. Bamberger has divorced Richard Bamberger, a broker, of New York, where they were married February 23, 1928. She petitioned the court to allow her to resume the name "Rhonie" she had used in her career as an artist.

MORAN FREED ON CASH BAIL

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—George (Bugs) Moran, notorious gang leader and enemy of "Scarface" Al Capone, was at liberty again today after some mysterious friend produced $10,000 as a cash bail just before the doors of the county jail closed on him.

When Moran failed to arrive at the county jail last night following his arraignment in Judge John H. Lyle's court on a vagrancy charge an inquiry was begun and it was learned that $10,000 in cash was produced. Moran signed his bond and was released.

Moran was scheduled to appear in court again today for a change of venue. Trapped at a Bluff Lake hideout near Waukegan, Ill., Moran was rushed to Chicago Tuesday and booked for vagrancy.

Entire Honduras Town Indicted; Charge Plot

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The entire municipality of the town of Cocoa has been indicted for mishandling of public funds. The Court of Appeals at San Pedro Sula has confirmed the lower courts' verdict and the municipality has not appealed to the Supreme Court for a reversal.

The Honduras press said the Trujillo court had indicted 273 citizens belonging to the Liberal party. Tegucigalpa papers charge the indictments have purely political motives with the real object of preventing the citizens voting in the national elections Sunday for Liberal candidates.

3 OF FAMILY DIE IN FIRE

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 23.—Three children of Carl Keenan, of Oakmont, O., near here, were burned to death and three remaining members of the family also were burned, the mother seriously, when kerosene used to start a fire in their home last night exploded.

The dead are Anita, 8; Russell, 7, and Robert, 5.

Mrs. Mary Keenan, 39, the mother, is in the hospital here in critical condition from burns and shock.

Keenan also is in the hospital with less serious burns.

Edward, 12, a fourth child, seared by the flaming fluid, was treated by a physician in Oakmont.

The mother, her clothing afire, ran from the three-room house to the barn, where her husband beat out the flames. Only Edward was able to escape from the burning building.

FANS YAWN AT COACHES' FORECASTS

THE PESSIMISTIC PICTURE painted by Coach Jock Sutherland in his statement to the effect that Pitt cannot be expected to do any more than try to hold down Notre Dame's score, not only because he thinks his eleven this year does not compare with other good Panther teams but because of the severe injuries suffered by regulars in earlier games, has not altered the opinion of most fans that there is going to be a real battle at The Stadium this week-end.

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

Chances are that, instead of the sorely crippled lineup that beat Syracuse last Saturday, you'll see the regular Panther team on the field when the game begins, and that means an aggregation far stronger than the locals have been generally rated as being. The rest may be left to Pitt spirit. The tougher the job and the heavier the odds, the harder do Sutherland elevens always fight. That quality, coupled with their team strength and the fact that they are better coached than the great majority of clubs, often brings results far beyond what the advance dope has appeared to promise. It will be no push-over that faces Notre Dame. The Panthers may be beaten, but not until after you've looked at a real football game.

GLOOMY STATEMENTS BY coaches just before an important game do not carry a great deal of weight. The public has come to take them with a generous amount of salt. In baseball, a manager or a player will assure you that even a crippled team is going out with no thought of anything short of victory as long as it has a leg to stand on, but in football, to make the other side overconfident or for some other reason not apparent, the average coach seems to consider it the proper thing to predict that his eleven hasn't got a chance.

In connection with Sutherland's statement, an amusing angle is that Knute Rockne says almost the same of Notre Dame. And this before the memory of his forecast of a Carnegie victory by three to eight touchdowns last week has had time to fade. "Pitt has about the strongest line in the country," says Rockne, "has been pointing for us all fall, and will be at the apex of its form this week while we probably shall be down. Looks to me as if the shock troops and the third-stringers migh. have a lot of work to do." The gloom stuff from both camps only makes the fans yawn. They know they'll see two powerful teams at their peaks.

ANOTHER FOOTBALL PRODUCT of this district likely to shine at West Point with the same brilliance as did Tiny Hewitt, of Pitt; Harry Wilson, of Penn State, and Ed Garbisch, of W. & J., is Cy Letzelter, formerly of Carnegie Tech, whose home is in Martins Ferry, O.

Cy Letzelter

Letzelter, who starred at fullback for the Tartan in 1926 and 1927 and at halfback in 1928, being a standout in games against Pitt and Notre Dame, has won a berth as a regular halfback on the Army team and his work has been a feature of every game. Letzelter will have another chance to play against Pitt next year when the Army comes here to grapple with the Panthers.

THE DEMAND FOR Notre Dame football in all parts of the country and the remarkable spread of the Rockne system are attested by the following long list of former Notre Dame players now coaching: Ed Anderson, De Paul; Hartley Anderson, Notre Dame; Joe Bach, Duquesne; Norman Barry, De LaSalle; Charles Bachman, Florida; Harry Baujon, Dayton; Arthur Bergman, Catholic U.; Joe Boland, St. Thomas; Arthur Boeringer, Detroit; Jack Cannon, Alabama Poly (Augurn); Glenn Carberry, Michigan State; William Cerney, North Carolina; Jack Chevigny, Notre Dame; Clem Crowe, St. Vincent; Charles Collins, North Carolina; Ed Collins, Washington U.; John Colrick, Georgetown; Forest Cotton, St. Ambrose; James Crowley, Michigan State; Charles Dorais, Detroit; Mal Edward, Purdue; Rex Enright, North Carolina; Wilbur Eaton, Mt. St. Charles; Christy Flanagan, Purdue; John Fredericks, Detroit; Bud Gebert, Wichita; Walter Halas, Drexel; Ed Hunsinger, Villanova; Joseph Jones, St. Xavier, of Cincinnati; William Jones, Notre Dame Freshmen; T. C. Kasper, South Dakota State; Roger Kiley, Alabama Poly; Thomas King, Louisville; Thomas Kenneally, Manhattan; Elmer Layden, Duquesne; O. J. Larson, Loyola, of Chicago; Joe Locke, Wichita; Thomas Lieb, Loyola, of Los Angeles; Edward Madigan, St. Marys; Joe Maxwell, St. Louis; Frank Mayer, Rice; John McManmon, Boston College; Vincent McNally, St. Mary; Jack McGrath, Louisville; H. J. Mehre, Georgia; Don Miller, Ohio State; Edgar Miller, Navy; J. E. Meyer, St. Xavier, of Cincinnati; James Meagher, Rice; L. A. Matthews, Gonzaga; Tim Moynihan, Notre Dame; John Niemic, Rice; Harry O'Boyle, St. Anselm; Gene Oberst, Washington and Lee; James Phelan, University of Washington; George Philbrook, Nevada; Robert Regan, Villanova; Frank Shaughnessy, a 1904 product, Princeton; Laurence Shaw, Santa Clara; Maurice Smith, Santa Clara; Harry Stuhldreher, Villanova; Frank Thomas, Alabama; John Voedisch, Notre Dame; Manny Vezie, Notre Dame Freshmen; Pete Vaughn, Wabash; Adam Walsh, Yale; Charles Walsh, St. Louis; Chet Wynne, Alabama Poly, and Elmer Wynne, St. Louis.

THE FACT THAT no decision has yet been reached as to whether or not Jewel Ens is to stay as manager of the Pittsburgh baseball club for next year, and will not be reached until Ens, just returned from his Cuban trip, has had another conference with President Barney Dreyfuss, is having the usual effect.

Whenever the slightest possibility of a managerial vacancy looms up, the fake factories proceed to turn out rumors naming about every available man in baseball for the post. So they started some time ago to pick a man to succeed Ens, and the latest to be mentioned for the place is Allan Sothoron.

SOTHORON, A FORMER spitball pitcher, piloted the Louisville club to the American Association pennant this year, and New York news dispatches yesterday said that as a result of that success he would be promoted to the managership of a major league club, possibly the Pirates or the Boston Red Sox.

Allan Sothoron

Of course, as far as the Pittsburgh angle is concerned, it's just another of those yarns. There is no managerial vacancy here yet, and Vice President Sam Dreyfuss says the owners have never considered Sothoron or anybody else for the position now held by Ens.

AT THAT, BASEBALL men admit that Sothoron looks like a good pilot and it will not be surprising if he lands somewhere in the majors eventually. Meanwhile, another former major leaguer who has been managing in the minors has been added to the list of availables. Frank Snyder, one-time Cardinal and Giant catcher, has stepped down as a manager of the Fort Worth club in the Texas League and Art Phelan has been appointed to succeed him. Snyder probably will be the next to figure in the rumors as a Pirate managerial possibility in view of the fact that his relations with the Pittsburgh club in recent years have been close. The baseball space writers are not overlooking anybody whose name will make an off-season story.

BIG BILL TILDEN, world famous tennis star, was a Pittsburgh visitor last night. There was a time when he appeared here annually, sometimes competing for and walking away with the Western Pennsylvania championship in the days when Harry Seymour was handling

ENS RETURNS FROM CUBA FOR PARLEY

A big baseball deal involving the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds loomed this afternoon as Owner Barney Dreyfuss and Manager Jewel Ens, of the local club, and President Leo Weil and Manager Daniel Howley, of the Reds, held a secret conference in the Pittsburgh club offices in Oakland.

Although neither side seemed disposed to discuss any of the details of what may develop into an important deal, the negotiations apparently were of no sudden impulse. Manager Ens apparently made a hurried return from Cuba to take part in the conference. The Pittsburgh pilot, it was said at the local offices, was not due until tomorrow, but with matters of such moment at stake, the manager appears to have made better speed.

ENS TO BE RETAINED

And the fact that Ens is in on the big conference is a good indication that the tow-haired leader is to be retained. Evidently he will have a strong voice in any exchange of players that may be effected with the Reds.

The silence of the rival team directors before they went behind closed doors made it hard for the Sun-Telegraph to learn the identity of any of the players, but it is a good guess that Dick Bartell's name was brought into the proceedings early.

The peppery shortstop, it will be recalled, had a big argument with Owner Dreyfuss a few days before the season ended. The flareup gave rise to the statement that Daredevil Dick was through as a Pirate. Of course this news went around the circuit and there are several National League pilots, including Howley and Rogers Hornsby, who are "sweet" on the Alameda hustler.

MAY OBTAIN FORD

Just whom the Reds could offer in return for Bartell is a bit puzzling, although Skipper Ens may lean toward Horace Ford, who was pushed out of the shortfield in Redland by Leo Durocher. Ford is a wonder worker on defense, but just fair as a hitter.

Dreyfuss and Ens would like to get one of the Cincinnati pitchers, Red Lucas, Benny Frey and Kenneth Ash are three clever righthanders, any one of whom would brace the Pirate staff.

The Cincinnati bosses seem to be in the market for money more than players, as witness their sale of Southpaw Jake May to the Cubs for a cash amount and with no player return.

Catcher Clyde Sukeforth is another Red who would be welcomed by the Pittsburgh officials, but to get him the home office would have to put out a lot of money and perhaps a good player.

Ens, speaking of the Cuban trip, stated that his club won five of the seven battles fought with Dave Bancroft's team. Larry French was one of the big stars of the series. The young lefthander allowed only three runs in three games pitched for Ens' nine.

"The Hidden Ball," the second of a series of six football pictures directed by Knute Rockne, now being shown at the Fulton Theater, will have a special appeal for local fans tomorrow when the Notre Dame coach and his gridders, who are the actors in the picture, arrive here for their game with the Pitt Panthers in the stadium Saturday.

Slow motion photography portrayals of famous and exciting plays are featured.

STRIBLING BOUT OFF

BRAVES SELL ROLLINGS

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Boston National League Club today announced that Russell Rollings, infielder, had been sold outright to the Rochester Club of the International League. He was drafted from the Hollywood Club, of the Pacific Coast League, by the Braves.

HUNT TRIALS TODAY

Forty-six prominent jumpers will compete today in the hunt trials over the Brandywine course of M. B. Schiller in Sewickley. Members of the Rolling Rock, Pittsburgh and Westmoreland hunt clubs will serve as judges.

Husing to Put Pitt Game On Air

Football fans unable to purchase tickets for the Pitt-Notre Dame game at the Stadium Saturday will be able to listen to it over the Columbia chain, with Ted Husing, famous sports announcer, of New York, coming here to describe the playing of the contest. WJAS is the local Columbia station. The broadcast will begin with the kickoff at 2 p. m.

The Duquesne University-Catholic University game at Forbes Field tomorrow night will be broadcast by KQV, beginning at 8:30. Paul J. Miller and John H. Buchheit will be at the microphone.

(On request, send with stamped addressed envelope, Robert L. Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: PADEREWSKI—"MAN OF NO DREAMS"—Czar Nicholas' rebuke ("Pas de reves, messieurs") to a Polish delegation waiting upon him in Paris after one of the numerous Polish insurrections had been suppressed with great severity, constitutes one of the milestones in the history of Russo-Polish relations. Paderewski's birthdate, his name which is identical with those famous words, and the fact that the Poles consider that he has done more for the liberation of his country than any other man, are a most curious historical coincidence. My information is based on Paderewski's official biography, which the Polish Government circulated under the title, "The Man of Destiny" (Maz Preszeznaczenia), at his accession to the Premiership of Poland in 1919. TOMORROW—THE POOR FISH!

IRISH LEAVE TONIGHT

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 23.—Not in the least misled by the strategy of Coach Sutherland, of Pitt, which he used so effectually himself last week, Coach Rockne yesterday worked his varsity harder than ever in a defensive scrimmage against Panther formations and later on an offensive skirmish, marked by the use of many new aerial plays, with Marchmont Schwartz doing the hurling.

The Hamburgs, a team of ineligibles using Pitt formations, made a surprising showing against the varsity, and the coaches here appeared worried when practice ended. Carideo, Schwartz, Brill and Savoldi made up the first string backfield on defense, but did no scrimmaging on offense.

Larry Mullins was at fullback with the shock troops, but was limping badly. His name was on the list of 37 players, however, who will leave here tonight after a tapering-off drill. Two Notre Dame B teams will see action Saturday, one at Northwestern.

Following are the players making the Pittsburgh trip:

Left ends, Kosky, Host and O'Brien; left tackles, Culver, Hoffman and McNamara; left guards, Cassis, Greene and Harris; centers, Yarr, Rogers and Butler; right guards, Metzger, Terlaak and Pierce; rigt tackles, Kurth, McMannon and Carmody; right ends, Conley, Vik and Mahoney; quarterbacks, Carideo, Jasiwich, Vejar and Cronin; left halfbacks, Schwartz, Koken, Leahy and Lukats; right halfbacks, Brill O'Connor, Kaplan and Sheseteski; fullbacks, Mullins, Savoldi, Howard and Staab.

Dick Donoghue, right tackle, who was injured early in the season and who has failed since to regain the varsity, is not making the trip. The squad consists of three full lines and four backfields.

HOLLYWOOD TAKES LEAD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—In a 10-inning battle featured by seven home runs, Hollywood took the first game yesterday of the play-off for the Pacific Coast League championship, defeating Los Angeles, 9 to 8. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Hollywood	9	10	1
Los Angeles	8	16	0

Batteries—Turner, Jones, Wetzel and Bassler; Baecht, Peters, Delaney and Hannah.

Sport Vignettes

Saturday may be Knute Rockne's busy day in Pittsburgh, when his undefeated Notre Dame team stacks up against the equally undefeated University of Pittsburgh eleven in the first sellout game at the Stadium, but what about tomorrow? . . . . The great Rock is due to arrive in town in the morning with his Irish Ramblers and go immediately into a huddle with Christy Walsh, his syndicate manager and fellow member of the All-America Board of Football, regarding their interview over Station WJAS and the Columbia chain national hookup, during which Knute will answer 10 questions asked him by readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph . . . . Then, during the noon hour, he is scheduled to speak at the pep assembly for Pitt students at Memorial Hall and also at a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce. Following this he is to take his gridders out to the Stadium for a workout and then he will repair to Carnegie Tech to officially present bronze placque certificate awards for the trophy room that are copies of the All-America Board papers of merit given Lloyd Yoder and Howard Harpster in recent seasons . . . . After that he has nothing to do but to talk at a Pitt smoker at the University Club in the evening and get ready to go on the air at 10:30 and then hie to his P. A. A. headquarters and go to bed for a good (?) night's sleep before the battle with the Panthers.

'Tis well that Rockne's health is better than when he came here for a game with Carnegie Tech last year, or he would not be able to go through with such a strenuous program . . . And, by the way, Rockne's OWN story of the Pitt game will appear exclusively in Pittsburgh in the Pittsburgh Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Pop Warner, former Pitt coach, now at Stanford, and Paul Schlissler, Oregon State mentor, will keep their seats on the bench in future games . . . When their teams clashed last Saturday, Referee Herb Dana penalized each 15 yards because the rival coaches left the bench, the official being under the impression that they were trying to signal their charges . . . Referee Earl Cavanaugh tells a good one on himself . . . It happened in the Dukes' game with Howard College at Forbes Field last Friday night . . . Cavanaugh twice had to penalize Howard 15 yards for illegal shifting, once on the five-yard line and again on the three, and the penalties cost the Southerners a touchdown, and they lost by only 14 to 9.

After the game, Cavanaugh was walking across the field when he saw Coach McClain hurrying toward him . . . "Now I'm in for it," the official said to himself, readying himself for a squawk . . . Imagine his surprise when the coach came up to him with, "I say, Mr. Referee," in a Southern drawl . . . "I say, if I ever come North with my team again, I want you to referee the game for me. I am very much pleased with your work." . . . Cavanaugh admitted he had not been prepared for such kind words following the two costly penalties . . . "Oh, those?" said the coach . . . "They were all right; all season I've been trying to break my team of the habit of charging without a stop after the shift. I knew they'd get it, and

DUKES SET FOR CATHOLIC U.

Following yesterday's long, hard drills on the gridiron and lectures in the dressing room, in an effort to build up the team's mental attitude, the Night Riders of Duquesne were nearing the point of readiness for tomorrow night's battle with Catholic University, of Washington, D. C., in the Forbes Field inclosure.

The Capital City squad is slated to arrive here at 8:15 tomorrow morning, resting up before it goes on the field tomorrow night at 8:15 against the Bluffites.

Coaches Elmer Layden and Joe Bach prepared the Dukes with skull drills to start the day's work off, driving them through long hours of tough work afterward on the gridiron.

Line Coach Bach, after practice, said he believed the forward wall would show even more stuff defensively and offensively than ever before this season when the Night Riders take on Catholic University.

Extensive plans have been made by the Duquesne University Alumni Association for tomorrow, doing its best to have all students of past years in attendance at the Bluffites' first "home-coming night."

Both teams will be guests with their coaches, at the annual Newman Club dance in the Knights of Columbus ballroom at Fifth and Bellefield avenues after the game.

Aldo (Buff) Donnelli, Duquesne freshman coach, who is confined to the Eye and Ear Hospital following an injury to his right eye in a soccer game last Sunday, has been denied visitors until he shows further improvement. Doctors believe that his injured eye will respond to treatment if he is kept in quiet.

GROUSE SHOOT CARDED

The South Hills Sportsmens' Association has slated its annual grouse shoot for Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2:30.

IRISH FULLBACK STAR SLATED FOR BENCH

Pitt's Probable Lineup Saturday

By JESS CARVER.

The Pitt-Notre Dame tangle in the Stadium Saturday afternoon is to be attended by a phenomenon of nature, for, rain or shine, the Moon is going to be out. I mean Moon Mullins, Rockne's fullbacker who fullbacks when Joe Savoldi is indisposed or resting his sturdy haunches on the bench.

The Moon has been having a tough time this year, what with a bum leg and torrid opposition in Jumping Joe. Moon didn't get to go against Tech, and the chances are that he will be just as quiet against Pitt. So with the Moon, out, the sun will have the day and field to itself.

What the coaches hope for, of course, is that the sun will be out. Aren't we all?

Get to your seats early.

PITT WORKOUT BRISK

Yesterday Jock Sutherland put his squad through a brisk workout. The boys were sent through a short scrimmage, particular pains being taken, however, that none of the cripples were shaken up or had their injuries aggravated. There is no kiddin' about it, Pitt is in poor trim physically, and unless the twists and bruises and sprains and what not are vastly better by Sat'day, the situation will be some 90 degrees worse than acute.

Rockne and his charges are due in here at the ghostly hour of 7:30 a. m. tomorrow. For those of us who must crawl out from between warm blankets to meet 'em, please reserve some sympathy. Looks like it might be a good plan to stay up all night. Have yon any suggestions?

Get to your seats early.

READY FOR STIFF LINE

There is one thing that has caused the Panthers to take heart. In facing Syracuse last week the Sutherlanders ran into the toughest line (by actual count) they have met in three years. It gave the Pitt attack all sorts of trial and tribulation. Maybe it's as good as Notre Dame's; maybe it isn't. But it is a cinch that it isn't more than a sock or two weaker, and if the disabled locals were able to pierce it, the chances are that the Irish won't hold such a terrific advantage here Saturday.

Get to your seats early.

The Stadium office yesterday was no place for a guy with a short temper. Don Harrison, Ollie Stiff, Fred (Boo Boo) Turbyville and the great Walt Ridley spent the day sweetly turning down last-minute would-be purchasers of 10 seats on the 50-yard line. The ticket boxes were empty as the pint bottles you find in hotel corridors two days after a ball game.

Get to your seats early.

PITT LINEUP UNSETTLED

Pitt's starting lineup remains in the air. The chances are that Ted Daily and Eddie Hirschberg will guard the terminals. Jessica Quatsee, eweheo looks forward to a pleasant afternoon dueling with his countrymen, Frank Carideo and The People's Choice, Joe Savoldi, and Charley Tully will go at the tackles. Ernie Lewis and Mike Milligan are slated for guard duty, with Ralph Daugherty at center.

You can pick your own backfield.

Indications at this time point to a crowd of between 70,000 and 75,000 for the ball game. Give the boys a fair day and they'll pack 'em in like the raisins used to be in Aunt Susie's cookies. Athletic Director Harrison has made arrangements for adequate police protection, and there will be both mounted and foot police on hand to keep as much order as possible.

The extra bleachers, and there are enough of 'em to take care of some 7,000, are in place and every available inch of space in them sold. The running track will be roped off in places for standing room patrons. At a late hour last evening, they were considering putting one spectator on the lap of each of the Pitt and Notre Dame subs on the bench.

Get to your seats early.

It will be interesting to compare Mike Milligan and young Bert Metzger, two of the smallest if not THE smallest big time guards in the game. Milligan, the Panther, weighs about 165, and Metzger goes about 152 soaking

DREYFUSS FROWNS ON NIGHT BASEBALL

BARNEY AGAINST NOCTURNAL GAMES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

It will be thumbs down for night baseball when the case comes before the higher court. Most of the wise men of the sport will try to have the case thrown out, so far as the major leagues are concerned.

One of the latest and strongest opponents of the nocturnal innovation is Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates. Dreyfuss has both practical and theoretical points to offer to support his brief.

The Pittsburgh magnate, it develops, has witnessed three night games with the idea of gaining practical knowledge on the question, and he has made a close study of a separate set of night baseball averages as compiled by the statistician of the Texas League, one of the circuits that took up night baseball in a big way.

FEW DISSENTERS

The major league directors, including Dreyfuss, do not intend to throw cold water on the proposition as pursued in the minors, but they do think that any attempt to introduce it into the major leagues would have a cheapening effect on a sport that is big in every way.

There are a few dissenters, perhaps, and these are to be expected when one considers that the National League, in particular, has magnates who intentionally cancel games on Fridays in order to provide doubleheaders on Sundays. These men are hardly the good friends of baseball.

The averages compiled by the Texas League on night baseball reflect a combination of farcical tendencies which smack of burlesque or travesty in the mode of play. You may be interested in the accompanying developments:

(1) Each of the eight clubs of the league showed a lower fielding average, collectively, in the night game, as compared with the team fielding in the day games. The consistency of this result seems to indicate that fielders throughout the big circuit were bothered by the unnatural light and resultant shadows. Ground balls, especially, are hard to judge, according to infielders who have taken part in the night sport.

HARD ON BATTERS

2. The disparity in strikeouts as between the night and day games offers strong testimony to support the contention that the batter is handicapped by the unnatural play. Take the case of Pitcher Lil Stoner as an example. Stoner was one of the most brilliant performers in the Texas League. Lil pitched in five night games and had a strikeout card that averaged a bit better than eight victims per game. His day strikeout average was less than three batters per game. Other high-grade pitchers showed wide gaps separating their day and night strikeouts.

On their strikeout marks for the season, many individual batters showed they were more likely to whiff under the spell of the glare. Second Baseman Piet, of Waco, for instance, fanned 34 times in 49 night games. In 101 day contests he struck out 44 times. Other regulars experienced similar trouble at the plate at night.

NOT HEALTHY FOR GAME

Obviously, anything that tends to hamper sharp fielding or clean hitting is not healthy for the major leagues, where the skill of the sport must be at its highest. And the men who have the welfare of the game in their hands should be zealous on this point.

SYRACUSE BACK HURT

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Irving Constantine, Syracuse University fullback, suffered a broken left shoulder in scrimmage yesterday, ending his football career with the Orange. Constantine, at 195 pounds, the heaviest back on the list, has been a member of the varsity squad three seasons.

Pitt faces a hard task in its game with Notre Dame at the Stadium tomorrow with the above five star reugulars crippled and merely going through the motions in the workouts and with Rocco Cutri, quarterback, and Frank Walton, tackle, out with a bad shoulder. MacMurdo and Hirschberg are ends, Morris is a guard, Quatse a tackle and Hood the fullback.

Contest Winners to Meet Rockne at Broadcast

Arrangements have just been completed whereby the winners in the "Ask Knute Rockne a Question" contest of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will be able to shake hands with the great Knute himself and will receive their prizes from him at his All-America Board of Football broadcast during the Wrigley period over the Columbia chain national hookup from station WJAS tomorrow night.

Upon his arrival with his squad tomorrow morning, Rockne will come to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and pick up the thousands of letters sent in to him and from these he will select the 10 questions that strike him as most interesting. The names of the authors of these will appear in the Closing Stock and Sport Final editions of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph later in the day and the lucky query artists will be invited to come to the WJAS Studio and meet Rockne during his broadcasting period and hear Mr. Walsh ask him the questions, with Knute responding in rapid-fire fashion.

After the broadcast, Rockne will present each of the 10 winners two tickets for the Pitt-Carnegie Tech game, November 8.

COLEBANK NOT TO PROTEST

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Because Jasper Colebank, Fairmont State Normal coach, "has never entered a protest of an athletic contest" and feels "it is too late to start now," Shepherd College's victory last week over Fairmont Normal, 3-0, probably will stand.

The game was played at Hagerstown, Md. The goal posts were on the goal line, instead of in their proper place. In the last few minutes of play, Shepherd kicked a field goal for the only score of the game—a kick that would have fallen short if the uprights had been properly placed.

Colebank protested vigorously before the game, but decided not to refuse to play the game, or even to play it under protest.

Excuse for the misplaced goal posts was that at one end of the field there was not sufficient room to place the post correctly. Each was placed on the goal line for the sake of "uniformity."

Both schools are members of the West Virginia Athletic Conference.

Oswald Meets Ponzi Tonight

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Harry Oswald, of Pittsburgh, defeated George Kelly, of Philadelphia, last night to lead in the third block of the six-match Round Robin series of the Southern division in the Eastern section of the world pocket billiard championship.

Oswald will meet Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, tonight in what is expected to be the feature contest of the tourney.

Ponzi defeated George Kelly, Philadelphia, 100 to 57, aided by a high run of 68. Kelly's best run was 28. Oswald won his 100 block from Arthur Church, New York, who tallied 31. Oswald's high run was 40 and Church's 28.

W. & J. HOPES ARE REVIVED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The hopes of Washington and Jefferson College were raised yesterday when it was announced that Maury Armstrong, tiny backfield star, would be back at right halfback for the Lafayette game Saturday night at Atlantic City, N. J.

Armstrong, who was injured in the Temple game last Saturday at Philadelphia, has been out of practice all week, but yesterday turned out in uniform. At the same time Saul Pipman, star tackle, who was injured early in the season, returned to the team. This will mean that Kelly, a guard who was put in at tackle during Lipman's absence, can be returned to his regular post.

Glendale Tourney Off; P. G. A. Hit

GLENDALE, Cal., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Glendale Junior Chamber of Commerce $2,500 open golf tournament has been cancelled because of the request of the Professional Golfers' Association Tournament Bureau in Chicago for 10 per cent of the prize money.

Phil Thomson, Chamber president, said the bureau's action had discouraged the idea of holding the tournament as scheduled December 27 and 28.

The action followed the canceling of the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce $3,500 annual tournament several days ago, and the refusal of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce to comply with the Tournament Bureau's request that $1,000 of the annual $10,000 open championship purse be paid to it.

SHEA-MARTIN BATTLE IN MAKING

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Eddie Shea, one of the greatest punchers, pound for pound, in the ring today, wants to fight in Pittsburgh. This is one of the few big towns in which he has not appeared and he stands ready to come here against anybody up to 133 pounds, although he himself is a legitimate featherweight.

He'll even go so far to break in, Shea's manager, Joe Glaser, of Chicago, said here last night, stopping off on his way back from Philadelphia, where Eddie knocked out Johnny Datto a few nights ago, that he will not bar Andy Martin, of Boston, as an opponent.

Martin is a good card here because of his boxing skill, and the promoters have found it almost impossible to line up opponents for him. To have the manager of a topnotcher come forward of his own accord and offer to let his protege box Martin is almost too much.

Anyway, Glaser has thrown down the gauntlet and talked business with Matchmaker Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden, and Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, and it will not be surprising if the colorful Shea appears here soon. Glaser, by the way, also manages Roy (Tiger) Williams, a good Negro middleweight; Eddie Anderson, Tommy Cello, Tommy Herman and a host of other good fighters who make their headquarters in Chicago.

Between Rounds

It looks as if the Garden hooked a "natural" when it paired George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, with Emmett Rocco, of Elkwood City, for its main bout next Monday night. Both recently fought Tom Heeney interesting battles here, with Panka losing the decision and Rocco winning, and the match between them is more or less in the nature of a district elimination. The regular patrons who reserve seats for each show are doubling up on their tickets for this one and the walls may bulge when the big fellows enter the ring.

The Garden card is complete with the signing of Jimmy Reed, of Erie, and Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, for the eight-round semi-final; Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown, with Jackie Murray, of the Hill, for the second bout, and Paul Rinske, of Charleroi, with Swede Johnson, North Side light-heavyweight, for the opener.

Harry Harris, Bellaire (O.) middleweight, has completed his hard training for his main bout debut at the Moose Temple tomorrow night against Indian Tiger West, of Monessen, and will merely taper off today. Harris is a heavy, solid hitter, while West is a sharp puncher. Paul Oger and Jimmy Kelly are in the semi-final of this show. Young Jack McVey meets Frank Monroe, veteran middleweight, of Fair Haven, in the second bout and Tom Anderson and Al Farone open the card.

Sparky Ewalt and Curley Klaus box the main bout of an amateur show under the auspices of the Pastorius A. C., in Lithuanian Hall, McKees Rocks, tonight.

Johnny Risko meets Dick Daniels in a feature bout in Boston tonight, and other bouts carded include Harry Smith vs. Gorilla Jones at New York and King Tut vs. Billy Townsend at Detroit. Tommy Loughran boxes Dave Maier and Paul Pantaleo meets Jimmy Gibbons at Milwaukee.

Johnny Willis and Eddie Reed, Negro boxers who have returned to Philadelphia after a stay in Erie, box in the Quaker City tonight, the former against Matty White and the latter against Young Terry McGovern.

PANTHER BACKS NO MATCH FOR IRISH STARS

By TAD JONES,
Member All America Board of Football.

Army, Dartmouth, Cornell, Pittsburgh, Harvard, Colgate, Penn and Carnegie faced real fire for the first time last Saturday and a few of them were badly singed. Only Army, Dartmouth, Cornell and Pitt remain unscarred. These four elevens join Fordham and New York University as the leading contenders in the East. Fordham, especially, stands out, having taken into camp both Boston College and Holy Cross in the same week. Now Fordham faces New York University. The Maroon has already proved its class, but New York University has not been extended. On the other hand, the Violet has been very impressive in every appearance. Apparently both teams are in excellent condition and I look to see Fordham squeeze out a victory by a very narrow margin.

Tad Jones

In spite of the score, Columbia played a fine game of football at Hanover and deserved a little better fate. Dartmouth was just too good. Columbia meets Williams now and should overcome the New Englanders, while Dartmouth stacks up against Harvard, who lost a close one to the Army. Dartmouth never fails to reach its peak against the Crimson and will be a favorite to win. Harvard, however, met the Cadets with a few regulars on the side lines, all of whom will return in time to take part in the battle against the boys from Hanover—and I believe will step back into the win column with a very close victory. Both Princeton and the Navy have found the going unusually rough this year, but this fact will hardly detract from the interest in the annual game between these ancient rivals. Princeton is always slow to develop and will have to improve greatly this week to hold the Midshipmen in check. The Tiger is not without real strength both in the line and backfield and when the two are co-ordinated will be a mighty formidable outfit. Princeton should win by a small score.

CORNELL VS. COLUMBIA

Cornell, fresh from a victory over Princeton, journeys to New York for the annual game with Columbia. The Big Red team is proving itself just that this year and will most likely return to Ithaca with another victory to its credit. Certainly Columbia men cannot view the outcome with any degree of optimism. Cornell will prove too strong.

Syracuse, after a heartrending defeat by Pittsburgh, should enjoy a breather in St. Lawrence. Hanson has already to his credit an eleven of real merit. Penn found a surprise package in Wisconsin and returns to Philadelphia sadder, but wiser. Against Lehigh the Red and Blue should be able to coast. Carnegie Tech also discovered that the reports of the the strength of the present Notre Dame squad were pretty well founded. At no time did the Irish lose control of the game and this against one of the finest elevens that Coach Wally Steffens has produced. It was simply a case of a very fine football team defeating an eleven not quite so good. There will "be joy in Mudville" if the University of Pittsburgh can turn back the Irish next Saturday, but I doubt very much if this can be accomplished. Baker is a quarterback of unusual ability, but so is Carideo. Hood is a big fellow who hits like a trip hammer and will be hard to stop. But the Panther backfield is hardly a match for Brill, Mullins, Schwartz, Savoldi and a few others of the Notre Dame outfit. The Notre Dame line proved its mettle in the Carnegie game and can be depended upon to hold up its end. The Panther eleven is not quite up to last year's in either offensive and defensive strength, and while the battle will be a good one Notre Dame should win handily.

YALE FACES ARMY

Yale and Army meet in the feature game of the week. Army came through in her first real test by stopping the Harvard eleven and will be tougher than ever as a result of the victory. Yale also showed great improvement in defeating Brown and will probably be in excellent physical condition to meet the Cadets. Booth against Brown gave a mighty fine exhibition of quarterback play and so did Sullivan and Wiener who followed him. The Cadets are stronger on the attack than in recent years.

By TOM BIRKS.

Playing a brilliant game both on the offensive and defensive, Burns A. A. handed the McKeesport Olympics their first defeat in the Western Pennsylvania Independent Gridiron Conference by a 6-to-0 score, under the flood lights at Parnassus High School Field last night. About 8,000 fans packed the grounds when the teams appeared.

The great Olympic club never had a chance to win, and only once throughout was it in position to score. Parkinson and Uansa were missing from the Burns lineup, but with Dunn playing a wonderful game, it appeared to be a different Black and White aggregation, and, for the first time this season, seemed to be going some place.

HALPATE SCORES

The only score came within one minute of time up. It was the sensational work of Halpate which finally carried the ball over the Tubers' line for the first time this season. Dunn had been throwing passes, and, in position, Burns smashed the ball over the line.

Burns came near to scoring in the first period, having the ball first and 10 on the Olympic seven-yard line, but a grounded pass in the end zone put a crimp into its scoring opportunity.

For Burns, Haplate, Dunn, and the whole line, were great. For the Tube City team, Dangerfield, Bull Boyer, McCurdy and Klinzing were splendid.

Two big independent games are scheduled in the conference Sunday. At the Bridgeville Speedway, the major battle of the day will be waged when the McKeesport Olympics tangle with Art Rooney's Majestic Radios. This is the battle fans have been awaiting, and it could hardly be played in better surroundings. The grandstand will take care of 10,000, and they will get a clear view of the game, for the field will be entirely clear of spectators.

MAJESTICS FAVORED

Many fans in the district feel that the Majestic machine with its super-aerial attack, will take the Olympics into camp.

The battle at the Quarry Stadium finds East Pittsburgh clashing with West View. This will be the first appearance of the famous Muzzio team on that historic field. West View is still undefeated and realize that winning from Joe Wambaugh's club is going to be a tough job.

The Burns club will travel to Akron Sunday to meet the Awnings. The game between Burns and the Ambridge Mystics will be staged at Parnassus High School Field Wednesday evening. Last night's lineup:

Burns—6.		Olympics—0.

that tournament in his own able manner, but in recent years this district has seen little of him.

Tilden's visit this time was a flying one. He played an exhibition match with Eddie Jacobs, of Pitt, at Youngstown, O., in the afternoon, and came to Pittsburgh for only a few hours before starting for his home in Philadelphia. Bill thinks the present crop of young American tennis players is the greatest ever, and foresees the eventual return of the Davis Cup to this country for a long stay.

TOUCHING OUT RUNNERS who slide into the keystone sack with glistening spikes foremost is one of the most difficult duties of a shortstop or second baseman. Some of them shy at it, and they don't last.

It was said of Dave Bancroft during his playing days that he found a way to beat it without exposing himself to danger. It was charged that Bancroft rarely touched a dangerous runner at second, but often bluffed at doing so by jabbing the ball down on the other side of the sack where the umpire could not see it and then tossing the pill back to the pitcher and running quickly to his position as if there were no doubt about the putout. And for years, it is said, he got away with it.

Johnny Evers

TY COBB always was rated as one of the toughest runners to tag that baseball had ever known. It is related that while Cobb was being discussed at a recent players' fanfest, and after one old infielder had declared it was almost impossible to tag him, Johnny Evers rose to take exception. "I don't know of a man whom I'd rather tag than Cobb if I were in the game," said the old star of the Cubs and Braves. "I don't know of a man, as a matter of fact, whom I'd rather see coming into my base. I think Cobb was the easiest man to tag I ever met on a baseball field. All that you had to do was to step aside, give him the right of way on the base path and tag him as he went sliding by. Of course, if you tried to block the base lines he'd cut you down. He had the right of way on the paths. That was the wrong way to play him. It was easy in the way I have described."

MAXIE ROSENBLOOM'S easy victory over Abie Bain in defense of the world light-heavyweight fistic crown was only in line with the expectations of practically every fight follower. Nobody except the promoters and the New York Athletic Commission could see where Bain had any business fighing for a championship.

Knockouts, even of the technical variety like the one in this case, have been rare in the career of Slapsy Maxie, and that he was able to stop Bain in 11 rounds is only further evidence that the signing of the practically unknown Abie for a title match, his first main bout outside of his home town of Newark, never should have been sanctioned.

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 40.

If I had luck in unearthing Al Simmons in the previous year, my fortunes even improved in 1925, when Robert Moses Grove, left-handed pitcher; Gordon Cochrane, catcher, and Jimmy Foxx, catcher and all-round man, stepped on the major league diamond that spring for the first time to start glorious careers in the fast set.

Connie Mack

It was my trusted friend, Jack Dunn, of Baltimore, who sent me Grove, and his purchase price beat anything the Athletics ever laid out for a ball player.

Grove, tall and slim, with hips like a snake, can throw the ball faster than any pitcher I ever have seen excepting Rube Waddell and Walter Johnson.

Every one of our scouts had a look at him in the previous year. By the outlandish enforcement of an outmoded law, passed in the eighteenth century, when there was no organized sport in America, the Athletics are prevented from playing Sunday ball at home. Alone of all American League teams they are not permitted to play in Philadelphia on a day when it would be most convenient for busy workers to see them.

In 1924, when the Athletics were scheduled in the East, on many a Sunday I would go to Baltimore, Newark or Jersey City to see Grove pitch.

Whenever I notified Jack Dunn in advance he always would pitch Grove in one of these three cities when he knew I was going to attend.

ON TRAIL OF GROVE

One Sunday in June of that year, a Philadelphia sports writer was surprised to see me on a train for New York. I was going to get off at Newark to see Grove pitch for Baltimore at the Newark park that afternoon.

This sports writers was a paragrapher and was on the way to New York to write about the Democratic national convention. His paper had taken him off baseball temporarily to write quips about the great political gathering.

He was amazed to see me.

"I thought you would be at home or at the seashore resting after your hard week's work," he said, adding, "don't you ever take a day off?"

"There is no rest for a manager during the baseball season," I replied with a smile, "and I'm going to drop off at Newark to look at a ball player."

That sports writer never forgot his newspaper instinct and that night filed an extra story to his newspaper, which went on to say that while the Athletic players were golfing or swimming in the surf at Atlantic City the veteran manager used the off day to scout for players.

That's exactly what a manager has to do. The ball park may be locked because of rain or an off day in the schedule, but he must carry on all the time.

Often I am pulled out of bed at 2 o'clock in the morning by my phone ringing and find an owner in San Francisco or Omaha on the other end of the wire.

LEFTY WELL SCOUTED

To get back to Grove, no minor league ever was more diligently scouted. After watching him several times that season, I agreed with my scouts that he was worth the king's ransom, Dunn wanted for him.

The financial details of the sale of Grove never have been printed. When the deal was made, the papers carried the information "that it was reported that $100,600 had been paid for him."

This odd price resulted in a lot of skepticism. Critics reasoned that a star minor leaguer might be sold for $95,000, $100,000, $105,000 or $110,000, but they could not conceive that in such a large deal the buyer and seller would be haggling over a pitiful $600 at the end of a $100,000 transaction.

Sterner doubters even went so far as to say that it was all "hooey," anyway, and that if the truth were known that the Athletics might have paid $40,000 or $50,000 in cash for the lefthander and then would give a lot of overvalued second-rate players to make up the alleged $100,600.

I will give the facts about this transaction now for the first time.

To get Robert Moses Grove, the owners of the Athletics ball club paid Jack Dunn exactly one hundred thousand and six hundred paper bills of the kind that comes off the printing press in the Treasury Building at Washington, D. C.

One hundred thousand and six hundred dollars in good United States specie, no more, no less, no trading stamps and NO PLAYERS. Not even a bat boy!

How the $600 was tacked on at the end of the purchase price is a story.

Dunn and I had agreed on $100,000 and I was beginning to draw up the papers when the Baltimore man interrupted me.

"Wait a minute, Connie," he piped in his thin voice, excitedly, "I've overlooked a bet."

"All the papers were full of the story when the Red Sox sold Babe Ruth to the Yanks for $100,000 that it was the record price for a sale in baseball history."

"Now let's at least beat that record. Put a few more hundred dollars to it. What do you say to making it $600 more? That will beat the Ruth sale price and I will give the $600 along with some more to Grove."

So, with a smile, I made the figures in the agreement read $100,600 and Dunn put his signature under mine.

That is exactly what Grove cost the Athletics, but I will add that we reimbursed Dunn in several payments and did not give him $100,600 in one check.

Wesco Sets Down McChesneytown, 6-0

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 23.—The Wesco team, of this city, set down the Big Red machine from McChesneytown, 6 to 0, in a night game played before more than 2,000 at Jeannette.

Wesco, outplaying McChesneytown all of the way, put over its winning score when Ross, former St. Vincent's College quarterback, carried over the lone touchdown. Bob Bytheway also played a brilliant game.

ROSENBLOOM STOPS BAIN IN ELEVENTH

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Maxie Rosenbloom, champion of all the light-heavyweights, cuffed an unqualified young man from Newark, N. J., named Abie Bain into a technical knockout last night in the eleventh round of one of the poorest title matches ever staged in Madison Square Garden.

Although the battle was scheduled for 15 rounds, many of the 4,400 customers had departed elsewhere by the time Maxie cut the left eye of the out-classed youngster so badly that Referee Lou Magnolia was forced to halt the bout. There had been no knockdowns. The eleventh round lasted one minute 47 seconds.

In all the 11 rounds Bain, hitherto a middleweight, who has done most of the fighting in New Jersey, managed to win only one, the second, when he hurt the champion with body clouts. The remainder of the time Abie was a target for Maxie's unorthodox slapping, poking and cuffing. The attack of the titleholder baffled him and he held and wrestled as often as he could.

Rosenbloom, in none-too-good condition and apparently lacking his usual ambition, toyed with Bain, riddling his face with left jabs, swinging an overhand right slap to the face, and generally making life miserable for the youngster.

Tartans Rest

Staging their only tough practice session of the week yesterday afternoon, Carnegie Tech's gridders tore into their work with a zest that was remarkable in the face of the defeat at the hands of Notre Dame last Saturday. It was proof that the 1930 squad possesses enough courage to come back quickly, and it also showed that Capt. Dreshar and his mates do not consider their season hopelessly ruined by a single defeat.

Coach Waddell held the squad on the field fairly late, for there will be only light work this afternoon, and perhaps none at all tomorrow, since the boys are to leave for Cleveland at 5 p. m. They will arrive in the Lake City about 8 p. m.

After yesterday's practice there was considerable doubt as to what eleven men would start the game. Waddell paid a lot of attention to his second team, and there is a chance that he will send a complete reserve outfit into the battle, content to win the game by any score, and save his regulars for the New York game on November 1, which will necessarily be preceded by some heavy work on the practice field.

Of course, it is definitely assured that Ducanis and Kavel will not to play, no matter which combination is used. Forced to the bench by injuries is a new experience for Ducanis, for the quiet Binghamton boy is one of the most rugged players Carnegie has, and has been considered the most improved man on the squad this year.

It would not be surprising were Johnny Graveno, the sophomore halfback, to start the game, even if Dutch Eyth does not get the first call. Armentrout has been replacing the Mars boy on the few occasions that he has been missing from the lineup.

Sees Good Prospects For Gain in Radio Business.

The head of the radio corporation, J. G. Harbord, stated before leaving for Europe that prospects for an upturn in the company's business during the fall and winter season was good. Buying is already showing some improvement, he said, expressing the belief that holiday demand would be good, while he would not make a definite prediction at the moment, he was of the opinion that earnings of the corporation for the year should amply cover preferred dividend requirements as well as being sufficient to assure the safety of the dividend on the "b" stock. For the half-year ended June 30, last, radio reported net profit of $505,098 after charges including federal taxes, equivalent to $1.27 a share on the $50 par 7 per cent preferred stock.

Unquestionably the disposition of shorts to take advantage of the low prices ruling in the forenoon yesterday to cover commitments outstanding for the decline, was a potent factor in checking the downward movement of stocks along about mid-morning. It had been pointed out earlier in the week that some of the larger traders having substantial commitments for short account uncovered, had placed bids somewhat under the market for the purpose of covering any further liquidation which developed. Evidently a number of the bigger shorts had not been forced to cover in the course of Monday's sharp rally, and found the opportunity which they had been seeking as Tuesday's liquidation carried over into the early part of yesterday's session, bringing a long list of new low prices for the movement in its wake.

Selling of the oil shares yesterday continued to stand out as one of the features of trading. A cut in Pennsylvania crude prices, following the taking of similar action recently in other producing areas naturally served to strengthen the belief that some corresponding revision in the mid-continent region is inevitable in the near future. Crude production for the week showed a slight gain, but gasoline stocks at refineries was reduced substantially, indicating that leading companies are determined to keep refined production closer to seasonal needs than was the case in recent years. With Standard Oil of New Jersey dipping to a new low at 52, Wall street was moved to recall the avowed determination of the founder of the company to buy a million shares of that stock last November at 50 and to wonder if such buying could be looked for if the stock gets down to that price on the current decline.

Many unwarranted rumors have been circulated during periods of market reactions concerning the maintenance of dividends by companies that are strongly fortified with cash reserves and in good financial condition. Such reports are due to knowledge of, reduced earnings for the current year. In that connection, favorable comment is heard on the action of the managements of General Motors, J. C. Penney and Texas Corporation in reassuring stockholders that there is no question concerning the current rate being declared. Similar action of officials of other companies would be beneficial, it is maintained.

On the whole, many of the statements of earnings for the third quarter have been fair reading, particularly in the light of some of the unusually pessimistic predictions which had been heard while the market was suffering from heavy liquidation. Now, it is said that the natural tendency of corporations is to report early when earnings are good and to delay reports when they are considered unsatisfactory. That may be true of some organizations, but the charge cannot be made against the leading companies. They have regular dates on which earnings are made public each quarter, regardless of what the showing is.

Corning Crude Oil Cut 15c a Barrel

Corning grade crude oil has been reduced 15 cents a barrel to $1.35. This follows a cut by the Joseph Seep Agency of 15 cents in the price of the Pennsylvania grade crudes and a similar cut in Bradford grade crude by Tidewater Pipe Line.

Forbes

Forbes Warned Curb About Bob Long Time Ago

By B. C. FORBES

I WARNED the New York curb exchange governors long ago against Charles V. Bob, the now missing promoter, and his stock-jobbery.

B. C. Forbes

When I appeared before them, their attitude toward me plainly was hostile. I had urged them to look into Bob's previous record and told them where they should seek the information; but I got the very strong impression that these curb brokers were more indifferent than anxious to dig into the truth.

Bob's market operations were then providing fat commissions for curb brokers, and the records, it is hinted, would show that he didn't neglect to hand out his favors to those brokers influential with those running the curb market.

As part of the rigging of the market in Rainbow Luminous, then one of Bob's star performers in the stock market, it was made difficult, sometimes impossible, for short sellers to borrow the stock, with the consequence that victims were compelled to cover.

Then Rainbow Luminous tumbled headlong. After having been skyrocketed to 73 in face of a United States Supreme Court decision branding the company as a patent infringer, the shares fell and fell until they touched 6, before they were kicked off the curb market when the Bob scandal reached the bursting-point.

Overtures made to me at the time I was striving to have the New York curb exchange investigate Bob's previous exploits and the stock operations he was then conducting, only served more thoroughly to convince me that Bob would sooner or later come a cropper.

My criticism of Bob's practices brought me bitter denunciatoion from his friends. He was notorious for his lavish handing out of money to win popularity and to inspire confidence in him. When dear old Dr. Reisner told me how nobly Mr. Bob had contributed to building the magnificent Broadway Tabernacle, I hinted that I would rather have Bob's money than his promise. The Bob pledges remain unpaid.

The authorities are talking much more than they are acting. At this writing no warrant had been issued for Bob's arrest, notwithstanding frequent official statements that the records reveal such action was warranted.

THE NEW YORK Curb Exchange has developed extraordinarily since the writer used personally to collect all of the daily sales when the brokers did their business out in the street. Its code has been tremendously improved. The Bob episode, however, suggests that there is room for further improvement if the public are to be protected against the exchange's facilities being abused by promoters of questionable reputation.

WAR DEMANDS heroic action. War having been declared against unemployment, the government, states, municipalities and wealthy corporations should not hesitate to take heroic action. We cheerfully spent billions—many billions—during the World War. Why not spend a fraction of that total in fighting unemployment? Abnormal conditions justify abnormal action.

Big corporations, financial institutions, other wealthy enterprises and organizations should not hesitate to contribute very generously to unemployment funds. The day is coming when industry will have to accept the responsibility and provide steady employment—or, if industry refuses to accept this responsibility, drastic and probably disastrous political measures must be expected.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S selection of Col. Arthur Woods, ex-police commissioner of New York, as directing head of unemployment relief, is ideal. He did similar work during the 1921 emergency and did it well.

LIKE MOST of us, the stock market is having its ups and downs. The upside will eventually win handsomely. Don't doubt that.

Columbia Gas Unit Wins Rate Appeal

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23. — The Ohio Supreme Court has dismissed an appeal by the city of Cincinnati from a lower court decision which enjoined the city from enforcing a gas rate ordinance passed in 1928 prescribing rates for the Union Gas and Electric Company, a subsidiary of Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation.

WAR MINE USE PREDICTED

Mines as developed during the World War, but with several secret improvements, will continue to be used, according to Rear Admiral Ralph Earle, president of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, who directed the placing of mines in the North Sea.

Rear Admiral Earle, who was here yesterday as guest of honor at a banquet of the Worcester alumni association in the University Club, accomplished the mine laying feat after leading war heads abandoned its possibility. He said a special mine had to be constructed and its secret was shared by the British, French and Italians. Since the war, America has improved the mine, but its increased efficiency is held in secret by United States, he said.

In his address last night, Earle defended the college youth, declaring he was as capable as those 25 years ago. He declared drinking was practically unknown at his school and the students were morally as fine as years ago.

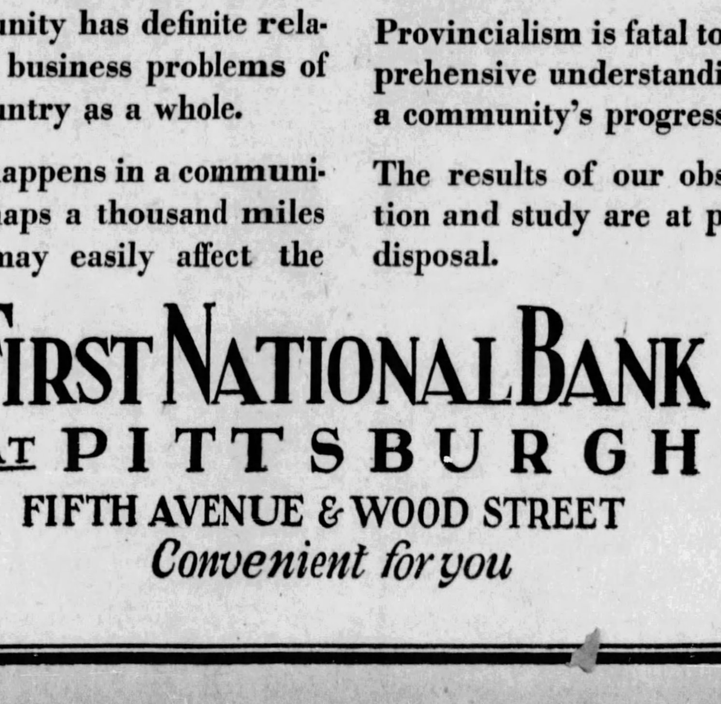
A FINGER ON THE NATIONAL PULSE



Successful banking demands national perspective on the problems of business.

The economic life of this community has definite relation to business problems of the country as a whole.

What happens in a community perhaps a thousand miles away may easily affect the welfare of this section.

It is our business as bankers to be informed concerning the national business situation.

Provincialism is fatal to comprehensive understanding of a community's progress.

The results of our observation and study are at public disposal.

STOCKS AGAIN ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Some Rail Shares Meet Opposition, but Other Groups Move Upward

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Share prices once more took the road to recovery in today's stock market, but made irregular progress, as several of the rail shares found block signals turned against them.

A break of 3 points in Alleghany Corporation and declines of a point or two in Chesapeake Corporation, Chesapeake and Ohio and Nickel Plate were conspicuous in a brief period of unsettlement during the morning.

Pere Marquette, a thinly traded issue, dropped 20 points in a few sales. The list soon recovered, however, under leadership of the utilities and prominent industrials. Shares selling up 3 to 5 included United States Steel, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, International Business Machines, American Telephone, North American, Stone & Webster, Atchison, American Tobacco B, Air Reduction, and Union Carbide. General Electric, Radio, du Pont, Sears, Woolworth, Loews and Underwood Elliott gained 2 or more. Trading was in light volume.

RAILS HEAVY

In the rails, heaviness of the Van Sweringen group was notable. Although Chesapeake and Ohio has maintained its earnings this year better than most trunk lines, such lines as Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate and Erie have been adversely influenced by the slump in automobile manufacturing and slow steel mill operations. The stock of Alleghany Corporation, the holding company, has been depressed by the reduced asset value of ivts holdings. Since some of these stocks have been put up as collateral against the Alleghany Corporation bonds and Van Sweringen Corporation notes, there has bee nsome nasty selling of those liens, although it is reported that ample collateral is being easily maintained.

Third quarter earnings statements comprised the bulk of the day's corporate neys, and were about in keeping with conservative expectations. Deferred recovery in corporate earnings has probably been responsible for much of the downward re-adjustment of share prices. Some brokers are advising their customers that this re-adjustment seems to have been completed in many cases. Conspicuous in the day's batch of statements was that of DuPont, which earned $1.05 a share in the third quarter against $1.80 a share on a slightly smaller number of shares in the same period of 1929. Almost half this reduction, however, was due to lessened returns from its General Motors investment. National Biscuit report was a bright spot, showing $1.01 a share, as increased from 89 cents a year ago, calculated on the same number of shares.

SPEAKERS HEEDED

Although Wall Street has been rather deaf of late to predictions of business recovery, optimistic analyses presented by speakers at the annual conference of major industries at Chicago yesterday appeared to have been reassuring. Furthermore, Wall Street expects speakers at the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute tomorrow to present a constructive outlook.

With United States Steel's quarterly statement due next week, commission house statisticians are busy making forecasts, and, generally, they look for about $2 a share, amply covering the $1.75 dividend. Persons who were predicting an extra dividend of $1 a short time ago, however, were less confident.

Call money continued in abundant supply, at 2 per cent, with large outside offerings and few takers at 1½. Bankers state that plentiful money may be expected almost indefinitely, on the basis of the present outlook.

Former Kroger Head Buys Nash Company

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23.—William H. Albers, former president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, has bought control of the A. Nash Company, makers of men's clothing, and will become a director shortly. Mr. Albers bought approximately 15,000 of the 25,715 shares of stock outstanding for around $1,500,000 from the estate of the late Arthur "Golden Rule" Nash.

Sales of the Nash Company in 1929 amounted to $8,322,366, on which net profits after expenses and Federal taxes were $307,883, or $11.98 a share.

Building Contracts Continue to Gain

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Contracts awarded for new construction of all types in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains during the week ended October 17 continues at a daily rate higher than September, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. The total for the week was $83,882,900, which brought the October total to $220,290,900, a daily rate of $15,735,100. The September rate was $12,764,000 per business day, while that for October last year was $17,140,100. For the year to October 17 contracts awarded in the territory aggregated $3,905,014,400 against $4,868,138,000 for the corresponding period last year.

CORPORATIONS SHOW FAITH IN FUTURE

Enormous Sums Spent on Research Assure Share In Long-Term Profits

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—In spite of the consuming fears of little people, the well managed giant corporations are displaying their faith in the economic future of the United States by continuing applied research on a grand scale.

Through experimentation in the laboratory, the large interests are assuring their participation in the new ideas, new methods, and new products of the future. Research helps to validate investments in industry by assuring stockholders that forward looking companies will not become obsolete. More than $200,000,000 is spent annually in 1,500 American laboratories for industrial research. The future greatness of American business is assured by scientists watching the test tubes in laboratories, rather than by timid amateurs watching the stock ticker.

M. S. Rukeyser

COSTLY RESEARCH

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company, through its subsidiary, the Bell Telephone Laboratories, spends more on research than the great universities —$20,000,000 a year.

President Hoover's attempts to alleviate unemployment and depression have recalled the ideal plan for economic co-ordination set forth in their book, "The Road to Plenty," by William T. Foster, economist and director of the Pollak Foundation, and Waddill Catchings, financier. Foster and Catchings, in a message to this column, however, assert that the administration did not act promptly enough or on a sufficiently large scale to carry out their prescription for preventing a major depression.

In this connection, these economists advised the government to broadcast facts about business, but not opinions, saying:

"Business needs the facts about money and credit which are published by the Federal Reserve Board. Equally helpful are the data on production, sales, stocks on hand and markets which are published by the Department of Commerce. Education of this sort is a proper function of the government."

SUGGESTS TRUST SHARES

A security analyist remarked that the best opportunity for a person who thinks stocks are now in a buying zone would be to acquire the shares of a general management investment trust, whose shares are quoted below book value, and which has senior, limited return securities ahead of the common stock.

The suspension of two stock exchange firms in recent weeks raises the question whether it is sound policy to permit houses to engage in both investment banking and marginal commission business. Both of the suspended houses had been engaged in general underwriting and investment banking. The governors of the New York Stock Exchange ought to investigate closely the bearing of a frozen position resulting from the investment banking end of the business on the ensuing difficulties.

Pure commission houses, engaged mainly in buying and selling shares for customers, have ridden the economic storm remarkably well. Undoubtedly the insistence by the Stock Exchange that member firms operate on adequate capital and keep their margins up has helped to develop this fine record. The banks have co-operated in delicate situations and pure commission houses are in position to pass through any type of markets.

SHOULD BE SEPARATE

The issue is beclouded when member firms become department stores of finance, taking on the risks of investment banking. A number of the great investment banking firms maintain membership in the Stock Exchange in order to get the benefits of reduced commission. That is perfectly proper, but most of these investment banking houses do not do a marginal commission business. There is no question that these two types of activity should be definitely segregated. The Stock Exchange ought to decide whether it is advisable to permit members to perform both sets of activity, each of which is entirely legitimate and necessary.

A. H. Berwald, advertising executive, informs this column that his family collected old rings and other jewelry, which were in disuse around the house, and sold them for old gold, realizing $20, which was available for things which the family budget did not provide for. He thinks that if other families would do the same they would enlarge their purchasing power, and help to build up trade revival.

The obsolete jewelry is useless, Mr. Berwald pointed out, and could be exchanged for products that people want. Gold, of course, has a fixed price, and the demand at the mint is unlimited.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Lifting of selling pressure enabled the curb market to make small advances in dull trading today. Most of the activity was in the utilities, where covering went forward quietly.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Quarterly Statements Show Decline

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE FIRST OF the quarterly earnings statements to be published this week offer anything but cheerful reading matter. Following the general expectation, most of them show sharp declines from a year ago as well as reductions in comparison with the second quarter.

Many of the companies which had been able to maintain earnings at a fairly high rate during the first half of the year are now reflecting the continuation of the depression. As an example, the makers of refractory materials enjoyed a good volume of business up to last summer. Steel mills were taking advantage of the period of dullness to reline furnaces. This work has been completed, however, and there has been no revival in production to cause additional demand for fire brick for repair work.

Other organizations which had large orders on their books at the beginning of the year were able to keep production at a high rate during the early part of 1930 but these companies are now finding it difficult to find new business. The filling of these back log orders and the lack of sales which followed has been apparent in some of the sharp declines in third quarter earnings and may be reflected to an even greater extent in the final months of the year.

Fourth Quarter Prospects

WITH THE EXCEPTION of companies which benefit from holiday trade, such as retail stores, the fourth quarter may be even less satisfactory from an earnings standpoint than the third.

In lines such as steel, where the final three months of the year are almost invariably quiet, the slump in profits for the present quarter will be particularly pronounced. The reduction of steel mill operations which took place last week is an indication of this trend. In this particular industry lower prices will also be a factor.

The railroads have been suffering keenly from the loss of traffic during most of the year. While the decline in car loadings may continue, many of the carriers have been able to make drastic reductions in operating costs which may be expected to compensate for further loss of revenue.

Macaulay Has Plan

WIDESPREAD INTEREST has been shown in the plan for changing the trend of business activity suggested yesterday by T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Insurance Company of Canada. The proposal can be numbered among the few which have practical possibilities since it may be placed into operation and may be controlled by a single group of men. While the complications attending business depressions are so great that it is difficult to judge the plan, the suggestion appears logical.

Macaulay, after outlining the effect of changes in the volume of currency in circulation, stated that the country is suffering from excessive deflation just as a short time ago it was suffering from excessive inflation. He expressed the opinion that the trend of commodity prices would be reversed if the amount of currency in circulation should be increased. He proposed that this be brought about by the purchase of United States government securities by the Federal Reserve Banks. The buying of about $500,000,000 worth of these bonds, which would not tax the resources of the system, was estimated as a sufficient amount to test the feasibility of the plan.

He expressed the opinion that the liberation of such an amount of currency would greatly increase banking resources and would change the trend of commodity prices. His remarks also contained the interesting opinion that continued prosperity is dependent on rising or at least stable commodity prices.

BIG PORTUGAL BANK CLOSES

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Banco do Minho, the largest financial institution in Northern Portugal, crashed today within a few hours of opening after government appointment of a receivership.

The public stormed the doors asking for deposits, demands being met up to 40 per cent. Soon afterward a ministry-of-finance decree was bulletined stating that since the capital and reserves of the bank had been absorbed by its losses, the government, to avoid worse, had decided to take extraordinary measures in the interest of public credit.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of our beloved daughter, Helen Bartley Warren, who passed away one year ago today, October 23, 1929. Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
Sadly missed by her husband, daughter, parents, brother and sister.

DAILY TRUE STORY

'20 Years Elapse'

"It's all settled, then?"

"Sure is, Ben. When I say a thing I stick to it," Jake Mason answered.

Ben Porter, the young deputy sheriff of Upper Falls, nodded complacently.

"Reason I asked was because Nina told me yesterday to go and roll my hoop."

"What hoop?"

"Oh, it was just some smart talk she picked up when she was to see her Aunst Elviry in New York. It sort of means for a feller to go away."

"Humph."

"I told her not to be so pert and uppish. I told her there was slews of gals 'round Upper Falls would be mighty glad to have me marry 'em."

"Guess that's so, Ben. What did Nina say?"

"Oh, she said for me to go and marry all of 'em and see if she'd bust out cryin'."

"Gals like to talk a lot—don't you pay no heed to what she says. She won't be 18 for a couple months. I'm her legal gardeen as well as her lawful stepfather. When I tell her to climb right down off her high hoss and marry you, she'll just about do it."

"Good night, Mr. Mason. I'll be over tomorrow forenoon in my car and we'll go to Parson Wilder's. I'll have the marriage license, I guess if you go along and stand right with her she'll do as you say."

"She'll have to."

Ben Porter slid off the front porch where he had been sitting and walked around to the big seat under the butternut tree where Nina Carson usually sat to read or sew. Usually Nina was reading books of plays.

Overhears Plot

But Nina wasn't there when Ben got to the big round seat under the butternut tree, so he crossed the yard to his car, climbed in and drove away.

Nina Carson had been much nearer to her stepfather and Ben Porter than the butternut tree. She was out on the old porch roof right over their heads and she had heard every word they said.

Now she was sitting in her room doing some of the hardest thinking she had ever indulged in.

The situation was a grave one for Nina.

In the first place, there was Wally Granger, in New York. Wally was a real actor. He boarded with Nina's Aunt Elvira in New York. She kept a theatrical boarding house. If Jake Mason had known that, he never would have let Nina visit her. Jake Mason didn't approve of the stage and he certainly did not see any good in "play-actor" folks.

As for Ben Porter, Nina had never liked him. At school he had been a bully, also a "dud" or, in Upper Falls vernacular, a "numbskull." Also Ben was lazy. Through a pull with relatives he had held down minor town offices since he was 21, until, at 30, he got the appointment as a deputy sheriff. That was Ben's "meat." He was just bully enough and "slick" enough to make the office pay him big returns.

Leaves Home

Mason called Nina after Ben had left.

"You get your best dress ready," he said, "because tomorrer's your weddin' day. Ben's coming at nine, and you'll be married right away."

Nina went up to her room. At the bottom of her basket of quilting pieces was a piece of silk. She unwound it and brought out money—$94 in bills. She had been saving a long while.

There was a train that went through Upper Falls at 1 a. m. If it wasn't necessary to stop at the water tank this train wouldn't even have hesitated there, but it did stop. The station was two miles from Nina's home.

At 12:30 she let herself out of the front door because Mason slept in the room over the kitchen. She opened the big shed door where the car was kept, and as it was one of the light cars, she was able to push it down grade to the highway. Then she got in and started it. The car sounded like a field artillery in action when it was starting. Mason was awakened; he got a glimpse in the moonlight of Nina driving away.

Straight to the telephone he went and called up Ben Porter, giving him the information.

Half-way to the station Ben, in his car, saw Nina approaching. He got out of his car, stood in the middle of the road and yelled to her to stop.

Nina didn't stop; she swerved to avoid hitting Ben and smashed into his car, which promptly rolled down the deep ditch on a pile of rocks, where a few odds and ends in the car came apart and the thing started to burn merrily.

Although the front bumper on Nina's car scraped the tire, she drove on to the station.

Ben stood in the middle of the road and cursed and yelled that he always got his man and that some day he'd get her.

In New York at Aunt Elvira's, Nina was welcomed. Especially by Wally Granger, who was then rehearsing with a road show.

"Could you do a maid's part and live on $40 a week and traveling expenses?" Wally asked her.

She could, she said, and she got the job.

Next season she went out with the company at better money and she was taking very much better parts. Wally was helping her. Wally was a great fellow. It was understood that they would be married at the end of this season.

As Dolores in the play, "Memories," Nina was doing well. In the first two acts she was first a girl of 16, and then a matron of 36.

"Memories" was billed to appear at the Upper Falls Opera House. This amused Nina.

It excited Ben Porter, who was now the high sheriff of the county.

Sheriff Foiled

High Sheriff Ben Porter sat in the back of the "Opera House" during the first two acts, and the beauty of Nina, in her makeup, didn't add to his joy. He never forgot how he failed to marry her or how she smashed his car, caught the train and gave him what was locally known as the "horse laugh."

Word went back stage that Sheriff Porter was going to arrest Nina. But the show had to go on.

"I've come to arrest Nina Carson," he announced.

"Sorry; she left our company yesterday," Wally Granger told him.

"Liar! I seen her on this stage tonight!"

With that Ben began to search.

But he couldn't find Nina anywhere and, after a thorough search and watching the final curtain come down, Wally told him Miss Carson had learned of his coming and had fled after the second act.

Ben rushed out and got a deputy in his car. They started to search the countryside.

Meanwhile the company made that 1 o'clock train out and into the next state.

The next day the local paperhanger, who was doorkeeper at the opera house, said to Ben: "Look here, Ben, didn't you read that programmy? It says 20 years elapses between the second and third acts. That made th' Carson girl 20 years older—she was that old woman in th' show—you remember th' old woman? Guess you thought she was old—if you'd washed off them wrinkles and tooken off that gray wig you'd a seen Nina Carson underneath!"

"Good gosh—don't never tell!" Ben exclaimed.

But he did tell, and everybody knew about it—and laughed.

NEW YORK.—If carelessness with money indicates the return to national prosperity, business conditions are rapidly improving, according to the management of the New Yorker Hotel. Between March and August the average weekly sum carelessly left in trousers sent to be pressed was smaller than the late August and early September average. The hotel returned to guests more than $20,000 left in pockets during the last eight months.

Perhaps if everybody could leave more money in their pants, and send them to Roger Babson to be pressed, quite a healthy sentiment for good times could be built up.

Some statistician should compare the amount of small change found back of the cushions of overstuffed furniture during September with the amount found during August.

"New England communities have gone in strong for multi-colored fireplugs, thereby providing another outlet for club women's efforts along town-beautiful lines.

BLINKING SONG
We Make No Charge For Alterations.

Backward, turn backward, O Time! in your flight,
Make me an optimist just for tonight!
Broker, call back from that echoless shore,
Take me again (and again) as of yore,
Smooth from my forehead the furrows of care,
Yank all the silver threads out of my hair;
Hint of quick profits on margin to reap—
Teach me again how to smile in my sleep.

Broker, dear Broker, the year has been long
Since last I was flushed by your lullaby song—
We sold on the bulges, we bought on the dips,
Recall how I plunged on Detroit Buggy Whips?
You urged me to hold—and I did, you'll remember;
I held like a drowning man all through November,
I held (I'm still holding!) in spite of the smash—
That is, I'm still holding—holding the sack.

A Deserved Honor

Justice Robert S. Frazer, of Pittsburgh, Is to Become Chief of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, has tendered his resignation. The motive does him credit. His term will expire in January, and if he should serve until then he would have to take up new cases which he would be unable to finish.

Pittsburgh has felt somewhat of a proprietary interest in the chief justice because of his local relatives. Mrs. von Moschzisker was a Pittsburgher. The next chief justice will be Justice Robert S. Frazer, of Pittsburgh, whose seniority on the Supreme bench will entitle him to succeed Justice von Moschzisker. It will be a deserved honor.

It has been an excellent thing for Pennsylvania to have at the head of its highest court during the last 20 years a man with the foreign-sounding name of von Moschzisker. It has served to remind us during troublous times when bigotry and intolerance were rife, that our citizenship is drawn from many lands and that opportunity to advance is offered to all.

Justice von Moschzisker, the son of a native of Poland, was left an orphan at 13, and worked his way up from a job as a lawyer's office boy at $3 a week.

When law and justice have not been in harmony Justice von Moschzisker has preferred justice. We believe that is also true of Justice Frazer.

The School Budget

Expenses Are Mounting, But We Can Be Grateful That No Tax Increase Is Contemplated.

Citizens are less inclined, we believe, to resent lavish expenditures for educational purposes than for any other public enterprises. Taxpayers who would angrily oppose municipal improvements of various kinds involving the expenditure of money will often vote bond issues for schools. They may grumble a little, but they acquiesce.

That is likely to be the attitude of those who study the budget for running the public schools of Pittsburgh for 1931, as presented to the Board of Public Education at its meeting Tuesday. They will not be pleased to learn that it is going to cost them $407,736 more to run the schools during the coming year than it cost in 1930; but they will not be willing to deny that any of the contemplated expenditures are necessary.

It is to be expected that with growth of population the cost of the school system should increase. That is not saying, however, that the cost per capita to the taxpayers should increase. If there are additional children, requiring new schools, new teachers, there are also additional parents to share the expense. Unhappily the individual taxpayer's burden has steadily been made heavier.

We can be grateful, however, for the School Board's statement that it does not expect to increase the school tax rate for 1931.

Bus Problems

They Are Fruitful Subjects of Discussion at Meeting Here of Automotive Engineers' Society.

With the consent of the Public Service Commission street railways are to be abandoned in New Castle. Buses are to supplant the trolleys. That is the trend in many cities.

Buses are taking the place of the steam railroads, too. An eastern line reported only a few days ago that because of bus competition the number of passengers that it carried to New Jersey resorts last season was 500,000 less than the year before.

The Society of Automotive Engineers, meeting in Pittsburgh this week, is devoting much of its time to the consideration of bus problems. It has chosen a fruitful subject of discussion.

Motor bus transportation has had such a mushroom-like growth that the public authorities are bewildered. They do not seem to know how to deal with it. They undertake to treat bus lines as if they were steam or electric railroads, and the treatment is unsatisfactory to all concerned.

The automotive engineers' discussion should contribute something worth while to help in the solution of the problem of bus regulation.

Arbor Day

Grown-Ups as Well as School Children Will Find Study of Trees and Birds Profitable.

Bearing the Great Seal of the Commonwealth, a document has been signed by Gov. John S. Fisher proclaiming tomorrow as Fall Arbor and Bird Day.

The proclamation, addressed particularly to school children and their teachers, also deserves the consideration of the general public. It calls upon all to give especial thought tomorrow to the care of the forests, trees and birds, to consider what trees do for man in his home, industrial and community life, and how important bird life is to the trees, orchards, forests and vegetation.

There is good reason for these official semi-annual Arbor and Bird Days. Pennsylvania, in common with the rest of the United States, squandered its natural resources extravagantly. Only a few decades ago it awoke to the realization that its virgin forests were gone and its birds and other wild life sadly depleted.

Conservation has repaired much of the damage.

The Arbor Day proclamations help us not to forget the lesson.

Polishing the Cutlery

Before looking over the light fall operations how about that new carving set invented for the surgeons?

It is an electrical knife that will run on an ordinary bulb socket.

When we had our last operation it was decidedly old fashioned. The surgeons started digging at midnight; around dawn they came out on the Jersey side, looked around and said, "How the old place has changed."

Then we sat up on the diving board and yelled, "It was me all the time."

That's what business needs. A spirit of play with each bankruptcy.

When we heard about the electrical bazizzers we were afraid that the consulting experts were going in for buzz saws in an attempt to speed up production.

But it seems that they are only trying to keep step with the improved machinery in delicatessen stores.

The doc picks you out of the appendix squad, turns on the switch, and says:

"How do you want yourself sliced? Thick or thin?

So you have a voice in the operation if it's only a whisper.

There isn't anything jovial about the whole matter. But even when it's the worst we want the best. Science has been making great leaps forward.

But we always seem to be around when it skips a step.

We know that when it comes our turn again to be challenged to one of those lopsided duels with the electrical knife the surgeon will suddenly stop and ask:

"How do you turn this danged thing off?"

That's when mammy songs won't save you. The operation is always a success because the guinea pig hasn't got any friends on the jury.

This is a great world we're trying to live in. After the doctors get through their barbecues you are chased by a sleepy bear who thinks you are a hollow tree.

But science is trying to help us all it can. And all we can hope for is plenty of ether and no short circuits.

THE GULF STREAM

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most remarkable features of the countless phenomena of the sea, which is almost infinite in its variety is the Gulf Stream. Scientists have studied it for many years; but it is open to question whether any adequate explanation of its origin has ever been found. It is a mighty river in the ocean, and its magnitude may be realized when we state that the volume of water which the Mississippi River empties into the Gulf of Mexico is not one two-thousandth part of the volume which flows from the Gulf of Mexico in the form of the Gulf Stream.

This mighty oceanic river of warm water has banks and bottom, not of earth, but of cold water. Its waters are not only warm, but blue—an indigo blue all the way from the Gulf of Mexica to the Carolina coast. Its width varies from 40 to 50 miles; it is about 200 fathoms deep, and it flows steadily along with a velocity of three and a half to five miles per hour. The line of junction with common sea water is very plain; and sometimes one half of a vessel may be seen to be submerged in the Gulf Stream and the other half in the common water of the sea.

From the South American coast a great flood of warm water sweeps through the Caribbean Sea into the Gulf of Mexico. Out of the Gulf there flows, between the Peninsula of Florida on one side and Cuba and the Bahamas on the other, this mighty volume of the Gulf Stream. It flows northward roughly parallel to the coast of North America; and its temperature off Sandy Hook is as high as 75 degrees Fahrenheit. Finally, when it encounters the southwest winds, it is diverted from its course and turns eastward in its flow across the Atlantic. It broadens in its flow, with a consequent decrease in velocity. In its sweep across the Atlantic, it forms three distinct currents; one moving towards Iceland, one curving down past Spain and one flowing past the west coast of Ireland and Scotland, and reaching even the west coast of Norway.

The Gulf Stream has a peculiar cross-section. The top of it is like a slightly rounded roof. If a ship drifting along the Gulf Stream lowers a boat, the latter drifts either to east or west, depending upon which side of the axis of the stream it happens to be on; but the vessel drifts along with the stream in the direction of its course. The shallow roof current from the middle toward either edge carries the boat to one side; but the larger vessel, which rests deep in the stream, affected by this superficial transverse flow and drifts with the Gulf Stream itself. Wreckage on the outer edge of the Gulf Stream is not thrown on the North American coast, being unable to stem the eastward flow of the roof-current.

Every now and then, variations in the course of the Gulf Stream are noted. Such a variation was reported not long ago by Sir Arthur Rostron, master of the Berengaria. Such variations, however, are always comparatively small. The Gulf Stream does not always flow in the direction set down on the chart. In the Northern Hemisphere the winds drive the water to the right; and the rotation of the globe deviates the water to the right in the Northern Hemisphere. The "cold wall" which separates it from the coast of North America has a pronounced effect upon the course of the Gulf Stream. Other influences which affect the Gulf Stream are the tides, the hydraulic head in the Gulf of Mexico, and the temperature, salinity and density of the waters. Fluctuations or variations in the Gulf Stream are due to the combined effect of all meteorological and oceano-graphical conditions.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I read this the other day—"One should not make the mistake of taking other people or oneself too seriously. Life on this planet is so short that one ought to crowd it with enjoyment, with laughter, with jokes, with a devil-may-care manner that characterizes true youthfulness."

And there you have a fairly accurate statement of our twentieth century attitude toward life. The philosophers say that it is a reaction against the sentimentality of our nineteenth century elders who took themselves so seriously that life became a sour and sloppy affair. But I suspect there's more to it than that. We're secretly afraid, we smarty moderns. Afraid we'll make ourselves ridiculous by aiming too high and hoping too much. And afraid of cheating ourselves out of today's fun by planning for tomorrow's adventure.

Why are we here? We don't know. Where are we going? We don't know that either. So what's the use of acting seriously about a life that may end tomorrow? Better to play! Grab while the grabbing is good! Then if the end comes, we'll have the laugh on Death instead of Death having the laugh on us.

So we reason in our smartness and fear. But it's weak and silly reasoning. FOR EVEN IF THIS IS ALL THE LIFE THERE IS, ALL THE MORE REASON FOR LIVING IT IN THE GRAND MANNER.

We smile at the seriousness of our grandfathers—we think their lives were dreary and drab. But they actually treated themselves much more handsomely than we do. They took themselves seriously—as gods do. They acted as if they were lords over life and death. They sacrificed with a splendid recklessness like great gamblers. They took risks and went on large adventures with their souls. Their lives may have been somber but they moved through them with dignity and solemnity. Maybe life is a trivial joke, as these moderns would have us believe—but they staged it like grand opera.

As for us, we made it vaudeville, Kid Komics. We gaily refuse to grow up. We cling to the viewpoints, interests and amusements of sixteen-year-olds. We duck responsibility—dodge risks—consider sacrifice "silly sentimentality"—try in every way to treat life as a joke. And so we cheat ourselves of whatever beauty and meaning life might hold.

Don't do it! Treat yourself seriously. You may not be immortal, but you can act as if you were. You may not have all time at your command, but you have within you beauty and courage and faith and tenderness, which are at your command. It does not need a million years to make these things worth while. They are worth while now. And they will make life worth while even if you only use them for a year.

Treat yourself seriously. Stop living like a high school freshman. Dare to grow up. Dare to take risks. Dare to live up to the dreams within yourself—

For in the depths of your own heart you DO want to take yourself seriously. You DO want to make a great adventure of life. Then DO it. Don't let a lot of 'fraid cat smarties kid you out of it.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Each Man's Part

If each man did his part to make
Earth brim with gladness,
Adventuring gaily wherever life led,
If each brought to the days just a touch of spring's madness,
Just a trace of the glamour that
April can shed,
Then always Earth would blossom
and brighten like summer
And song would be swet on the winds of the world,
A welcome would wait for the timid newcomer
Where the banners of friendship were always unfurled.
There would be more of beauty
where all men are faring,
More of joy would be given to the world's common ways
If love were a thing for each lonely heart's sharing,
If truth lent bright glimpses of heaven to the days.
If each man did his part, then would rapture go winging
From ocean to ocean, equator to pole,
And the measures of joy would be endlessly singing
Their message triumphant in every man's soul.

Text For Today

The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple.—Psalms, xix:7.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. Claud Studebaker, pastor, First Brethren Church, East End.)

This Will Interest Mr. Sloan

Who Will Give Us This Car in Quantity Production?

AN AUTOMOBILE BUILT TO BEAT THE WIND.

American manufacturers turn out cars by the millions and are necessarily slow to change their models. Even a slight change may cost millions of dollars.

In Europe, where cars are made in small numbers more or less by hand, interesting experiments are tried.

Being in no hurry, making cars few at a time, Europeans can make all sorts of experiments. Here is one of them, a car built to defeat the resistance of the wind, called the "Burney streamline car."

The importance of lines offering resistance to the air cannot be exaggerated. At the United States Aviation Laboratory in Washington, a cowl has been perfected that goes over the airplane engine and increases the speed of the plane 15 miles an hour.

Traveling along at 30, 40 or 50 miles, air resistance is comparatively unimportant.

But, in the higher "brackets," the top speeds, in which the English thus far are champions, a car of this kind might help you toward the 200 miles per hour mark.

Everybody knows the importance of a well designed hull for a yacht. Failure or success in a race depends on the amount of resistance that the boat offers to the water as it goes through.

Equally important is the shape of an automobile that ploughs through the RESISTING AIR, as a boat ploughs the water.

The automobile above might be made attractive to pedestrians by building a padded cow-catcher out in front to pick up the jay-walker. In fact, the agile might even jump on the cow-catcher, run up over the slanting roof and down over the rear.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Rumors grow that a supreme effort is being made to inject a shot of swank into New York's tottering social structure—"The 400." It is aimed to recreate something that not only shines with a Ward McAllister effulgence but has the puff of a Parker House roll.

The gradual decadence of society set in about 15 years ago and the tempo of disintegration increased rapidly the past few years. The famed Horseshoe Circle at the Metropolitan opera, once a show window for the favored, is no longer studded with strictly blue bloods.

Real Social Registerites have been slowly withdrawing and collecting at European spas for their festivities. Even Newport turned slightly bourgeoise. And New York was left to a rather hybrid crowd that was ingloriously dubbed "cafe society," featuring white ermine coats.

This clique is comprised of showoffs making the rounds of smart cafes for luncheon and dinner and following it up with night club cheerio. Those tagged as debutantes began to pick up side money endorsing cigarettes, facial creams and sponsoring "ghosted" stories in magazines.

Mothers of aristocratically eligible daughters—the horror of it—went into vulgar trade, opening perfume shops, beauty salons and such, along the Gold Coast. Illustrious names began to be coupled with those of the stage and screen, parlor socialists and unconventionals of an ultra-Bohemia.

Dowagers, who queened it so long, snorted with indignation and further emphasized aloofness. They would not appear in public save abroad. News of activities were withheld from society editors. And bell-cows hibernated for a long sulk. And now comes fresh wind to the lagging sail.

The new society will be limited to exactly 400, in contrast to the quarter million today. It is likely the new leader will be the youthful Mrs. Vincent Astor, who is young, popular and tactful. She is likewise bulwarked by a proper social lineage.

And that noble pastime of the mauve decade—chewing tobacco—is almost a memory in New York. Many things brought about its passing, but the chief deterrant was arrest for violating the anti-spitting ordinance. Tobacco shops keep only a few brands of plug and out of sight. The only big sale is on the water front.

From London Sketch: "A New York columnist takes his dog wherever he goes. The dog is very popular."

Frazier Hunt has found the secret of happy travel. He journeys like the seagull—carrying nothing along but an appetite.

The waggish proprietor of a sawdust eatery on West street Frenchily flosses up his pencil-scrawled menu with: Soup en bowl 5 cents; mashed potatoes en pile 10 cents and apple pie a la slab 15 cents.

Likewise a Broadway dance hall's newest dances are: The Lindy Hop, quicker than a flash; The Mooch, wiggles from Harlem and The Pin Wheel, faster than a top.

Frederick Lonsdale, London playwright, has given Broadway some of its most sophisticated plays. His themes skip from promiscuous cocktail parties to sotto voce perversions. Yet he is not the man about town. He lives in a vine-clad Sussex cottage, writes under a flowering wisteria bower, and at sunset tramps through the woods with a sheep dog. He has not attended a London party for many seasons.

An editorialist lets go in a half column, wondering what will be done with the leftover supply of peanuts at the Polo Grounds last season. After snapping into a trance, it is a personal conviction he can get a faint idea visiting the Polo Grounds next season.

"I read your articles," writes D. F. G. Flagstaff, Ariz., "and things in New York appear the same as they were 20 years ago. Does nothing change there?"

Nothing. The same fellow still runs the hotel.

Wise Words

One's real life is so often the life that one does not lead.—Wilde.

To have a relish for ancient coins it is necessary to have contempt for the modern.—Addison.

To revile your family, your church, your trade, your country is a very unsavory thing.—Spurgeon.

All service ranks the same with God—
With God, whose puppets, best and worst,
Are we; there is no last nor first.
—Browning.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may be an elderly person priding yourself on your wisdom.

You think the present generation is lacking in knowledge of fundamentals.

You believe their study and their thinking is superficial.

You see little in the world of today that is of value.

To you, the past held the great thinkers, the brilliant scholars when there was superiority in all lines of endeavor.

Have you ever thought that unless your wisdom has advanced with the times and has kept pace with the natural changes, it is of bygone day?

You have not accepted the best of today and put it alongside of the best of past years.

In other words you have not added what late years have discovered and accomplished to the worthwhile things of yesteryear.

It is easy and comfortable perhaps, not to make any effort to advance with and understand the true meaning of what is going on in the modern world.

Just sit back and be contented with the past may be satisfying to you.

But in such conditions you have no right to criticize or censure the youth of the present since you have made no effort to understand them.

Your idea of valuation was all right in its day, but needs modernizing.
